STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"The law relating to solemnization in India of marriages of persons professing the Christian religion is at present distributed over two English Acts of Parliament and three Acts of the Indian Legislature.

The object of this Bill is to reduce into a smaller compass and simplify the existing law on this subject by the consolidation of the different enactments referred to, and at the same time to amend the law in those matters in which it has been shown to be defective.

For example, by Act V of 1865 it is provided that marriages between Native Christians shall be valid where the ages of the contracting parties are not less than sixteen and thirteen years, respectively, and where they do not stand in relation to each other within the prohibited degrees of consanguinity or affinity.

It has been very forcibly represented by the President and several members of the Bengal Christian Association that this provision of the law works injuriously by freeing the children of Native Christian parents from the control which all other parents can legally exercise over their sons and daughters ere the latter have attained their majority.

The Bill requires the consent of the parents or guardians of Native Christians to a marriage between them, where the age of either of the parties about to contract such marriage is less than eighteen years, except in cases in which the minors have been altogether separated from their parents or natural guardians, and by reason of such separation are not properly subject to their control.

There is also some ambiguity in regard to the provisions of the law respecting the submission of returns, and the disposal of the records of the registration of marriages solemnized between Native Christians.

The Bill lays down distinctly how such marriages are to be recorded in all cases, and provides for the disposal of the record. It also substitutes for the fixed rates of fees in respect of marriages solemnized by or before Marriage Registrars, a power to the Local Government to regulate such fees and their remission; and lastly, extends the Marriage law to all places within the territories of Native Princes in alliance with Her Majesty, in respect of marriages between British subjects professing the Christian religion."

The Indian Christian Marriage Act
Preamble—Note 1

[1] The object of this Act is not to prevent people from marrying as they wish but to enable them to protect themselves and their posterity by a lawful and binding marriage if they wish to be married as Christians. (Vol 5) 1918 All 168 (172): 40 All 393: 19 Cri L Jour 615.

[2] This Act has to be so construed that no case is made to fall within its scope which does not fall both within the reasonable meaning of its terms and within the scope and spirit of the Act. Care must be taken to see that no case is brought under it which is not within its express language. (Vol 5) 1918 All 168 (169, 170): 40 All 393: 19 Cri L Jour 615.

[3] There is nothing in this Act as regards the age of consent. The age of consent for a Christian marriage is determined according to the law in England at the time of the marriage. (Vol 20) 1933 All 135 (136): 55 All 243.

Pt. I, p. 1555; also by notification under the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874 (14 [XIV] of 1874), S. 3 in the following Scheduled Districts, namely:— The Districts of Hazaribagh, Lohardaga and Manbhum and Pargana Dhalbhum and the Kolhan in the District of Singhbhum [see Gazette of India, 1881, Pt. It has also been extended by notification under the same Act, S. 5 to the Sadiya Frontier Tract, see Assam Gazette, 1920, Pt. II, p. 1938.

The District of Lohardaga now called the Ranchi District (see, Calcutta Gazette, 1899, Pt. I, p. 44), included at this time the Palamau District, which was separated in 1894.

[b] Substituted by A. O. for "the territories of Native Princes and States in alliance with Her Majesty". For the definition of the expression "Indian State," see the General Clauses Act, 1897 (10 [X] of 1897), S. 3 (27b). [c] The commencement clause was repealed by the Repealing Act, 1874 (16 [XVI] of 1874).

"Minor" means a person who has not completed the age of twenty-one years, and who is not a widower or a widow;

* * * * *

The expression "Christians" means persons professing the Christian religion;

And the expression "Native Christians" includes the Christian descendants of Natives of India converted to Christianity, as well as such converts.

^b["Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages" means a Registrar General of Births, Deaths and Marriages appointed under the Births, Deaths and Marriages Registration Act, 1886]:

[a] The definition of Native State which read "Native State means the territories of any Native Prince or State in alliance with Her Majesty" was repealed by A. O. [b] Inserted by the Births, Deaths and Marriages Registration Act, 1886 (6 [VI] of 1886), S. 30.

PART I.

THE PERSONS BY WHOM MARRIAGES MAY BE SOLEMNIZED.

4. Every marriage between persons, one or both of whom is ^a[or are] a Christian or Christians, Marriages to be solemnized shall be solemnized in accordance with the provisions of the next following section; and any such marriage solemnized otherwise than in accordance with such provisions shall be void.

[a] Inserted by the Amending Act, 1891 (12 [XII] of 1891), S. 2 and Sch. II.

Section 3—Note 1

[1] The word "means" used in the definition of "Christians" is an inclusive term. (Vol 5) 1918 All 168 (170): 40 All 393: 19 Cri L Jour 615. (See notes on S. 68.)

[2] Per Knox J.—Mere baptism as infant or attendance in a Christian school or dressing as a Christian is not sufficient to treat a person as one professing the Christian religion. One who performs Devi ka puja at the time of his marriage cannot be said to be a person professing the Christian religion. (Vol 5) 1918 All 168 (171): 19 Cri L Jour 615: 40 All 393.

[3] Per Walsh J.—A person, who on the eve of his marriage resists all persuasion and pressure to be married as a Christian by the Christian ceremony and who having by birth and connexion other religious associations deliberately decides to marry a sweeper according to the sweeper rites and publicly worships Hindu Gods, is not "a person professing the Christian religion." (Vol 5) 1918 All 168 (172): 40 All 393: 19 Cri L Jour 615.

[4] The words "person who professes the Christian religion" mean not only adults who profess that religion but also their children, who are presumed in law to follow their father's religion; and where the evidence is that the married child in question was baptized, this Act would apply. (1894) 18 Mad 230 (232).

[5] A child in India is presumed to have its father's religion. (Vol 3) 1916 Lah 438 (439).

Section 4 — Note 1

[1] The High Court has jurisdiction to decide whether there has been a valid marriage under this Act. Section 4 of the Divorce Act does not stand in the way of this jurisdiction. (Vol 20) 1933 All 122 (123, 124): 55 All 185.

[2] This Act is intended to apply to the marriages of all Christians in India, including the marriages where one of the parties is a Christian. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 601 (603): 18 Cri L Jour 840: 40 Mad 1030 (FB).

[3] Divorced Jewess can marry a Christian. (1912) 16 Cal W N 417 (418).

O. for "Governor-General in Council". [d] Substituted by A. O. for "Native State". [e] Substituted by A. O. for "local Official Gazette". [f] The words "or in the Gazette of India, as the case may be," were repealed by A. O. Section 5 — Note 1

[1] "Solemnized" in S. 5 means "celebrated" and refers to ceremonies only. (Vol 5) 1918 Low Bur 83 (85).

[2] Section 5, deals only with the necessary preliminaries to the ceremony, the ceremony itself, and the person who performs it. It has nothing to do with Canon law. (Vol 20) 1933 All 122 (128) : 55 All 185.

[3] Section 5 deals only with ceremony and the person who may perform it and not with the capacity of persons on whom it is performed or with the capacity of the person who performs it, save that he should have received episcopal ordination. (Vol 5) 1918 Low Bur 83 (85, 86).

[4] If the Church lays down that the non-observance of some of its rules will not render the marriage void, there is nothing in S. 5 which invalidates a marriage in which such rules have not been observed. (Vol 21) 1934 All 273 (277) : 56 All 428.

[5] As to when certain irregularities shall not render void a marriage solemnized in accordance with S. 5, see S. 77. Section 19 — Note 1

[1] On a proper construction of the provisions of S. 19 and S. 42 (c), where the father of the minor is dead or where the guardian of the person of such minor, either testamentary or otherwise, appointed by the father or by any competent authority, is not in existence or where, in the absence of any such guardian, the mother of the minor also is dead, it cannot be stated that there is any person authorised to give the consent to such marriage of the minor. It is only when any person answering any of the three categories above-mentioned is in existence and happens to be "not resident" in India that the latter part of S. 19 comes into operation and the consent of such guardian is dispensed with. It does not, therefore, follow that if any of the persons answering any of the three categories above-mentioned is not in existence, a guardian has to be appointed for the purpose of giving such consent to the marriage of the minor. There is no provision in the Act for the appointment of such guardian. (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 129 (131).

SECTIONS.

6. Punishment for contravention of this Act and rules made thereunder.

8. Power to make rules.
9. Power to exempt.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"The Bill is designed to ensure proper control of cinematograph exhibitions with particular regard to the safety of those attending them; and to prevent the presentation to the public of improper or objectionable films. The existing law of the country contains certain scattered provisions, affecting such exhibitions and certain local enactments also bear on the subject; but the rapid growth in the popularity of cinematograph and increasing number of such exhibitions in India have rendered these provisions inadequate for the protection of the public from indecent or otherwise objectionable representations. Further, the special danger from fire which attends cinematograph exhibitions, as has been illustrated by terrible catastrophes due to this cause in other countries, rendered it important to secure, in the interest of safety of spectators, a proper regard to the structural conditions of the premises utilised.

The Bill accordingly provides that no exhibition shall

(1) If the owner or person in charge of a cinematograph uses the same or allows it to be used, or if the owner or occupier of any place permits that place to be used, in contravention of the provisions of this Act or the rules made thereunder, or of the conditions and restrictions upon, or subject to which, any licence has been granted under this Act, he shall be punishable with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees and, in the case of a continuing offence, with a further fine which may extend to one hundred rupees for each day during which the offence continues, and his licence (if any) shall be liable to be revoked by the licensing authority.

(2) If any person is convicted of an offence punishable under this Act committed by him in respect of any film, the convicting Court may further direct that the film shall be forfeited to His Majesty.

^a[7. (1) Any ^b[Provincial Government] ^c* * *] may, by notification in the ^d[Official Certification of films. Gazette], constitute as many authorities as it may think fit for the purposes of examining and certifying films as suitable for public exhibition, and declare the area (hereinafter referred to as the 'local area') within which each such authority shall exercise the powers conferred on it by this Act. Where an authority so constituted consists of a Board of two or more persons, not more than one-half of the members thereof shall be persons ^e[in the service of the Crown].

(2) If any such authority after examination considers that a film is suitable for public exhibition, it shall grant a certificate to that effect to the person applying for the same, and shall

Section 6 — Note 1

[1] "In cl. 6 we have, in addition to the owner made the person in charge of a cinematograph liable for using it or allowing it to be used in contravention of the Act. We have substituted for the word "allows" in the second place where that word occurs, the word "permits" as we wish to make it clear that the authorised use and not unauthorised use that determines the liability of the owner of the place where the exhibition is given."—Select Committee Report.

Section 7 — Note 1

[1] "We understand that the authorities to be constituted under cl. 7 will, as a rule, be authorities whose certificates will be valid throughout British India. It has been pointed out to us that cases may well arise where a film the exhibition of which might not be objectionable in many parts of India would, owing to local conditions, stand on a different footing in other parts, and we have therefore inserted a provision enabling any certificate to be restricted by the Local Government either generally in its Province or any part thereof."—Select Committee Report.

cause the film to be marked in the prescribed manner. The certificate of any such authority shall, save as hereinafter provided, be valid throughout the territories in which this Act is in force.

(3) (a) If the authority is of opinion that a film is not suitable for public exhibition in the local area, it shall inform the person applying for the certificate of its decision, and such person may, within thirty days from the date of such decision, appeal for a reconsideration of the matter by the ^b[Provincial Government] by which the authority was constituted.

(b) If the ^b[Provincial Government] rejects the appeal it shall, by notification in the ^d[Official Gazette], direct that the film shall be deemed to be an uncertified film in that local area, and such direction shall have effect notwithstanding the subsequent grant of a certificate in respect of the film by any other such authority.

(4) Any such authority may demand the exhibition before itself of any certified film which it has reason to believe is about to be publicly exhibited in its local area, and may by order suspend the certificate of any such film pending the orders of the ^b[Provincial Government], and during such suspension the film shall be deemed to be an uncertified film in that area.

(5) The District Magistrate, or, in a Presidency-town ^f[* * *] the Commissioner of Police, may by order suspend the certificate of any film pending the orders of the ^b[Provincial Government], and during such suspension the film shall be deemed to be an uncertified film in that district or town.

(6) A copy of any order of suspension made under sub-section (4) or (5), together with a statement of reasons therefor, shall forthwith be forwarded by the authority or the officer making the same to the ^b[Provincial Government] by which the authority was constituted or to which the officer is subordinate, as the case may be, and such ^b[Provincial Government] may ^e[* * *] either discharge the order or, by notification in the ^d[Official Gazette], direct that the film shall be deemed to be an uncertified film in the whole or any part of the Province.

(7) A ^b[Provincial Government] may, of its own motion, by notification in the ^d[Official Gazette], direct that a certified film shall be deemed to be an uncertified film in the whole or any part of the Province.

(8) The exhibition of a film to which any order or direction under clause (b) of sub-section (3) or sub-section (4), (5), (6) or (7) is for the time being applicable shall, in the area to which such order or direction relates, be deemed to be a contravention of the condition mentioned in sub-section (2) of section 5.]

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

"The Bill is sufficiently explained in the Report of the Special Committee printed below."

—H. ERLE RICHARDS.

Simla, 3rd September, 1907.

Report of the Special Committee appointed to consider the amendment of the Civil Procedure Code.

We have the honour to present this report on the proposals to amend the Code of Civil Procedure which have been submitted for our consideration by the Government of India and, annexed to it, a draft Bill amended by us. A detailed account of the alterations introduced in the Bill will be found in the Notes on Clauses which form the second part of this Report, but we desire by way of preface to make some observations of a general character on the defects in the existing law which appear to us to call for reform and on the more important of those alterations.

1. The Code of Civil Procedure of 1882 has been in force for 25 years and the experience of those years has shown that the general lines on which it proceeds are sound. The matters in which it has proved defective are, for the most part, matters of detail, and they arise, as it seems to us, mainly from the fact that it is impossible to frame a fixed and rigid Code in such a manner as to sufficiently meet the varying needs of an area so diversified as that to which the Code applies. In our opinion it is essential that there should be some machinery to enable variations to be introduced in procedure to meet the different requirements of different localities as well as to enable defects to be remedied as they are discovered without resort to the tardy process of legislation. We propose to make provision for these purposes by a re-arrangement of the Code. We recommend that matters of mere machinery should be relegated to Rules capable of alteration by each High Court, subject to certain checks, and that those provisions only should be retained in the body of the Code in which some degree of permanence and uniformity is desirable. This re-arrangement is in accordance with precedent and possesses advantages so obvious that it is needless to enlarge upon them.

2. The objection—and as it appears to us the only objection of substance—that can be urged against this proposal is that until the scheme of distribution had become familiar to those who have to administer the Act, the change may cause some confusion and the familiar numerical references to the present Sections will no longer apply. We are sensible that some inconvenience must arise from this cause in the first instance, but this is but a small disadvantage in comparison with the advantages to be obtained by the change, and we cannot think that any one will seriously contend that such a slight and temporary drawback should stand in the way of a reform which appears to us in other respects to be wholly beneficial.

3. The adoption of this principle has necessarily involved a departure from the arrangement of the present Code, but in other respects, we have advisedly adhered as closely as possible to the existing language, the meaning of which is now well understood by Courts and by practitioners. Speaking generally, it may be said, that we have only departed from the phraseology of the Code where experience has suggested improvements or competent authority has called for some change. We have refrained from altering the wording, merely, because it might be capable of improvement; for in any change, even of a verbal character, there is a risk of opening a door to fresh litigation. In the amendments that we have introduced, we have endeavoured to state general rules of procedure rather than to provide in detail for every possible contingency; for, we hold it to be a sound view that excessive elaboration of details of procedure tends to cramp the actions of the Court and in consequence, to encourage technicalities. For this reason, we have made no attempt to embody in the Code a digest of the very numerous decisions on the existing Sections; we have made amendments to meet case-law only on points on which there is a conflict of authority. And in this connexion we desire to point out that at the present time there is even less justification for the enactment of elaborate provisions in regard to procedure than at the time when the Code of 1882 was passed. Since then, the standard of legal efficiency in the mofussil has been materially raised, and the principles of procedure are now so well understood that the Courts may be trusted to apply them intelligently in cases for which no provision may be made in terms.

But although we have made the present Code the basis of our draft, we have carefully examined the Bill settled by the Select Committee in 1903, and we desire to express our acknowledgments to that Committee for the store of information it contains, and for the materials collected in their report.

Apart from the re-arrangement to which reference has been made, we have not introduced many changes of a radical character in the Code.

4. The general nature of some of the amendments we recommend, may be conveniently illustrated by a brief examination of the extent to which the various stages of a suit will be affected by them.

A. To begin with, it is hoped that the multiplicity of suits will be further curtailed by the new provisions we have inserted to remove limitations which we regard as needless on the comprehensiveness of a suit, and by the wider powers of amendment vested in the Courts under the Bill. An adequate check is provided by the power of a Court to interfere where embarrassment is likely to result.

B. Increased facilities have been given for the service of process to which further reference is made in the Notes on Clauses. It is hoped that in the gradual introduction of service by post may be found a solution of one of the principal defects in our legal system.

C. In our opinion, it is most necessary that litigants in this country should come to trial with all issues clearly defined, and that cases should not be expanded or grounds shifted without reference to the true facts. For this purpose, we think that the present system of pleadings in the mofussil which is notoriously lax, should be improved, and we have incorporated in the rules an order on pleadings, which, it is hoped, will lead to sounder and fairer methods of arriving at the real points in dispute. The forms have been revised and we hope that they will be brought into more general use in the mofussil.

We have not been able, within the time at our disposal, to make these forms, or the other forms in the Appendix to Schedule I complete; but this is a matter of detail which can be further considered before the Bill is passed into law.

D. It is not possible to secure expedition in the disposal of suits, unless the questions of fact on which there is a real contest are narrowed down as far as possible. As a step towards this, we have incorporated in the rules an order in which provision is made for the admission not only of documents but also of facts. It must be left to litigants and their advisers to make adequate use of this order, but it is hoped that the Courts will encourage the use of it, since it certainly affords a means whereby the two principal evils of litigation, delay and expense, can be materially diminished.

E. We attach much importance to a proper use being made by Courts in the mofussil of the procedure prescribed for the first hearing. The Code as it stands makes provision for the examination of parties by the Court, and we have altered the language so as to compel the production of documents at the first hearing. In our opinion, this will act as a substantial check on the fabrication of documentary evidence.

F. The provisions relating to the hearing of suits do not call for material alteration, but we have thought it well to provide expressly for the cases where a party dies between conclusion of the hearing and delivery of judgment. It would obviously be wrong that such an accident should in any way interfere with the disposal of the case, and we have therefore inserted a provision to enable judgment to be pronounced notwithstanding the death.

G. A change of importance has been made in regard to decrees. In the first place, we have inserted an express provision recognizing the distinction between preliminary and final decrees. We hope, in this way, to afford facilities for checking the delay that now results from the objectionable practice of leaving for determination in execution questions which should be decided by the decree. This change should ensure the more expeditious disposal of a class of suits which at present are conspicuous for the delay to which they give rise. Another amendment of importance which we have introduced is in regard to mortgage-suits. These are very numerous and involve complicated questions of law. Hitherto some confusion has been occasioned by the co-existence of the provisions of the Transfer of Property Act and of the Code in regard to execution in mortgage-suits. We think that the provisions regulating this matter should be dealt with in their entirety in the Code, and we have therefore introduced rules in Order XXXIV to give effect to our view. We propose that the sections of the Transfer of Property Act affected by this change should be repealed. We desire to call the attention of those Provinces to which that Act does not apply to the effect of these changes.

In our opinion, it is expedient to give greater assistance to the Courts in the framing of decrees. The importance of this branch of procedure cannot be overrated; it is surrounded by difficulties which are a fruitful source of error and consequently of litigation. We have amplified the provisions of the Code to meet this defect, and have introduced some forms which can be adopted to meet the requirements of individual cases. We think that further forms might be added with advantage before the Bill becomes law.

H. Amongst other matters, we have removed limitations which at present exist on the power of appointing Receivers, and have conferred a power to appoint Receivers on Subordinate Courts.

5. Execution.—The subject of execution is, perhaps, one of the most difficult with which we have had to deal. The present system, in the mofussil at any rate, tends to excessive delay and affords facilities for defeating the claims of creditors. At the same time the creditor often has only himself to blame, owing to his own laches in prosecuting his rights. In the Presidency towns the same objections cannot be fairly raised; the system works well; whilst, in the mofussil, the difficulties arise not so much from the machinery itself, as from the defective manner in which it is worked. One of the most fruitful sources of litigation is the setting aside of execution sales, on the ground of irregularity in the publication of the sale proclamation. It is notorious that in many of these cases the Court's officer either through negligence or dishonesty has not duly published the proclamation, but it is impossible to deal with such cases by any provision in a Code. After a most careful consideration of the subject, we have not seen our way to any very drastic changes in the present system. We have found ourselves unable to accept the somewhat far-reaching proposal of the Committee of 1902 in relation to the execution of decrees by precept; but we are so far in accord with the view expressed by that Committee as to have been able to insert in the Bill a clause which enables the Court which passed the decree to issue a precept to any other Court to attach property of the judgment-debtor pending execution in the ordinary course. Beyond this we have felt, we could not safely go.

We anticipate that there will be a substantial saving of time, and consequent expense, from the provision requiring that mesne profits shall be ascertained by the Court under the decree itself, and not as now in execution proceedings.

Clause 53 has been introduced to settle a long mooted point upon which there is much diversity of judicial opinion, as to whether or not questions as to the liability of ancestral property in the hands of a son or other descendant to whom it has come otherwise than by descent for the payment of the debt for which the decree was passed, can be determined under Cl. 47 of the present Bill, corresponding with S. 244 of the existing Code. We think they should be.

Other amendments deserving notice relate to (1) the power to break open the outer door of the judgment-debtor's dwelling-house; (2) the date from which the purchaser's title accrues; (3) oral application for immediate execution; (4) the discretion of the Court in the execution of decrees for the restitution of conjugal rights; (5) the execution against partnership property; (6) extended facilities for attaching salaries; and (7) powers to decree-holders to carry decrees into effect at the expense of the judgment-debtor.

We regard the changes made in relation to execution as calculated to materially assist the judgment-creditor in recovering the fruits of his judgment.

6. Arbitration.—Two questions of importance have arisen in connexion with this subject: (1) Should any of the Sections of the Arbitration Act of 1899 be incorporated into the Code? (2) Should the right of appeal as now existing be altered, and if so, in what direction? We are of opinion that the best course would undoubtedly be to eliminate from the Code all the clauses as to arbitration, and insert them in a new and comprehensive Arbitration Act. There are, perhaps, difficulties as to this at present. We have determined, therefore, to leave the arbitration clauses much as they are in the present Code; but we have placed them in a Schedule in the hope that at no distant date they may be transferred into a comprehensive Arbitration Act.

In regard to appeals, some change has been made. Upon this question, adopting the view of the Judicial Committee as expressed in Ghulam's case (I. L. R. 29 Calcutta 167), we are strongly in favour of finality in cases of arbitration. If rights of appeal be given, the disappointed party will take advantage of every such right. To meet the difficulty expressed in the case reported in I. L. R. 25 Calcutta 141 (which followed many other cases in the Calcutta High Court), we have inserted the words "or being otherwise invalid" in subsection (c) of Section 521 of the present Code. If, therefore, either party considers the award as invalid on any ground, he can apply to have it set aside. We have thought it right to give one appeal from the opinion expressed by the Court on a special case under Section 517, and to allow one appeal as from order under Sections 521, 523 and 526. And having regard to the rather wide language of the Judicial Committee in Ghulam's case we have further thought it advisable to make it clear that an order granting an application either under Section 523 or Section 526 is not to be deemed a decree within the meaning of the Code, otherwise there would be a wider right of appeal from orders under these Sections than from a decree under Section 522. The other alterations deal with the text, rather than with any question of policy or principle.

7. Suits relating to public matters.—We have inserted a clause to enable actions for public nuisances to be brought, with the consent of the Advocate-General, irrespective of special damage. It has been represented to us that such a power is needed and we concur in that view.

8. Public Charities.—The suggestion has been made on high authority that some express reference should be made in the Code to the power of the Court to apply Cypres doctrine in the settling of schemes. But this power would appear to exist already within its proper limits (Mayor of Lyons' case L. R. 3 I. A. 32) and we do not think it necessary to make express reference to it.

It has been represented to us by more than one gentleman whose opinion is entitled to weight, that the power to enquire into the affairs of public charities should be made more extensive. The clause, as it stands, gives sufficient powers to the Courts to direct accounts and to frame schemes when once a suit has been instituted, but it is said that members of the public interested in any public charity ought to have the means of calling for and inspecting accounts without undertaking the burden of a suit, at least in the first instance. We are told that revenues derived from charitable trusts are in some cases very large in amount, that no accounts of their expenditure are ordinarily rendered, and that there is good ground for believing that a considerable portion is mis-spent or squandered on useless objects.

The Hon'ble Dr. Rashbehary Ghose supports these views and has submitted a clause to give effect to them. It is in the following terms:

"93-A (1). The Court may also, upon an application by any two or more persons having the like interest and having obtained the like consent, direct any trustee of such charity to cause to be prepared and filed in the Court, within such time as may be specified in the order, a detailed account of the receipts and disbursements in connection with the trust property for a period not exceeding three years next preceding the date of the application.

(2) Such accounts, when filed in Court, shall be open to inspection by the public.

(3) A trustee who fails to comply with any such direction shall be removed if a suit for that purpose be instituted, unless he can show good cause for such failure."

We have given to the subject our best consideration and desire to record our sympathy with the motives of the proposers. But we have not inserted the clause in the Bill because we think that the question is one of policy on which the public opinion of the communities interested should first be obtained. It affects primarily, as we understand, the Hindu and, to a less extent, the Mahomedan community. And we should not feel justified in recommending an amendment of the law on such a subject as this, unless the leaders of those communities were to express their support of the proposal in unequivocal terms. If it is eventually decided to adopt the amendment, then we think that the clause proposed by Dr. Ghose may be accepted.

9. Suits by or against firms.—Attention is directed to the new provision in regard to suits by or against firms (O. XXX), which will, we hope, prove acceptable to the commercial community.

10. New procedure.—We have given power to provide by Rules for Counter-claims, Third Party Procedure, Summary Procedure in suits for debt or liquidated demands, as, for instance, rent, or any other definite sum payable under a contract and originating summons. We are of opinion that these forms of proceeding may usefully be adopted in some areas but that this is a matter which should be left for each High Court to decide.

11. Appeals.—As regards appeals from original decrees we have departed but slightly from the existing Code. We have thought it advisable to give legislative sanction to the view that no appeal shall lie from a consent decree, or as to costs, except by leave of the Court; but the most important change is that incorporated in Clause 97, which renders it obligatory upon a party, who considers himself aggrieved by a preliminary decree, to appeal from that decree, at the risk of being precluded from disputing its correctness on an appeal from the final decree. We feel strongly that this is a most useful provision, as tending to that which is so desirable, viz., finality in litigation.

As regards appeals from appellate decrees the only substantial departure from the existing Code is the insertion of Cl. 103. Experience has shown the desirability of this clause, the effect of which will be to avoid remands, with their consequent delay and expense.

As regards appeals from orders a comparison of Cl. 104 of the Bill with S. 588 of the existing Code would support a prima facie inference that the right of appeal from orders has been materially curtailed. But this inference is dispelled on looking at sub-clause (h) of Cl. 104 which allows an appeal from any order made under Rules from which an appeal is expressly allowed by Rules. We have gone carefully into the question of the cases in which an appeal should be allowed from these orders and our conclusion is expressed in the Rules themselves.

12. Rules.—The distribution of the provisions of the Code between the body of the Bill and the Rules is a matter on which opinions may well differ. The general principle on which we have proceeded has been to keep in the body of the Bill those provisions which appear to us to be fundamental and those provisions which confer powers operating outside the Province in which the Court is situated. In some cases we have adopted the plan of inserting leading provisions in the Bill, stating in general terms the powers of the Court, and of leaving the details to Rules; in matters of less importance the provisions have been relegated altogether to Rules. The result of this re-arrangement is to reduce the Act, as distinct from Schedules, to 155 clauses. The existing order of sequence has, speaking generally, been maintained, but the reduced bulk of the Bill has rendered it no longer necessary to reproduce the division into chapters.

It is proposed to vest the power of making Rules in High Courts, subject to the control of Local Governments, (or, in the case of the Calcutta High Court, of the Government of India), but we think it most desirable that in exercising this power, the Courts should have the advice of representatives of the various branches of the legal profession, and we have accordingly provided that, in the case of Chartered High Courts and of Chief Courts, Rules shall only be made after those Courts have taken the opinion of a Rule Committee on which there will be representatives of the Bar, of Vakeels or Pleaders and, in Presidency-towns, of Attorneys. In the case of other High Courts power has been given to establish such Rule Committees as the Governor-General in Council may determine. It is believed that Standing Committees of this kind will be of great value. We have thought it better to require the same sanction as is required by the Indian High Courts Act of 1861, in order that the rule-making power should correspond with the power conferred under that Act; but we are of opinion that, in the interest of uniformity, it is expedient that all amendments of Rules should be communicated to the Government of India and to other High Courts before sanction is given to them. This, we understand, can be effected by executive order.

If our proposal is adopted, it will probably be useful to publish annually in every Province some manual corresponding to the English "Annual Practice" containing—

- (1) the Act;
- (2) all Rules of procedure made under it or under other Acts in the Province;
- (3) notes of decisions on the Act and Rules.

13. We are sensible that there may be defects and flaws in the Bill which we append to this Report. The subject is complicated and technical and the time at our disposal has been limited. We do not doubt therefore that much improvement may be made in the Bill before it is finally passed into law. But, in our opinion, it is framed on the right lines. We believe for the reasons we have stated that in any reform of Civil Procedure it is essential to introduce some elasticity; to give wider powers of control to the High Courts, and to invest them with a larger discretion in regard to the conduct of cases which come before them. Mr. Dikshit, Subordinate Judge from Bombay, has been present throughout our deliberations, and we take this opportunity of acknowledging the help we have derived from his experience of the working of the Code in the mofussil. We desire also to record our acknowledgments of the services of Mr. Law, of the Legislative Department, who has attended to the clerical and press-work to our entire satisfaction.

PREAMBLE — SYNOPSIS

1. Applicability and scope.
2. Acts in pari materia.
3. Body, schedule and forms.
4. Exercise of discretion.
- 4a. Interpretation of statutes.
5. Reference to previous law.
6. Retrospective effect.

1. Applicability and scope. — [1] The Civil P. C. cannot of itself establish a right which does not exist under the ordinary law. It is a Code of procedure only and not of substantive law. (Vol 17) 1930 Rang 317 (319); 9 Rang 7; (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 401 (407); 13 Lah 618 (F B); (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 50 (52); 59 Mad 202 (F B). (It may recognize them or take them away.)

[2] The Civil P. C. is a Code conferring powers on a Court and is not a Code restricting and delimiting its unlimited powers. (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 757 (763); 52 Mad 399 (F B).

[3] The essence of a Code is to be exhaustive on the matters in respect of which it declares the law. In respect of such matters, the Court cannot disregard or go outside the letter of the enactment according to its true construction. The Code, therefore, binds Court so far as it goes. (1906) 33 Cal 927 (931); (1909) 36 Cal 193 (203); (1909) 10 C L J 527 (531). (29 Cal 707 (715); 29 I A 196 (P C) followed.); (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 568 (574); (1913) 24 Mad L Jour 235 (239).

[4] The Code of Civil Procedure is not exhaustive and it does not affect the power and duty of the Court in cases where no specific rule exists. (1909) 36 Cal 193 (203, 204); (1906) 33 Cal 927 (931); (Vol 7) 1920 Lah 304 (304); 1 Lah 339; (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 495 (497); 2 Pat L Jour 361. (Court has inherent power to set aside order made by it.); (Vol 8) 1921 Pat 409 (410). (Power to release property from illegal attachment.)

[5] Where no specific rule exists the Court can act according to equity, justice and good conscience, though in the exercise of such powers it must be careful to see that its decision is based on sound general principles and is not in conflict with them or the intentions of the Legislature. (1906) 33 Cal 927 (931); (1909) 36 Cal 193 (203, 204); (Vol 7) 1920 Lah 304 (304); 1 Lah 339; (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 375 (377); 2 Pat L Jour 306.

[6] A provision of the Code of Civil Procedure cannot be made applicable to proceedings under an Act if that provision is inconsistent with the procedure prescribed by that Act. (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 658 (663).

[7] The Code applies to proceedings under Arbitration Act. (Vol 12) 1925 All 154 (155); 47 All 179.

[8] Hindu law does not override express provisions as regards procedure laid down in Civil P. C. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 987 (988).

[9] Suit barred under terms of Provincial Insolvency Act—No recourse can be taken to Civil P. C. (Vol 17) 1930 Rang 317 (319); 9 Rang 7.

[10] The provisions of the Civil P. C. do not apply en bloc to proceedings in Courts constituted under the Land Revenue Act. (Vol 5) 1918 Oudh 217 (220); 21 Oudh Cas 220. (A bona fide compromise on behalf of a minor in mutation proceedings without leave of Court is not bad.); (1894) 21 Cal 428 (429, 436).

[11] The Civil P. C. does not apply to proceedings before Village Courts. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 795 (795).

[12] The Civil Procedure Code, 1908, does not apply to Village Munsiffs' Courts. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 544 (546).

[13] The Civil P. C. is not applicable to proceedings before the Controller of Patents under the Patents and Designs Act. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 725 (729); 61 Cal 450. (Principles underlying Code, in so far as they are principles of natural justice, must be observed by him.)

[14] The provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure have no bearing on the right of Letters Patent Appeal. (Vol 26) 1939 All 618 (619); 1 L R (1939) All 750 (F B).

[15] The provisions of Bombay High Court Rules (Original Side) supersede and override those of the Civil P. C., Sch. I. (Vol 17) 1930 Bom 216 (216, 217). (Provision for counter-claim.)

[16] The tribunal under the Madras District Municipal Election Rules should be guided wherever possible in its procedure by the provisions of Civil P. C. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 1043 (1043).

[17] No procedure is prescribed by S. 202 of the Bengal Municipal Act (1884). A Magistrate exercising his power under that section would not be wrong in following, so far as they seem applicable, the provisions of the Code of Civil P. C. (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 934 (935); 52 Cal 670; 26 Cri L Jour 1246.

[18] Foreigners are not excepted from jurisdiction of British Indian Courts. (Vol 14) 1927 All 413 (414); 49 All 669.

2. Acts in pari materia. — [1] The Civil P. C. and the Limitation Act are Acts in pari materia and must be treated as complementary to each other. (Vol 26) 1939 All 403 (405, 412); 1 L R (1939) All 647 (F B); (Vol 12) 1925 Pat 1 (-); 3 Pat 371 (F B); (Vol 18) 1931 Pat 241 (246); 10 Pat 670 (F B).

3. Body, schedule and forms. — [1] Rules have force of law and must be observed. (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 307 (310).

[2] The body of the Code creates jurisdiction while the rules indicate the mode in which it is to be exercised. The body of the Code must therefore be read in con-

4. Exercise of discretion. — [1] Discretion, when applied to a Court of law, means discretion guided by law. It must be governed by rule and not by humour. It must not be arbitrary, vague and fanciful, but legal and regular. (1880) 5 Cal 259 (264, 265); (Vol 8) 1921 Pat 467 (468).

Definitions. 2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) "Code" includes rules :

(2) "decree" means the formal expression¹¹ of an adjudication which, so far as regards the Court expressing it, conclusively determines⁵ the rights of the parties with regard to all or any of the matters in controversy in the suit¹² and may be either preliminary or final. It shall be deemed to include the rejection of a plaint¹⁸ and the determination of any question within section 47¹⁵ or section 144,¹⁶ but shall not include —

(a) any adjudication from which an appeal lies as an appeal from an order, or

(b) any order of dismissal for default.¹³

Explanation.—A decree is preliminary⁶ when further proceedings have to be taken before the suit can be completely disposed of. It is final when such adjudication completely disposes of the suit. It may be partly preliminary and partly final :

Objects and Reasons.

"Decree. — The importance of the definition of the word 'decree' rests on the fact that by reference to it the right of appeal is determined. The Committee have in the main adhered to the existing definition; but they have modified it in two respects, and this has involved a slight re-casting of the language. The principal modification aims at permitting an appeal from an adjudication which purports to settle the rights of the parties, though it does not completely dispose of the suit. Such an adjudication the Committee describe as a preliminary decree.

The explanation is intended to make it clear that a decree may be partly final and partly preliminary. Thus a decree for the recovery of possession of immovable property and for mesne profits would be of this mixed character.

The word 'within' has been substituted for 'mentioned' or 'referred to in' with a view to bring within the definition of decree orders against sureties (see Cl. 142) and orders as to court-fees in pauper suits (see O. XXXIII, R. 13) and thus providing for appeals therefrom.

The only other modification is for the purpose of excluding a right of appeal from an order of dismissal for default."—S. O. R.

[2] What is commonly called "order" is judgment as defined in Civil P. SECTION 2 (11) — SYNOPSIS

1. Applicability and scope.
2. Intermeddlers.
3. Joint Hindu family.
4. Representative suits.
5. Representing the estate.

1. Applicability and scope.—[1] The term "legal representative" is wider than executor or administrator — Term includes heirs of deceased plaintiff or defendant : (Vol 33) 1946 Cal 299 (302).

[2] The definition of legal representative is meant only for the purposes of the Code. It is not a general statement of a substantive rule of law. (Vol 21) 1934 All 474 (476).

[3] The definition of legal representative in S. 2 (11) is very wide. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 1 (3).

[4] The definition of legal representative in S. 2 (11) has not altered the rule of Muhammadan Law by which the heirs of a deceased Muhammadan inheriting his estate are liable for the debt due to the estate in proportion to the shares taken by them. (Vol 19) 1932 All 591 (593) : 54 All 796.

Obiter.—The term "next of kin" is peculiar to English Law of Inheritance and is not the same thing as "legal representative" under the Civil P. C. (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 578 (579).

[5] The expression "legal representative" means and includes one person as well as several persons according as they represent the whole interest of the deceased. (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 356 (359) : 14 Lah 543.

[6] See also Notes on Ss. 50, 52, 53 and O. 22, R. 3.

2. Intermeddlers. — [1] Legal representative includes any person who intermeddles with estate of deceased and the fact that this definition is not found in old Code does not make it any the less applicable, based as it is on sound legal principles. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 1022 (1024).

[2] Person possessing judgment-debtor's property is his legal representative. (Vol 11) 1924 Cal 362 (362); (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 979 (980).

[3] Mere intermeddling with the estate does not make the intermeddler a legal representative unless he has come into possession of the estate lawfully. (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 298 (299) : 1 L R (1939) Nag 526.

[4] A person to become legal representative must retain possession of the property belonging to the estate with intention to represent the estate. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 865 (869).

[5] The fact that the legal representative has not taken possession does not help another who also is not in possession but claims to be the legal representative. If he is the legal representative it is his duty to take possession and it is no answer to the proposition that the legal representative has not taken possession of the property. (Vol 26) 1939 Pat 47 (48).

[6] Person intermeddling with estate of deceased cannot be brought on record when another person is found to be true legal representative of deceased's property. (Vol 26) 1939 Pat 117 (118).

[7] A mere taking away of a portion of the property of the deceased does not make him an executor de son tort while a legal representative exists. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 825 (825).

[See also (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 321 (321). (Decree-holder dying leaving lawful heir — Unlawful possession of property of deceased cannot entitle him to execute decree on strength of such possession.)]

[8] It is the object of the Legislature to include even executors de son tort and intermeddlers with the estate to provide an effective representation once for all for the purposes of litigation (Obiter). (Vol 13) 1926 Nag 476 (479).

[See also (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 321 (321). (A person who intermeddles with property has been probably included in the definition of a legal representative merely to enable the persons who wish to obtain relief against the property to proceed against it in the hands of a person, who has obtained unlawful possession of property.]

[9] The Civil Procedure Code makes no provision for the representation of a person who is alive by a person who intermeddles with his estate. (Vol 32) 1945 All 45 (46) : I L R (1945) All 18.

[10] Heirs of intestate Parsi who intermeddle with his estate are his legal representatives. (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 474 (477) : 51 Bom 771.

(Father, son, brother and widow of deceased member are his legal representatives within S. 2 (11).)

[2] The combined effect of Hindu law and Civil P. C., S. 53 is that son must be regarded as the legal representative, irrespective of the fact whether the father has left any private property or not. (Vol 31) 1944 Lah 473 (476, 477).

Section 2 (12)—Note 1

[1] In English law the distinction between 'damages' and 'account of profits' is maintained, but in India it is often forgotten. The expression 'mesne profits' may be used to denote compensation recoverable from a person who has been in wrongful possession. (Vol 22) 1935 Pat 80 (81).

[2] "Mesne profits" means the sum awarded not on the basis of what the plaintiff has lost by exclusion, but on what the defendant has made, or with ordinary diligence might have made during his wrongful possession. (Vol 30) 1943 Pat 69 (70) : 21 Pat 735.

[3] The "term mesne profits" does not exclude arrears for previous years which may be claimed and recovered at later years. (Vol 17) 1930 Oudh 51 (52).

[4] The term "wrongful" is used in special sense. It does not mean possession which is wrongful for all purposes. It only means that the person who has no right to possession as against the party claiming it is in wrongful possession for purpose of mesne profits. (Vol 26) 1939 Nag 23 (26).

[5] It is not necessary that possession in order to be wrongful must have been obtained in consequence of some improper act. (Vol 26) 1939 All 529 (533).

[6] Possession of purchaser of portion of joint family property or of the interest of coparcener in specific property is not wrongful — Coparcener's acquiescence in such purchaser's possession disentitles him to mesne profits. (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 433 (433, 434).

[7] The person in possession is not liable for failure to realise the highest possible rate of rent and premium from the tenants. It is enough if a fair return has been realised from the land. (Vol 22) 1935 P C 49 (50) : 62 Ind App 53 : 62 Cal 499 (P C).

[8] The word 'profits' includes both rent and profit. (Vol 22) 1935 P C 49 (50) : 62 Ind App 53 : 62 Cal 499 (P C).

Section 2 (13)—Note 1

[1] This definition of movable property does not apply to Limitation Act. Standing crops are not movable property for purposes of Limitation Act. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 1142 (1142) ; (Vol 2) 1915 Nag 69 (69, 70) : 11 Nag L R 18.

[2] See also S. 3 (25) of the General Clauses Act, 1897.

Section 2 (14)—Note 1

[1] "Order" as defined in the Code is analogous to "decree" and does not imply what is popularly understood, namely, the views expressed by a Judge on the merits of the case and his decision thereon. What is ordinarily called an "order" is in fact a "judgment." (Vol 20) 1933 All 762 (763) : 56 All 27.

[2] Where an order contains not only the grounds of the decision but also the "formal" expression and the decision itself, it should be taken to be of a dual character being both the "judgment" and the "order" as defined in the Code. (Vol 20) 1933 All 762 (763) : 56 All 27.

[3] Order on notice of motion is order within S. 2 (14) and can be executed under S. 36. (Vol 21) 1934 Bom 452 (457) : 59 Bom 10.

[4] Orders passed under Ss. 55 and 7, Divorce Act, 1869, are orders within the meaning of S. 2 (14), Civil P. C. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 513 (514).

[5] "Order" in S. 2 (14) does not cover orders passed under S. 30 (e), Guardians and Wards Act, 1890. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 889 (390) : 41 Mad 241.

[7] Compromise arrived at in Court by counsel on either side under their general authority to compromise is not vitiated merely because they considered the matter in the corridor of Court or in bar library. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 714 (716) ; 55 Cal 113.

[8] Counsel's general authority to compromise does not extend to collateral matters. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 714 (717) ; 55 Cal 113 ; (1900) 27 Cal 428 (438, 448).

[4] Revenue Courts under Orissa Tenancy Act are not Civil Courts within S. 3. (Vol 29) 1942 Pat 1 (29) : 21 Pat 1 (F B). (Meredith J., contra.)

[5] Section 3, which defines which Courts are subordinate to the High Court, does not include the High Court in the exercise of its original civil jurisdiction. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 1091 (1091) : 52 Mad 57.

SECTION 4 — SYNOPSIS.

1. Scope.

2. Special or local law.

1. Scope. — [1] Section 4 exempts any special form of procedure prescribed by or under any other law for the time being in force from the purview of the Code. (Vol 20) 1933 Nag 211 (214) ; (Vol 24) 1937 All 365 (366).

[2] Conflict between special law and general law — Special law prevails. (Vol 19) 1932 Oudh 163 (164).

[3] In the absence of specific provision to the contrary, ordinary rules of procedure apply. (Vol 19) 1932 Oudh 210 (213) : 7 Luck 601 (F B).

[4] Section 4 gives local Act local validity and special procedure validity in its own sphere. (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 53 (54) : 56 Cal 704. (U. P. Court of Wards Act, 1912, cannot be enforced beyond jurisdiction of U. P. Legislature.)

2. Special or local law. — [1] Electricity Act is a special law and prevails over provisions of Civil Pro-

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the proposition contained in sub-section (1), nothing in this Code shall be deemed to limit or otherwise affect any remedy which a landholder or landlord may have under any law for the time being in force for the recovery of rent of agricultural land from the produce of such land.

5. (1) Where any Revenue Courts are governed by the provisions of this Code in those matters of procedure upon which any special enactment applicable to them is silent, the ^a[Provincial Government] ^b[* * ] may, by notification in the ^c[Official Gazette], declare that any portions of those provisions which are not expressly made applicable by this Code shall not apply to those Courts, or shall only apply to them with such modifications as the ^a[Provincial Government] ^d[ * *] may prescribe.

(2) "Revenue Court" in sub-section (1) means a Court having jurisdiction under any local law to entertain suits or other proceedings relating to the rent, revenue or profits of land used for agricultural purposes, but does not include a Civil Court having original jurisdiction under this Code to try such suits or proceedings as being suits or proceedings of a civil nature.

Objects and Reasons

In the Note appended in the Statement of Objects and Reasons on Clause 6 a statement appeared as follows:—"The words 'or proceedings in suits' have been introduced in this clause to negative the view that a Court to which a decree is sent for execution has jurisdiction to execute the decree though the amount exceeds the limits of the pecuniary jurisdiction of the Court, a point on which there is a conflict of opinion. (I L R 17 Mad 309; I L R 16 Cal 465, 467.)" It will be noticed that the words 'or proceedings in suits' do not appear in the section as finally enacted.

SECTION 6—SYNOPSIS.

1. Applicability and scope.
2. Decree for mesne profits or accounts.
3. Jurisdiction of executing Courts.

1. Applicability and scope.—[1] Section 6 contains a prohibition which is absolute in terms, except in so far as there is express provision to the contrary. Therefore where it is disregarded, the defect cannot be cured. (1940) 1940 Nag L Jour 244 (251).

[2] Jurisdiction depends on nature of suits and also upon pecuniary value. (Vol 7) 1920 Pat 29 (30) : 5 Pat L Jour 588.

[3] The pecuniary jurisdiction of a Civil Court on its original or appellate side is, ordinarily speaking, governed by the value stated in the plaint and if a suit having regard to the valuation is within the jurisdiction, such jurisdiction is not ousted by the Court on the ground that a decree for a sum exceeding the limits of its pecuniary jurisdiction is given to the plaintiff. (1911) 33 All 97 (99); (1894) 16 All 236 (238).

[4] Where the valuation of the suit is made bona fide in the belief that it is correct and in law that valuation determined the grade of Court which had jurisdiction to entertain and try that suit and the suit was legally seized by the Court a revision of that valuation cannot be permitted so as to oust the jurisdiction of such Court. (1902) 25 Mad 543 (544); (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 998 (1002) : 40 Mad 1 (FB). (Except where plaint is allowed to be amended.)

[5] Court to which appeal lies should be determined by value given in plaint. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 998 (1002) : 40 Mad 1 (FB).

[6] Incidental issue in suit as to property of value exceeding pecuniary jurisdiction of Court—S. 6 applies to suits and not to incidental issue—Such incidental issue can be tried by Court though exceeding its pecuniary limits. (Vol 24) 1937 Rang 219 (220).

[7] Section 6 governs the whole Code. The position which the section occupies in the Code appearing under the part headed 'preliminary' is among a set of sections

7. The following provisions shall not extend to Courts constituted under the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887, ^aor under the Berar Small Cause Courts Law, 1905] Provincial Small Cause Courts. or to Courts exercising the jurisdiction of a Court of Small Causes ^b[under the said Act or law], that is to say,—

(a) so much of the body of the Code as relates to —

- (i) suits excepted from the cognizance of a Court of Small Causes;
- (ii) the execution of decrees in such suits;
- (iii) the execution of decrees against immoveable property; and which are clearly designed to govern the whole Code. (1940) 1940 Nag L Jour 244 (249, 250).

[8] The word 'suits' in S. 6 means not only proceedings up to the stage of decree but includes proceedings in execution. (1940) 1940 Nag L Jour 244 (249).

[9] Section 6 does not apply to an order in proceedings before President of Calcutta Improvement Tribunal. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 533 (534).

[10] Order of remand cannot confer jurisdiction which the Court would not have had but for the remand. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 534 (535).

2. Decree for mesne profits or accounts. — [1] Court's jurisdiction is not ousted where mesne profits allowable under O. 20, R. 12 (2) exceed its jurisdiction. (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 1076 (1081) (FB); (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 998 (1002) : 40 Mad 1 (FB). (Decree for amount exceeding pecuniary jurisdiction can be passed in suits for accounts also.); (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 111 (112) : 56 Bom 23. (Decree exceeding pecuniary jurisdiction can be passed in suit for accounts also.); (Vol 8) 1921 Pat 118 (119) : 6 Pat L Jour 54; (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 334 (335) : 2 Pat L Jour 394.

3. Jurisdiction of executing Courts. — [1] Under the present Code, as under the Code of 1882, the Civil Court to which a decree might be sent for execution is the Court which under the provisions of the present Code is competent to deal with it. (1910) 37 Cal 574 (577).

[2] Section 6 operates to limit the jurisdiction conferred on Courts under S. 223 of the Code of 1882 (corresponding to S. 38 of the present Code). Hence, the Court executing the decree should also possess the pecuniary jurisdiction to execute it. (1889) 16 Cal 457 (464).

[3] It is decretal amount which determines pecuniary jurisdiction of transferee Court—It is not necessary that transferee Court should have pecuniary jurisdiction which would include original valuation of suit. (Vol 27) 1940 All 331 (334) : 1 L R (1940) All 318.

[4] Application for transfer of decree for execution—Decree cannot be transferred to Court having no pecuniary jurisdiction over the value of the suit. (Vol 9) 1922 Pat. 188 (189) : 1 Pat 651.

[5] By virtue of the absence of the words "competent to try in respect of the nature and the amount or value of its subject-matter" from S. 223 of the Code of 1882 (now S. 39 (1)), a Court can transfer a decree for execution to a Court which has no pecuniary jurisdiction with respect to the same. (1894) 17 Mad 309 (311); (1884) 7 Mad 397 (399).

[6] Suit for possession and mesne profits—Court decreeing amount beyond pecuniary jurisdiction—Execution by another Court of equal pecuniary jurisdiction held incompetent. (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 275 (276).

[7] Decree on a claim of pecuniary value of Rs. 5000 was passed by the first class Subordinate Judge. Under S. 23 of 1869 Code another Subordinate Judge was appointed to assist him who had only second place. The decree was transferred for execution to him : Held that the assistance of the additional Judge could be availed of only to the extent of the limits of his jurisdiction and therefore the claim itself being beyond his jurisdiction, the decree could not be transferred to him for execution. (1888) 12 Bom 155 (156).

[8] See also Notes on Sections 38, 39 and 42.

Section 7 — Note 1

[1] Orders excluded from jurisdiction of Small Cause Court are only those specifically mentioned in S. 94 (e) or (e). (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 6 (6, 7) : 46 Cal 717.

[2] The words 'injunctions and interlocutory orders' in S. 7 refer only to the orders under O. 39 and these words read together can mean only applications for injunctions and interlocutory orders on such applications. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 1072 (1072).

[3] Section 7 and O. 51 must not be interpreted to mean that no small cause decree can be executed against immovable property. (Vol 28) 1941 Lah 109 (112) : 1 L R (1941) Lah 670.

[4] A Small Cause Court though also an ordinary Court cannot attach immovable property in execution unless the decree is transferred to its ordinary side. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 398 (398).

[5] Same Judge holding office both of Judge, Small Cause Court, and as Judge on regular side—He can on decree-holder's application or otherwise transfer Small Cause Court decree to regular side for attachment and sale of immovable property. (Vol 28) 1941 Lah 109 (113) : 1 L R (1941) Lah 670.

[6] A Court of Small Causes acting as such cannot attach immovable property in execution of its decree. (1931) 132 I C 208 (208) (Lah).

[7] A Small Cause Court can attach immovable property before judgment. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 589 (591) : 48 Mad 488.

[8] An order for attachment before judgment is not one of the orders mentioned under S. 94 (e) or (e). Therefore, a Provincial Small Cause Court has power to attach movables before judgment. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 6 (7) : 46 Cal 717.

[9] A Small Cause Court can attach and sell a preliminary decree for foreclosure for immovable property. (Vol 6) 1919 Nag 19 (20) : 16 Nag L R 72.

[10] A Small Cause Court cannot attach a half share of joint family property, part of which at least is immovable property. (Vol 1) 1914 Nag 13 (13) : 10 Nag L R 17.

[11] A Small Cause Court has power to award compensation when it issues an interim attachment, and dismisses it after hearing. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 1072 (1072).

[12] A debt secured on a hypothecation bond is not immovable property for purposes of attachment and Small Cause Court can attach it. (1912) 16 I C 816 (816) (Mad).

[13] Where a decree of the Madras Small Cause Court is transferred to a Mofussal District Munsif's Court for execution, the executing Court acts as a Court of original jurisdiction and the District Judge can hear appeals from an order passed in execution. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 1179 (1180).

[14] A Small Cause Court has jurisdiction to create a charge upon immovable property. (Vol 24) 1937 All 194 (195) : 1 L R (1937) All 418.

(b) the following sections, that is to say,— sections 94 and 95 so far as they authorize or relate to —

sections 91 and 92,

(iv) the interlocutory orders referred to in clause (e) of section 94 and

SUITS IN GENERAL.

Jurisdiction of the Courts and res judicata.

9. The Courts shall (subject to the provisions herein contained) have jurisdiction⁹ to try all *Courts to try all civil suits of a civil nature*²⁴ excepting suits of which their cognizance is either suits unless barred. expressly or impliedly barred.

Explanation — A suit in which the right to property³¹ or to an office²⁰ is contested is a suit of a civil nature, notwithstanding that such right may depend entirely on the decision of questions as to religious rites¹⁴ or ceremonies.¹⁹

[2] Section 8 of the Civil Procedure Code will not apply to a case where a District Munsif's Court executes a decree of the Presidency Small Cause Court transferred to it for the purpose. The Munsif's Court is a Court of original jurisdiction and can attach and sell immoveable property and O. 21 of the Code would only apply. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 1179 (1180).

19. Rituals and ceremonies.

20. Right to office.

21. Right to property.

22. Scope.

23. Statutory body.

23a. Municipalities.

24. Suits of civil nature.

25. Voluntary offerings.

1. Act of State.—[1] Suit is not maintainable in connection with acts done by the Governments in the exercise of sovereign powers. (1875-76) 1 Cal 11 (26, 27).

[2] A resumption by the Sovereign of an inam is an act of State which cannot be questioned in the Municipal Courts. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 116 (117).

[See however (1883) 6 Mad 361 (364). (Government wanting to resume an inam granted for the support of the chattram and for feeding Brahmins—An action by the grantees to contest their right is maintainable.)]

[3] Commandeering order is an act of State — Secretary of State cannot be sued in respect of it. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 74 (81) : 54 Cal 969.

[4] In 1864 the British Government declared that the status of the non-feudatory chiefs in the Central Provinces, whose territory had become British by conquest, cession or lapse, was that of ordinary British subjects to whom certain judicial and administrative powers had been entrusted as a matter of convenience or for economy of administration. Sanads recognising their property and rights were granted in 1874. The Government gradually withdrew from them the administration of police, excise and cattle pounds giving compensation for the consequent loss of revenue. In the settlement of 1903 the Government obtained the execution under protest of wajib-ul-aracs from the zamindars consenting to the resumption of these functions by Government. The zamindars sued for annulment of these provisions and for the restoration of the rights which they alleged had been theirs from time immemorial of which they had been wrongfully deprived : Held, that the rights alleged had existed only by sufferance or delegation and the resumption of these functions by Government was a thing legitimately done in the exercise of its sovereign powers. Consequently no action was maintainable in a Civil Court with regard to such resumption. (1912) 39 Cal 615 (661, 662, 663) : 39 I A 31 (PC).

[5] Resolution of Bombay Government holding plaintiff guilty of misconduct reflecting on his honesty and reliability — Suit for damages against the Secretary of State not maintainable. (1903) 27 Bom 1-9 (212, 220).

[6] Act performed in the exercise of powers vested by municipal law, and under its sanction and authority — Performer a sovereign power, yet the Court's jurisdiction is not ousted — That the act could not be done by an ordinary individual is immaterial. (1882) 5 Mad 273 (280, 281).

2. Award.—[1] Award made by arbitrators appointed under Bombay Co-operative Societies Act, cannot be set aside by Civil Court. (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 91 (93).

[2] Suit to set aside proceedings under Sch. 2, Civil P. C., lies if proceedings are fraudulent, fictitious and vexatious and not to set aside award made on agreement to refer. (Vol 17) 1930 Bom 431 (437) : 54 Bom 696.

[2] A pragwal used a particular kind of flag to attract the notice of pilgrims. The defendant who acted as his agent put up a similar flag so as to mislead pilgrims into the belief that he was the pragwal : Held, that the action of the defendant was unlawful and the plaintiff had a right to maintain a suit to restrain the defendant from making the use of the emblem or flag. (Vol 8) 1921 All 316 (318) : 43 All 20.

[3] Whether a Gayawal gaddi is an office or a business, the person entitled to it can sue for possession of the gaddi and its books and for a declaration that he is the lawful holder of the gaddi. (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 37 (39) : 2 Pat L Jour 705.

4. Caste question.—[1] Caste question relates to matters affecting its internal autonomy and social relations. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 122 (126) : 56 Bom 242 (F B).

[2] Civil Courts may discuss and deal even with a caste question where the membership and character of a member are injuriously affected. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 908 (909).

[See however (1886) 10 Bom 661 (663). (Funeral presents were distributed by the defendant's father — Plaintiff was entitled to a share, as a member of the caste — Plaintiff being omitted, sued for injury to his character and reputation—No suit for damages lies.)]

[3] Court has jurisdiction over a matter not relating to internal administration of caste but to the property of the caste though there has been a division of opinion in the caste. (Vol 13) 1926 Bom 69 (70) : 50 Bom 124.

[4] Court can decide that rights to the user of property in accordance with caste usage exist but cannot decide whether a particular user is sanctioned by custom of caste. (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 522 (522, 523).

[5] Where the question in dispute is in reality one between the caste and a section of the caste, it is outside the Court's jurisdiction. The test whether a question is a caste question is to see whether the taking cognizance of the matter in dispute would be an interference with the autonomy of the caste. (1910) 34 Bom 467 (482, 483) ; (1880-81) 5 Bom 83 (84). (A claim for the recovery of half of a certain vessel belonging to the caste or its value was made by certain members of one division of a caste against members of other division—Held purely a caste question.) ; (1891) 15 Bom 599 (606, 607). (Deprivation of a person's man-pan invitations—No civil suit lies.) ; (1912) 1912 Mad W N 1220 (1221). (Refusal to invite the plaintiff on auspicious occasions does not give him a cause of action unless his rights as a member of the caste are violated.)

[6] Majority of oswel caste of Hindus deciding not to feast Brahmins in the oart and passing a resolution accordingly—Defendants attempting to do it—Plaintiff's suit for declaration that the above resolution was validly passed and for injunction is maintainable. (1895) 19 Bom 507 (527, 528).

[7] Every member of caste of Hindus is entitled to inspection of account books regarding management of caste property by its manager—Suit for declaration of such right in Civil Courts is not barred — Such suit is representative suit within the meaning of Civil P. C., S 9 and O. 1, R. 8. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom. 122 (125) : 50 Bom 242 ; (1909) 11 Bom L R 1267 (1274).

[8] A claim to be a caste officer and to be entitled to the right of performing duties and enjoying privileges and honours attached to such office, is a caste question and is not cognizable by a Civil Court; in the absence of any allegation of any specific damage the mere assumption of a patronymic of a family is a grievance for which law affords no redress. (1910) 34 Bom 455 (457, 458).

[9] Plaintiff at his child's death requested help for funeral and other incidental ceremonies from his fellow caste men. They refusing, he sued for declaration that the defendants' acts were unlawful and that he was legally entitled to exercise all his customary privileges. Held no action lies. (1894) 18 Bom 115 (119).

[10] The recognition by Courts of Hindu castes as distinct corporations with exclusive legal rights for certain purposes ought not to be extended to Christian communities as it would lead to complications and anomalies of a far-reaching character. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 431 (440) : 39 Mad 1056.

[11] Member of panchayat breaking its rule not to marry second wife during lifetime of first — Dispute referred to arbitration and award made—Member consenting to award—Dispute involves purely caste question and no suit would lie — Award cannot be enforced as it relates to questions for which no suit lies — Consent of parties not to challenge award cannot enable Court to enforce it if otherwise unenforceable. (Vol 16) 1939 Sind 1 (3, 4) : 23 Sind L R 299.

[12] A man may be excommunicated or otherwise punished for a caste offence but that jurisdiction must only be exercised by the caste and with due care and caution and conformity to the usage of the caste. The caste may delegate its powers in respect of caste offences to its nominees. (1910) 33 Mad 67 (69, 70); (Vol 22) 1935 Bom 367 (370); (1887) 10 Mad 133 (144).

[13] Temporary exclusion from social intercourse with other families is not contrary to natural justice. (Vol 1) 1914 All 27 (41); (1899) 23 Bom 122 (130, 131). (Excommunication by the Swami ex parte and unjustified—Civil Courts can inquire into the justification of the order of excommunication.); (1900) 24 Bom 13 (22, 23). (Excommunication for bad conduct—No suit for damages lies.); (1902) 26 Bom 174 (179). [8] Where a special tribunal out of the ordinary course is appointed by an Act to determine questions as to rights which are the creation of that Act, then except so far as otherwise expressly provided or necessarily implied, that tribunal's jurisdiction to determine those questions is exclusive. Hence, the orders passed by the revising committee or the District Magistrate under the election rules framed by the Local Government under S. 39 of the U. P. [13] A Civil Court cannot interfere with the order of the Collector passed in substantial conformity with the rules for Municipal Councillors' election. A suit will probably lie to set aside an order as ultra vires if passed by the Collector without inquiry or on grounds other than those set forth in Rule 35 of the Election Rules. No fresh inquiry can be made by the Civil Court to nullify an order of the Collector passed against a candidate. (1913) 36 Mad 120 (122).

(The existence of the office and the connection between the office and the honour must be established.)

[7] It is for the party who seeks to oust the jurisdiction of the ordinary Civil Courts to establish his contention. (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 121 (121) : 9 Lah 504 (F B) ; (Vol 21) 1934 P C 84 (86) : 61 Ind App 177 : 57 Mad 443 (P C) ; (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 1064 (1064) : 53 Cal 561. [11] The general power vested in the Courts in India under Civil P. C. to entertain all suits of the civil nature excepting suits of which cognizance is barred by any enactment for the time being in force does not carry with it the general power of making declarations except in so far as such power is expressly conferred by statute. See also S. 20, Civil P. C.

12. Jurisdiction—Special law.—[1] Where there is a special or local law, the Civil Courts would not have jurisdiction under S. 9 to entertain a claim merely because it is of civil nature. A special law overrides the general jurisdiction conferred on Civil Courts to entertain suits of a civil nature. (Vol 24) 1937 All 365 (366) ; (Vol 21) 1934 All 795 (796, 798). class of suits, provided in doing so it keeps it-elf within the field of legislation confided to its charge and does not contravene any provision of the Constitution Act. Hence, the U. P. Regularization of Remissions Act, even if it makes provision about jurisdiction of Civil Courts, far from being repugnant, is in consonance with the provision of S. 9, Civil P. C. Its validity therefore cannot be assailed on the ground of repugnancy with an existing Indian law. (Vol 27) 1940 All 272 (277) : I L R (1940) All 455 (F B).

[3] In a suit for foreclosure, the defendant pleaded that he came under a special Act and that the Civil Court could not take cognizance of the case. [17] Agra Tenancy Act '3 III' of 1936, Ss. 84, 85, 120 and 230 — Suit against fixed rate tenant for demolition of building and injunction—Civil Court's jurisdiction is not barred by S. 230 read with S. 120, merely because question of improvement is involved — Civil Court is competent to try such a suit by virtue of S. 9. [3] Where the duty of deciding disputes between subjects and the Crown is cast upon a special tribunal by the Legislature, the tribunal so constituted must act in good faith. The decision must be arrived at in the spirit and with the sense of responsibility of tribunals whose duty it is to mete out justice. If the tribunal comes to a conclusion after due inquiry then the jurisdiction of the ordinary Civil Courts is barred and its decision is final. But if the conclusion is come to without any sort of enquiry and without an opportunity being given to the parties to be heard, the jurisdiction of the ordinary Civil Courts is not to be taken away. (Vol 6) 1919 Bom 30 (31) ; 43 Bom 703.

[4] A right to stop the idol in front of a person's house is not cognizable by Civil Courts. Explanation IV.—Any matter which might and ought to have been made ground of defence or attack in such former suit shall be deemed to have been a matter directly and substantially in issue in such suit.

Explanation V.—Any relief claimed in the plaint, which is not expressly granted by the decree, shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to have been refused.

Objects and Reasons.

“Clause 11. — Res judicata. — It is not possible to make a complete exposition of a subject so complex as that of res judicata within the limits of a section of an Act and the Committee think it better to re-enact S. 13 as it stands in the Code with such modifications only as experience has shown to be necessary.

The Committee recognize that a proceeding does not come within the language of that section; but they think it better not to deal with this point in express terms for the reason that the applicability of the doctrine of res judicata to certain proceedings is not open to doubt, and they foresee that any express reference to proceedings in a crystallised definition might only lead to difficulties. (L. R. 11 I. A. 37 and I. L. R. 29 Cal. 707.)

The word ‘another’ has been substituted for ‘former’ as being more in conformity with Indian decisions.

Explanation I.—(Now Explanation II) is new and is intended to affirm the view that the competence of the jurisdiction of a Court does not depend on the right of appeal from his decision.

Explanation VI.—The inclusion of public rights is to give due effect to suits relating to public nuisances (Clause 91.)—S. O. R.

“Clause 11. — We have restored the word ‘former’ and have inserted Explanation I on the suggestion of Sir Bhashyam Iyengar to remove a conflict of authority as to the meaning of the expression ‘former suit’.”

1. Applicability and scope. — [1] There is more comprehensive dealing of the subject of res judicata in the new Code than in the old. (1903) 26 Mad 760 (770).

[2] The principle of res judicata that no litigant can ever have the same case tried twice is not to be evaded by a literal and a narrow application of special section. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 257 (262).

[3] The principle of res judicata is the maxim that it is in the interest of the state that there should be an end to law suits. (Vol 33) 1946 Oudh 33 (34) : 20 Luck 339 (FB). (Overruling (Vol 20) 1933 Oudh 531 on another point.)

[4] A further consideration for the formulation of this principle is to be found in the maxim that no man shall be vexed twice over for the same cause. (Vol 33) 1946 Oudh 33 (34) : 20 Luck 339 (FB). (Overruling (Vol 20) 1933 Oudh 531 on another point); (1910) 8 Ind Cas 9 (11, 12) (All); (1902) 24 All 138 (141); (1938) ILR (1938) Lah 75 (80, 81); (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 157 (161); (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 1235 (1237); (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 118 (119); (Vol 4) 1917 Sind 93 (94) : 10 Sind L R 29.

[5] The bar of res judicata is not merely confined to the decision itself, but extends to all facts involved in it as necessary steps or ground work for the decision. (Vol 24) 1937 Rang 214 (218) : 14 Rang 652; (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 303 (304) : 28 Oudh Cas 2.

[6] Section 11 not only bars the trial of an issue but also the trial of a suit in which the matter directly and substantially in issue has already been agitated upon in a previous suit. (Vol 32) 1945 All 121 (128) : I L R (1945) All 75.

[7] There can be no res judicata or estoppel against a statute. (Vol 32) 1945 All 377 (385) : I L R (1945) All 394; (Vol 22) 1935 All 588 (589).

[8] The application of this rule should be influenced by no technical considerations of form but by matter of substance within the limits allowed by law. (Vol 33) 1946 Oudh 33 (34) : 20 Luck 339 (FB). (Overruling (Vol 20) 1933 Oudh 531 on another point); (Vol 3) 1916 P C 78 (80) : 43 Ind App 91 : 43 Cal 694 (P C).

[9] If section does not apply, the general principles of res judicata cannot be appealed to, because it would be excluded by the terms of the section. It can only be invoked only to extend the doctrine to cases analogous to those referred to in S. 11. (Vol 30) 1943 Oudh 338 (342) : 18 Luck 683 (FB); (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 121 (134). (Upon general principles of law an interlocutory order passed at one stage of the suit operates to bind in all subsequent proceedings.)

[10] If the section is applicable it must be applied in its entirety. (Vol 21) 1934 Sind 112 (113).

[11] Bar of res judicata does not arise where the point at issue between the parties in the subsequent suit was not before the Court at all and was not considered in the prior suit between the same parties. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 8 (7).

[13] Principle of res judicata is one of convenience and rest and not one of absolute justice. Hence a decree which is inter partes is binding on the parties until it is legally set aside; (1910) 37 Cal 197 (201).

[14] The rule of res judicata is in no way opposed to the spirit of Hindu law. (Vol 17) 1930 P C 22 (23) : 57 Ind App 24 (P C). (Vol 3) 1916 P C 78 : 43 Ind App 91 : 43 Cal 694 (P C) Rel. on.)

[15] The law of res judicata does not compel the Court trying the later suit to hold the previous decision to be correct. It merely estops the parties from proving that it is incorrect. (1911) 21 Mad L Jour 57 (69); (Vol 18) 1931 All 425 (426).

[16] Section operates as personal estoppel and does not attach to property. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 306 (308) : 44 Mad 514.

[17] Doctrine should not be qualified to evade its operation where decisions are intended to be final on fair trial. (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 871 (877).

[18] Rule of res judicata is necessarily rule of evidence. (Vol 19) 1932 Oudh 199 (206) : 7 Luck 716 (FB).

[19] Section 11 does not affect jurisdiction of Court. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 282 (284) : 61 Cal 234.

[20] Finding is not conclusive if decree is not based on it but is made in spite of it. (Vol 16) 1929 All 910 (912).

[21] Two decrees operating as res judicata : one against plaintiffs and another against defendants—Later of the two must prevail over the former as it shuts out consideration of the former. (Vol 14) 1927 All 717 (718) : 49 All 606.

[22] Decision based on several grounds — It is res judicata for each ground. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 385 (387).

[23] Erroneous prior decision—Subsequent change in the views of law will not take away the effect of the decision. (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 629 (630) : 50 Cal 215.

[24] O. 34, R. 14 expressly relieves plaintiff from bar of res judicata, which is contained in O. 2, R. 2 but does not relieve plaintiff from bar of res judicata set up by S. 11. (Vol 20) 1933 Rang 158 (159).

[25] Whilst S. 10 bars only a suit, S. 11 bars the trial of both the suit and of issue involved in that suit. (Vol 16) 1929 Oudh 341 (345) : 4 Luck 573.

[26] Execution of decree by a person for possession barred—Fresh suit for possession on basis of judgment in his favour is maintainable. (Vol 3) 1916 All 261 (264).

[27] Permission by Court in judgment to bring fresh suit does not take the case out of bar of res judicata. (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 417 (418).

[28] Where the construction of a will is the subject of a definite pronouncement by a High Court, the same matter cannot be raised in the same High Court in a subsequent suit on identical facts, though the parties to the suit are different. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 34 (35) : I L R (1937) 1 Cal 400.

[29] Res judicata precludes a suit as well as a defence. (Vol 8) 1921 P C 231 (232) (P C). (Case from Eastern Africa under Civil P. C., S. 13.)

[30] Section 403 of the Criminal Procedure Code does not refer to the identity of parties, but to the identity of charges as contrasted with the principles of res judicata in this section. (Vol 14) 1927 Sind 10 (15) : 21 Sind L R 1 : 27 Cri L Jour 1105.

2. Appeals and revisions.—[1] Rule contained in S. 11 applies to appeals also. (Vol 26) 1939 Sind 329 (331) : I L R (1940) Kar 15; (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 693 (694);

Section 11 (contd.)

(Vol 6) 1919 Mad 17 (18); (Vol 12) 1925 Rang 104 (105) : 2 Rang 633.

[2] Mortgage — Redemption suit—Appeal from preliminary decree pending — Appeal from final decree preferred but dismissed for default — Appellate Court is not debarred from granting relief inconsistent with final decree. (Vol 13) 1926 All 665 (667); 48 All 611.

[3] Appeal from preliminary decree pending—Final decree passed is valid and is binding on persons who are parties to the final decree. (Vol 16) 1929 All 287 (289); 29 Cri L Jour 446.

[4] Failure to appeal against a decree for sale precludes objection to the decree in an application under O. 34, R. 6. (Vol 13) 1926 Oudh 27 (28).

[5] Suit for possession of half share in each of two groves in different villages. Suit in respect of one grove dismissed and decreed in respect of other. Appeal by both parties. Plaintiff's appeal dismissed, defendant's allowed, case being remanded. Plaintiff could appeal against order of remand, though he failed to appeal against the order dismissing his appeal. (Vol 5) 1918 All 52 (53); 41 All 54.

[6] Doctrine of res judicata applies equally to second appeal. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 17 (18).

[7] Withdrawal by party of his revision application against a decision which was however upset at other's instance does not estop him from enforcing his rights in another proceeding. (Vol 2) 1915 P C 111 (113); 1915 Pun Re No. 93 (PC).

[8] Rule of res judicata applies to appeals and miscellaneous proceedings — Final judgment in another case on the same point pending appeal operates as res judicata. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 421 (422) : I L R (1942) Mad 677.

[9] Where the matter itself is in appeal or revision the decision of the trial Court is no bar to such appeal or revision. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 416 (416).

[10] Decision of question of res judicata raised in a case is not even though wrong, a failure, or a cause of failure to exercise jurisdiction. (1887) 11 Bom 488 (492).

3. Essentials of res judicata. — [1] Section 11 takes no note of the fact whether the cause of action is the same or is different. The only matter for investigation is whether the matter directly and substantially in issue has been in the same way in issue in former suit between same parties or between parties under whom they or any of them claim. (Vol 11) 1924 Pat 265 (266) : 2 Pat 771.

[2] Section 11 applies when two Courts concerned have concurrent jurisdiction and governs cases where matter is same and has been previously decided by competent Court. (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 346 (347).

[3] Issues must have been raised and tried to make principles of S. 11 operative. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 673 (674).

[See (Vol 19) 1932 Oudh 199 (209) : 7 Luck 716 (FB). (For res judicata there must be previous decree.)]

[4] The theory of res judicata requires the position and the case of the parties to be the same in both suits. (1913) 25 Mad L Jour 324 (327).

[5] Mutuality is one of the tests of res judicata. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 160 (161).

4. Plea of res judicata. — [1] Plea of res judicata is to be strictly construed. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 689 (690).

[3] Substantial effect of previous decision must be considered. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 222 (230).

[4] Plea in previous suit must be construed in same way as done by former Court. (Vol 5) 1918 Low Bur 135 (136); (Vol 26) 1939 Pat 19 (20).

[5] It is irregular for the Appellate Court, of its own accord to raise the question of res judicata, and basing it on flimsy materials which it has before it, to reverse the decision of the first Court. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 357 (357).

[6] A party cannot by manipulation of the form of plea get round the bar of res judicata. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 495 (498).

[7] A person who wishes to set up the plea of res judicata must produce such documents as will bring the case under S. 11 of Civil P. C. (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 196 (198); (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 792 (796).

[8] Plea of estoppel by res judicata can prevail even where the result of giving effect to it, will be to sanction what is illegal or prohibited by law. If the legality of an act is a point substantially in dispute it can become res judicata; if it is abandoned or not put forward by a party, it will be deemed as decided against him. (1909) 33 Bom 479 (482).

[9] No issue as to res judicata raised—Only particular decision incidentally considered as bar by trial Court and no bar by appellate Court—Plea is not wholly excluded especially when whole suit is remanded. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 445 (446) : I L R (1942) 1 Cal 510.

[But see (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 454 (455).]

[10] A plea in bar can be allowed to succeed only where the law expressly provides for it or the implication is so irresistible that its provisions are inconsistent with a contrary hypothesis. (Vol 16) 1929 All 506 (508); 51 All 805.

[11] Sulaiman, Ag. C. J.—A statutory right conferred by a new Act may even be made a foundation of defence to the plea of 'res judicata'. (Vol 18) 1931 All 635 (639); 54 All 299 (F B).

[12] Plea of res judicata can be raised in appeal. (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 173 (175); 8 Pat 107.

[13] Point as to res judicata not raised in the Court below cannot be raised in revision. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 532 (532).

[14] Whether issue was raised and decided is question of fact. (Vol 6) 1919 Bom 81 (82); 43 Bom 568; (1911) 14 Cal L Jour 220 (224); (1904) 14 Mad L Jour 379 (392); (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 50 (52).

[15] Where all the conditions requisite for the application of the rule of res judicata are not stated in the plea, it is impossible to say that on the face of it the suit is barred by res judicata under S. 11, Civil P. C. (1913) 1913 Pun L R No. 194 Page 665 (666).

[16] Burden of proving res judicata is on the person alleging it. (Vol 7) 1920 All 143 (144); (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 196 (198).

[17] Res judicata does not affect jurisdiction but is plea which party can waive. (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 163 (164); (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 950 (950).

[18] Party not putting forward plea of res judicata must be taken to have waived it. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 69 (71); 59 Cal 513.

[19] Effect of waiver of plea is same, whether plea was omitted to be taken by accident, by mistake or, by design. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 950 (950).

5. Res judicata and estoppel.—[1] Res judicata differs from estoppel. A true res judicata ousts the jurisdiction of the Court, while estoppel shuts the mouth of a party. Estoppel means that a person shall not be allowed to say one thing at one time and the opposite at another, while res judicata means that the person shall not say the same thing twice over. (1912) 36 Bom 283 (289); (Vol 23) 1936 Sind 99 (101, 102) : 29 Sind L R 455.

[2] Res judicata is a form of estoppel — There can be no estoppel against statute — Recovery of amount prohibited by statute — Defendant can plead statute though plaintiff is entitled to recover under previous judgment. (Vol 26) 1939 Pat 633 (636).

[3] Estoppel by record operates as an estoppel to the whole right and not to a fragment of it which might be given effect to or repelled by the decree of Court. (Vol 15) 1928 Oudh 359 (362) : 3 Luck 487.

[4] Estoppel must be mutual and party not bound by judgment cannot set it up as a bar against a party to it. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 248 (256) : 44 Mad 778 (FB).

[5] Equitable estoppel — Defendant's agreement to manage minor plaintiff's property and pay interest on debt and indemnify against loss — On defendant's failure to pay interest, creditor suing plaintiff and defendant — Claim decreed on failure to prove payment of interest — In suit by plaintiff on indemnity defendant is equitably estopped from pleading payment of interest to the creditor. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 36 (87) : 37 Mad 270.

6. Section if exhaustive.—[1] Section 11 is not exhaustive of the general principle of res judicata. General principle can be applied where S. 11 does not apply. (Vol 18) 1931 P C 114 (117) : 58 Ind App 158 : 53 All 103 (PC); (Vol 19) 1932 P C 161 (164) : 10 Rang 322 : 59 Ind App 247 (PC); (Vol 17) 1930 P C 22 (23) : 57 Ind App 24 (PC); (Vol 9) 1922 P C 80 (83, 84) : 45 Mad 320 : 49 Ind App 129 (PC).

[2] The plea of res judicata still remains apart from the limited provisions of the Code. (Vol 8) 1921 P C 11 (13) : 48 Cal 499 : 48 Ind App 187 (PC); (Vol 13) 1926 Lah 603 (604) : 8 Lah 15.

[3] English decisions can be considered for grasping general principles of res judicata. (Vol 19) 1932 P C 161 (164) : 10 Rang 322 : 59 Ind App 247 (PC).

[4] Section 11 is exhaustive in respect of all cases falling within its terms and with regard to such cases, the Court is not entitled to travel outside the section and apply the general principles. (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 792 (798); (Vol 28) 1941 Cal 104 (106); (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 646 (647) : 14 Lah 437; (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 551 (552) : 14 Lah 369; (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 840 (845); (Vol 21) 1934 Nag 178 (179).

[5] Section 11 cannot be extended to cases not strictly covered by it. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 450 (453).

[6] Section 11 applies when two Courts concerned have concurrent jurisdiction — General principle of res judicata has wider application—It governs cases where matter is same and has been previously decided by competent Court. (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 346 (347).

7. Competent Court.—[1] Decision in previous suit to operate as res judicata must be of a Court which would have had jurisdiction to decide question raised in subsequent suit. (1885) 11 Cal 301 (308) : 12 Ind App 23 (PC); (Vol 25) 1938 All 82 (84, 85) : I L R (1938) All 184; (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 398 (401) : 57 Bom 456; (Vol 8) 1921 Bom 434 (435) : 45 Bom 805; (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 192 (198); (1908) 35 Cal 353 (356); (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 346 (347); (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 551 (552) : 14 Lah 369; (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 913 (915) : 57 Mad 335; (Vol 2) 1915 Oudh 30 (31); (1940) 21 Pat L Tim 894 (896); (Vol 26) 1939 Sind 329 (329, 330) : I L R (1940) Kar 15.

[2] First Court must be competent to try not merely subsequent issue but subsequent 'suit'. (Vol 19) 1932 All 434 (439) : 54 All 786; (1902) 29 Cal 707 (715) : 29

Ind App 196 (PC); (1938) 67 Cal L Jour 223 (227, 228); (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 551 (552) : 14 Lah 369.

[3] Decision of competent Court even if ex parte is still binding on parties in a later suit. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 830 (833).

[4] Subsequent suit is not barred by res judicata if Court which tried previous suit is incompetent to try subsequent suit. (Vol 26) 1939 Pat 375 (377) : 18 Pat 342; (Vol 11) 1924 All 466 (466); (Vol 7) 1920 All 23 (25); (Vol 28) 1941 Cal 104 (105, 106); (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 646 (647) : 14 Lah 437; (1909) 6 Mad L Tim 375 (376); (Vol 2) 1915 Oudh 30 (31); (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 270 (273).

[5] Decree passed on contest in Small Cause Court not operating as res judicata — Decree based on award in same suit or award itself cannot also operate as res judicata. (Vol 19) 1932 Pat 105 (110) : 11 Pat 50.

[6] Previous decision must be by a competent Court. (Vol 13) 1926 Bom 481 (484); (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 840 (844).

[7] Decision by a Court having no jurisdiction does not bind the persons who had not been parties to the proceedings. (Vol 1) 1914 P C 67 (69) : 41 Ind App 110 : 47 Cal 972 (PC).

[8] Judgment by Court without jurisdiction is not conclusive between parties and hence cannot operate as res judicata. (Vol 18) 1931 All 454 (458) : 53 All 560; (1905) 28 Mad 42 (49, 50) : 32 Ind App 45 (PC); (Vol 17) 1930 All 681 (685, 686) : 52 All 868; (Vol 4) 1917 All 157 (157) : 89 All 353; (1913) 87 Bom 563 (571, 572); (1900) 24 Bom 77 (85); (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 792 (797); (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 131 (134) : 47 Cal 770; (Vol 10) 1923 Lah 141 (142); (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 913 (915) : 57 Mad 335; (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 716 (717) : 47 Mad 850. [16] Civil Court is not entitled to treat revenue Court's decree ultra vires, because it is of opinion that revenue Court has exceeded its special jurisdiction, if it must be deemed to have held that it had jurisdiction. (Vol 13) 1926 Oudh 369 (369).

[17] Suit in Court having no jurisdiction to try it—No objection raised by either party as regards jurisdiction — Decision therein operates as res judicata in subsequent suit between same parties on same cause of action. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 257 (262).

[18] Doctrine of res judicata does not apply to question of jurisdiction—It can neither confer nor oust jurisdiction of Court nor can it estop party from showing absence of jurisdiction. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 988 (989); (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 835 (837) : 59 Mad 62; (Vol 28) 1941 Cal 493 (493, 495).

8. Competency—Test — Explanation II.—[1] In determining competency what has to be regarded is competency of original Court. (Vol 26) 1939 Sind 329 (330); I L R (1940) Kar 15; (Vol 9) 1922 All 445 (446) : 44 All 712; (1906) 30 Bom 220 (225) ; (1880) 5 Cal 832 (833) ; (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 644 (644) ; (1911) 21 Mad L Jour 57 (68) ; (Vol 23) 1936 Oudh 387 (400) : 12 Luck 371.

[3] Fact that in two suits appeals may lie in different Courts does not affect application of rule of res judicata. (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 644 (644); (1901) 24 Mad 444 (446, 447); (1894) 17 Mad 273 (275); (1898) 25 Cal 571 (579).

[4] Fact that no right of appeal exists against a decision does not in any way affect the operation of the rule of res judicata. [5] Explanation 2 to S. 11 has no retrospective effect. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 1035 (2) (1036).

[6] Inability of Court to try suit arising, not from incompetence, but from existence of another Court with preferential jurisdiction—Court is still competent and its decision operates as res judicata. (Vol 5) 1918 Nag 163 (164) : 14 Nag L R 115 ; (Vol 4) 1917 All 263 (264); 39 All 717 ; (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 573 (574).

[7] Competency of Court to entertain subsequent suit must be determined by reference to date on which earlier suit was filed. [10] Later suit for declaration that a decree ex parte is void for fraud is untenable if an earlier application to set aside the decree has been dismissed, unless fresh grounds of fraud are mentioned. (Vol 11) 1924 Pat 238 (239) : 2 Pat 833.

[11] Suit to set aside ex parte decree on ground of fraud—Fraud consisting of allegation that summons had been fraudulently suppressed — Allegation investigated and negatived in proceedings under O. 9, R. 13 — Matter is res judicata — Question of falsity of claim does not arise. (Vol 29) 1942 Pat 357 (359).

[12] Rejection of application does not bar a suit to set aside decree as fraudulent and also of proving incidentally non-service of summons. (Vol 11) 1924 Pat 241 (242).

[14] Fraud to vacate judgment must be extraneous and not one already judged — Rule allowing vacating a decree for fraud is not an exception to rule of res judicata but independent of it—Power to set aside decree is discretionary. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 364 (365, 366) : 38 Mad 203.

[17] Section 13, Civil P. C. provides that a foreign judgment may operate as 'res judicata'. (Vol 25) 1933 Bom 173 (175); I. L. R. (1933) Bom 16.

[18] Res judicata—Foreign judgment is subject to same condition as one of Court in British India. (Vol 5) 1918 Low Bur 80 (31) : 9 Low Bur 103.

[19] It cannot be said that every issue decided by foreign Court is binding upon British Indian Court. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 627 (630)* (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 327 (336) : 51 Mad 720.

[20] Immovable property situate in British India—Adjudication with respect to it by a non-British Indian Court is not res judicata. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 327 (333): 51 Mad 720* (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 627 (629).

13. Constructive res judicata—Explanation IV. —[1] The doctrine of constructive res judicata must not be extended beyond the strict limits of S. 11. (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 47 (49).

[2] Explanation 4 cannot be given effect to unless all conditions mentioned in S. 11 are fulfilled. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 264 (267).

[3] The principle of constructive res judicata does not depend on convenience of parties about taking certain pleas. If the Court finds that there is a plea which if taken by a party would have defeated the suit as brought and such plea is not taken, that plea must be held as one which ought to have been taken and will be barred in a subsequent suit. (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 354 (356).

[4] Explanation 4 applies to interlocutory proceedings in same suit. (Vol 17) 1930 Bom 431 (433) : 54 Bom 696.

[5] Rule of constructive res judicata must be distinguished from rule in O. 2, R. 2. The latter requires that the whole claim which has arisen at the date of the suit out of the cause of action should be included in the suit so as to avoid splitting of claim arising out of the same cause of action, while the former enjoins that every ground which could and ought to have been urged in support of the claims actually made in the suit shall be deemed to have been adjudicated upon therein whether it was actually raised or not. (1903) 26 Mad 760 (767).

[6] Even if the matter is not actually heard and finally decided, any matter that is constructively in issue in a previous suit operates as 'res judicata' in a subsequent suit. (1929) 11 Lah L Jour 97 (98, 99) ; (1911) 11 Ind Cas 127 (128) (Cal) ; (Vol 3) 1916 Lah 315 (315). [See also (Vol 8) 1921 Bom 195 (196) : 45 Bom 24. (Matter not actually decided by Court can be res judicata only if Explan. 4 applies.) * (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 94 (94, 95).]

[7] Where the effect of the decision in a former suit is necessarily inconsistent with the defence that ought to have been but was not raised, that defence must be deemed to have been finally decided. (1909) 9 Cal L Jour 362 (363, 364) ; (Vol 29) 1942 All 410 (421) : ILR (1942) All 624. [8] Explanation 4 has no application when matter in question has been expressly made ground of defence but has not been decided. (Vol 18) 1931 Oudh 157 (158)* (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 404 (407, 408) ; (Vol 16) 1929 Bom 323 (325). (Partition—Two lands kept undivided — Suit for partition of one—Another not included — Inclusion suggested but point not decided — Subsequent suit to recover share in other is not barred by res judicata.) * (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 1 (3). (Point raised but neither put in issue nor argued.)

[10] Plea of 'constructive' res judicata must be determined only with reference to the suit as framed and not with reference to what under the law the suit must have been. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 70 (75).

[11] Section 11, Suits Valuation Act and S. 21, Civil P. C., propound that unless objection to the pecuniary or territorial jurisdiction of a Court is taken by the parties at the earliest opportunity, the principle of constructive res judicata will apply. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 257 (262).

Held, that the second suit was barred as res judicata. The matter directly and substantially in issue in the first suit was whether the defendant owed the plaintiff any sum on account of the use by him of the plaintiff's boats. The ground in the second suit ought to have been taken as an alternative in the first suit in the event of a direct contract not being proved. (1912) 15 Ind Cas 374 (375) (Low Bur).

[5] Where a suit claiming relief, alternatively against A and B is decreed against B who prefers an appeal, and the appeal is allowed, a subsequent suit against A for the same reliefs is not barred by res judicata. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 223 (225).

[16] Suit by N against step-mother J for declaration that he was exclusive owner of property left by his father F on ground that J had been divorced by F—Suit dismissed—Subsequent suit for declaration that J was entitled only to one-fifth share in lieu of maintenance and not to one-half held barred as the ground of action ought to have been taken as a ground of attack in previous suit. (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 872 (874); I L R (1937) Lah 496.

[12] Where it is not certain that a matter would have affected the result of the suit it cannot be said that it ought to have been raised. (Vol 7) 1920 Pat 291 (322); 5 Pat L Jour 164* (1911) 9 Ind Cas 535 (586) (Cal). (A defendant who had been impleaded in a suit for declaration and possession on the ground that he had purchased a portion thereof is not bound to put forward therein a plea of under-tenancy with respect to the holding.)* (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 552 (553). (Judgment-debtor's omission to challenge liability creates no estoppel)* (1913) 9 Nag L R 143 (144). (The failure to advance a claim to pre-empt as a defendant to a suit on a mortgage is no bar to a subsequent suit for pre-emption.)

[13] Two grounds for relief not mutually destructive must be impleaded in suit—Otherwise fresh suit would be barred. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 481 (482, 483)* (Vol 13) 1926 Oudh 545 (545). (Pre-emption suit—Pre-emptor is not bound to set up his own title.); (Vol 8) 1921 Pat 326 (327).

[14] It is not necessary to put forward a claim and also an inconsistent claim in the alternative in the same suit. (1913) 24 Mad L Jour 418 (421)* (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 27 (29)* (1928) 107 Ind Cas 110 (112) (Lah). (If its introduction would have been incongruous to the matter of that suit.)* (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 286 (287, 288)* (1909) 12 Oudh Cas 347 (358). (Suit on title—Inconsistent titles need not be set up—9 Oudh Cas 235, overruled.)

[15] Minor through guardian though bound to object to validity of alienation by father omitting to do so in previous suit—He cannot reopen matter in subsequent suit. (Vol 22) 1933 Lah 44 (46). (Reversed on another point in (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 489.)

[16] Suit for mere declaration—Possession not asked—Subsequent suit for possession is barred as the relief of possession should have been asked in the former suit. (Vol 9) 1922 Nag 129 (134); 21 Nag L R 124.

[17] Suit on agreement for arrears of maintenance—Second suit—Plaintiff not entitled to rely on events prior to former suit. (1912) 1912 Mad W N 182 (182, 183).

[18] Suit for rent against four defendants—Defence that plaintiff alone cannot sue as there are other co-sharers held not barred by res judicata. (Vol 31) 1944 Oudh 281 (282).

[19] Validity of will disputed in prior suit—Plea against specific provision of will not necessary in it—Subsequent suit against that specific provision will not be barred. (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 967 (969); 10 Lah 389.

[20] Suit for recovery of money, by lessor of right to receive offerings at temple, on basis of a kabuliyat—Suit decreed—Subsequent suit for recovery of money for another period on the basis of same kabuliyat—Lessee pleading that the right being not transferable transfer was void—Lessee ought to have taken plea in previous suit, hence defence is barred. (Vol 15) 1928 All 721 (723); 50 All 394.

[21] Suit for specific performance of a contract of sale—Relief as to possession need not be asked. (Vol 12) 1925 Bom 181 (182).

[22] First suit on title by purchase—Second suit on title by inheritance—Second suit is barred. (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 257 (259); 46 Mad 135.

[23] A plea that an alienation is valid on the ground that the next reversioner has given consent ought to have been raised in a prior suit for declaration of the invalidity of the alienation and could not be set up in a subsequent suit for possession. (1909) 3 Ind Cas 117 (121) (All).

[24] Plaintiff suing to recover property from defendants alleging his reversionary right to the last male holder—Another suit against same defendants regarding the same property as reversioner of the female holder in possession is barred. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 234 (234).

24. Partition suits.—[1] That generally only one suit for partition will lie represents settled law. (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 584 (584).

[See however (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 108 (109).]

[2] Partition suit should comprise all properties though situated in different jurisdiction so far as their existence is known at the date of the plaint. (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 584 (584, 585)* (1883) 7 Bom 272 (278).

[3] Property omitted by a mistake in partition suit—Subsequent partition suit is not barred. (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 293 (295)* (Vol 18) 1931 Sind 27 (27).

[4] Claim that ought to have been but was not raised in partition proceedings—Separate suit does not lie. (Vol 9) 1922 Bom 119 (120, 121); 46 Bom 327* (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 671 (673)* (Vol 13) 1926 Oudh 509 (510, 511); 1 Luck 210. (Plea of irredeemable mortgage if not raised in previous partition proceeding is barred.)

[5] Though, ordinarily, it may be convenient that all questions, relating to the administration of the affairs of the family, should be settled in a partition suit, there is no principle of law which prevents the coparceners from restricting the scope of the suit to what may be necessary for the grant of the relief claimed by the plaintiff. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 70 (74).

[6] Suit for possession of specific portion of the holding on allegation of partition—Allegation found against plaintiff—Subsequent suit for partition of the whole holding is neither barred by S. 11 nor by O. 2, R. 2. (Vol 8) 1921 Low Bur 13 (15); 11 Low Bur Rul 1.

[7] Where first suit to enforce partition effected by father is dismissed a second suit for partition after father's death is not barred because cause of action in prior suit was partition deed executed by father and there was no obligation on plaintiff to sue in the alternative for partition though he certainly might have done so if he liked—Again, when he realised his mistake and asked for leave to amend which was refused, it becomes the direct cause of omission from the suit. (Vol 10) 1923 Bom 467 (468).

25. Suits based on title.—[1] Suit for possession of land dismissed—Subsequent suit for same land on different title is barred. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 535 (536).

[2] Dismissal of a suit in which the claim to recover property was based on survivorship will bar a suit based on reversionary right. The plaintiffs ought to have pleaded their heirship as a ground of title. (1901) 25 Bom 189 (197).

[3] Later suit based on different title and cause of action and relating to different property—Alternative ground of title not pleaded in previous suit is not barred by res judicata—Previous suit is not res judicata. (Vol 10) 1923 All 176 (179); 45 All 59.

[4] Omission to claim right of way alternatively in title suit does not bar separate suit for that relief. (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 600 (601).

[5] Suit on title against defendant decreed—Plaintiff taking possession under decree but dispossessed by defendant—Plaintiff suing again for possession—Defendant's plea of thekadari rights of possession is barred by S. 11. (Vol 14) 1927 Oudh 341 (344).

26. Directly and substantially in issue.—[1] When question is directly and substantially in issue between same parties in prior suit it operates as res judicata in a subsequent suit. (Vol 0) 1933 Cal 923 (923); 60 Cal 1171; (Vol 15) 1928 All 62 (64). (Two or three issues in a suit—One or some of them decided—Second suit on same grounds but some more reliefs claimed—Finding in the former suit is 'res judicata.') (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 118 (119); (1913) 37 Bom 224 (230); (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 985 (986, 988); (1909) 13 Cal W N 281 (284); (Vol 25) 1938 Pat 306 (307); 17 Pat 451 (SB).

[2] Decision on a point not directly and substantially in issue cannot operate as res judicata in a subsequent suit. (Vol 15) 1928 Nag 169 (171); (Vol 12) 1925 All 794 (795); (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 879 (380); 50 Cal 475; (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 40 (42); (1909) 36 Cal 75 (82); (Vol 31) 1914 Mad 237 (238); (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 251 (257); ILR (1937) Mad 364. (There can be no 'res judicata' laying down a wrong rule of law between parties for future guidance also.); (Vol 9) 1922 Oudh 251 (254); 25 Oudh Cas 157; (Vol 4) 1917 Oudh 66 (69).

[3] Subject-matter of the two suits need not be common. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 273 (275); (Vol 10) 1923 All 613 (615); 45 All 515; (1935) 61 Cal L Jour 301 (303); (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 390 (391); 29 Oudh Cas 93; (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 118 (119).

[4] Matter in issue and not "subject-matter of suit," forms essential test of res judicata. (Vol 17) 1930 Cal 47 (50); 57 Cal 258; (Vol 20) 1933 Oudh 535 (537); 9 Luck 237.

[5] Issues must be identical and not only allied. (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 47 (49); (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 201 (202); (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 1107 (1110). (Test of application of res judicata is whether the issue was same, quite apart from fact that decision now would be quite different.); (Vol 10) 1923 Pat 65 (68); 2 Pat 110.

[6] The question whether a matter is directly and substantially in issue depends on whether parties and Court have dealt with the matter as if there was relief claimed in respect of it. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 504 (505); (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 1107 (1110); (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 309 (310); (Vol 14) 1927 Oudh 625 (626).

[7] It is not necessary that before a matter can be said to be 'res judicata,' it should form the subject-matter of a definite issue. If the Court can gather from the material before it, namely, the pleadings, judgment and the decree, that the matter was directly and substantially in issue and formed the basis of the judgment arrived at in the earlier suit either expressly or by necessary implication, then principle of 'res judicata' would apply. (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 291 (294); (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 1022 (1027); (1913) 20 Ind Cas 700 (700) (Cal). (The question of res judicata is one of substance and not of form); (1894) 21 Cal 430 (433); (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 709 (710); (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 212 (215); (1913) 1913 Mad WN 858 (861).

[8] Issue raised by parties even improperly, and decided by the Court is 'res judicata'. (Vol 14) 1927 All 803 (804); (Vol 19) 1932 P C 50 (51).

[9 & 10] Framing of issues does not of itself make the matter to which such issues relate "directly and substantially in issue." (1895) 17 All 174 (195).

[11] Decision based on findings of two issues where finding on one issue was sufficient — Findings on both issues are res judicata. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 864 (864); (Vol 12) 1925 All 546 (547); 47 All 778; (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 1003 (1004, 1005); (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 750 (753); (1897) 24 Cal 900 (906, 907); (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 335 (337); (Vol 5) 1918 Lah 250 (255, 256); 1918 Pun Re No 13; (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 299 (305).

[12] Question abandoned by plaintiff but decided by Court at express request of defendant is res judicata. (Vol 11) 1924 P C 144 (149); 51 Cal 631; 51 Ind App 293 (P C).

[13] Where a recurring liability is the subject of a claim, a previous judgment dismissing the suit upon findings, which do not go to the root of the title upon which the claim rests, cannot operate as res judicata, but not so if the title itself is negated. (1889) 11 All 148 (156); (Vol 16) 1929 All 29 (30, 31); (Vol 13) 1926 Pat 288 (288). (Cause of action a recurring one—Still, matter directly and substantially in issue is res judicata.)

[14] The right to sue for ejectment accrues from year to year. Therefore, a previous suit for ejectment does not bar a subsequent suit for the same against the same parties. (Vol 13) 1926 All 34 (34).

[15] Where a person transfers his property and it is sold in execution of a decree against the transferor, and transferee sues under C. P. C., O. 21, R. 63 and the transferor is made defendant along with the attaching creditor, though the transferor may admit plaintiff's claim, decision against plaintiff operates as res judicata in subsequent suit between transferor and transferee. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 319 (320).

[16] For illustrations of "matter directly and substantially in issue" see the following cases. (Vol 30) 1943 All 362 (363); ILR (1943) All 792. (Previous suit claiming title by adverse possession — Decision that land belonged to Government operates as res judicata in subsequent suit claiming easement—(Vol 29) 1942 All 405, Reversed). (1930) 1930 All L Jour 1569 (1570). (Suit for restitution of conjugal rights decreed in favour of husband and plea of impotency decided against defendants — Subsequent suit by wife for dissolution of marriage on ground of husband's impotency is barred.) (1908) 30 All 36 (37). (In a suit for redemption, settlement of account between parties is directly and substantially in issue and the decree directs complete and final account of what will be due to the claimant on the fixed date. The party redeeming cannot subsequently sue for profits realized by the mortgagee in possession.) (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 247 (250); ILR (1941) Bom 361. (Suit for specific performance — Subsequent suit for possession is not barred.) (1902) 26 Bom 661 (667); (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 725 (725). (Decision on question as to whether Transfer of Property Act, or Bengal Tenancy Act applies, in a previous suit for rent, operates as 'res judicata' in a subsequent suit for possession.) (Vol 15) 1923 Cal 459 (460). (Decree in partition suit directing that some of the properties should remain joint — Subsequent suit for their partition barred.) (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 368 (375). (Decision whether particular issue arises in a suit is as much res judicata as decision of issue on merits.) (1886) 12 Cal 484 (493, 494); 12 Ind App 188 (P C). (Question of permanent tenure.) (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 702 (706). (Validity of mortgage is directly and substantially in issue in suit on pro-note executed in lieu of interest on mortgage.) (Vol 1) 1914 Lah 24 (26); 1914 Pun Re No. 12. (Puisne mortgagee's suit against prior mortgagee for redemption and against mortgagor for possession—Subsequent suit against mortgagor for possession.) (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 816 (820); 49 Mad 691. (Cause of action for partition is one and same and once it has merged in decree a second suit for partition is barred.) (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 1107 (1110). (In suits by son to set aside father's alienation before and after death of father question of purchaser's adverse possession would be same and decision operates as res judicata.) (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 50 (52); 9 Luck 291. (Mortgage suit—Issue as to whether trees were included in mortgage properties necessary from pleadings — Decision that trees were not in mortgaged property acts as res judicata.) (Vol 17) 1930 Pat 71 (75, 76). (Suit by reversioner to set aside alienation by widow — Issue of heirship specifically raised and decided—Subsequent suit by same person on inheritance opening by death of last female owner—Issue of heirship is res judicata.)

27. Incidentally in issue. — [1] Issue not directly in issue in previous suit is not res judicata. (Vol 10) 1923 Oudh 139 (141).

[2] A fact cannot be in issue directly when the judgment can be correct whether the fact exists or not. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 353 (356).

29. Issue of law.—[1] A defence or claim based on a question of law is a "matter" within the meaning of the section. [12] A decision on an abstract question of law is not res judicata. Where a decision on a point of law, whether it be on a construction of a document or of a statute or on Common law or on customary law, settles a question that arises directly out of the conflicting views as to the rights of the parties, it is res judicata. 31. Mixed question of fact and law.—[1] Where the Court in a former suit had to consider questions of law as well as questions of fact, the matter is not an abstract question of law. And the finding on a mixed question of law and fact is res judicata. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 777 (780) : 56 Cal 723 (F B) ; (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 80 (81) * (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 352 (356) * (Vol 13) 1926 Lah 251 (252) * (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 299 (305).

[See also (1903) 29 Mad 225 (231). (When it is not based on a misapprehension of a general rule of law, a decision is res judicata between the same parties in a subsequent suit.)]

[2] What is meant exactly by "mixed question of fact and law" in the convenient proposition that the doctrine of res judicata does not apply to a case of mixed question of fact and law? The answer depends on the frame of the issues in the case. Any issue involving both questions of law and of fact must be split up as to admit of a pure issue of law being framed on the hypothesis of a finding of fact one way or another. A decision on an abstract question of law is not res judicata but a decision on the construction of a document as settling the rights of parties is res judicata. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 1309 (1313).

[3] Whether a particular stipulation contained in a kabuliat having been held to be valid between the parties, could be tried as an issue again in a subsequent suit is a mixed question of law and fact. (1901) 28 Cal 318 (323).

[4] In a previous litigation between the parties it was decided that defendants were not entitled to deduct the Government revenue and the cesses but only the collection charges from the gross income of the estate to determine the net assets upon which malikana was to be calculated : Held, that this being a mixed question of fact and law, the decision upon it though erroneous was binding upon the parties and their successors. [7] Question as to executability of a decree is not a pure question of law but really one of construction of the decree. Hence, the principle of res judicata applies. (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 594 (595) : 14 Lah 409.

[8] Whether a document was an award or not is not a question of law alone, but depends upon the consideration of the evidence of circumstances leading to the execution thereof. The question when decided may operate as res judicata. (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 274 (277) : 14 Lah 31.

[9] A redemption suit was dismissed under O. 9, R. 2 but before dismissal the issue of limitation was decided in favour of plaintiff. The decision on the question of limitation would operate as res judicata in a subsequent fresh suit for redemption by plaintiff as the issue involved not merely a question of law but a mixed question of law and fact. (1913) 1913 Pun L R No. 156 p. 531 (532, 533).

32. Substantially in issue.—[1] A decision on a point not substantially in issue in a suit cannot operate as res judicata in any later suit in which it may be substantially in issue. [3] A decree for foreclosure passed ex parte against a person joined as defendant on the sole ground that he is in possession of the mortgaged property does not operate as res judicata so as to prevent him or his transferee from setting up a title paramount in a subsequent suit. (Vol 6) 1919 Nag 57 (59) : 15 Nag L R 114 (F B).

[4] An ex parte decree declaring the status of certain persons as reversioners will operate as res judicata in a subsequent suit between the parties and their representatives. (Vol 1) 1914 All 386 (389).

[6] Where a number of defendants have a common interest and the contest is carried on by some of them bona fide against the plaintiff's claim, the defendants who are ex parte are bound by the decision as much as those who contested. (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 571 (573).

[8] An ex parte decree can operate as res judicata only on an issue which is necessary to be determined. (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 535 (536, 537)* (Vol 14) 1927 All 552 (553) : 49 All 658. [9] The effect of an ex parte decree does not depend on the question whether the decree has or has not been executed. (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 849 (850).

[10] A rent decree though only ex parte is res judicata on the question of the existence of the relationship of landlord and tenant between the parties. (Vol 7)

1920 Cal 77 (78)* (1913) 17 Cal W N 627 (629, 630). (But it may not operate as res judicata in respect of the rate of rent.)* (Vol 5) 1918 Nag 262 (263)* (Vol 23) 1936 Pat 556 (557, 558). (Relationship of landlord and tenant must be presumed to be determined.)

[See however (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 849 (850).]

[11] There is no general proposition that ex parte decree for arrears of rent operates or does not operate as res judicata in suit for subsequent year's rent — In suit for arrears of rent, defendant pleading that rate claimed was higher but no issue framed on rate of rent payable and ex parte decree passed — Decree would not operate as res judicata against defendant. (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 673 (674, 675)* (Vol 31) 1944 Cal 118 (119, 120) : I L R (1943) 1 Cal 430* (1899) 16 Cal 300 (307)* (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 147 (150).

[12] A mortgagee under a void mortgage let the property to the mortgagor as tenant and got an ex parte decree for rent against him. Held, the plea that the mortgage was void could not be raised in a subsequent suit for rent, though by allowing the previous decision to stand as a bar the Court would be sanctioning a thing prohibited by law. (1909) 33 Bom 479 (482).

[13] Failure of the appellant to raise an objection at the hearing at which an ex parte order was passed against him, after due notice, estops him from raising that objection in an appeal against that ex parte order. (1910) 7 Mad L Tim 224 (224).

[2] The words of Expl. V of S. 11, "relief claimed in the plaint" mean relief which, assuming the defence fails, the plaintiff is entitled to as of right. (1905) 15 Mad L Jour 462 (465). (14 Mad 328, overruled.)

[3] When a claim for past profits was made in the former suit and enquired into, and the finding recorded that there was a balance due to plaintiff, but no particular sum was fixed by decree, no second suit can be maintained by reason of the bar of Expl. V. The remedy is by appeal or review. (1901) 25 Bom 115 (126).

[4] Plaintiffs having been forcibly dispossessed by defendant filed a suit under S. 9 of the Specific Relief Act for possession with crops or their value and the decree in that suit awarded them only the possession of lands. The plaintiffs, subsequent to their getting possession of the lands, filed a suit for mesne profits for 8 years including the one in which the suit was instituted, alleging that as they got possession after the cultivation season they could not get any profits for that year: Held, that the second suit was not barred by the provisions of S. 11 or O. 2, R. 2 of the Civil P. does not operate as res judicata. (Vol 4) 1917 Oudh 20 (28).

[6] Mortgage-decree — Personal remedy asked for in plaint — Decree silent about it — Plaintiff is not barred from asking for it later on. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 779 (780).

[7] In a suit by a puisne mortgagee against an auction-purchaser of the equity of redemption the latter set up a prior mortgagee right as a shield. The preliminary decree gave priority to the auction-purchaser in respect of his claim but the final decree as well as the execution sale that followed did not mention or provide for his rights as prior mortgagee. The puisne mortgagee purchased the property and got possession: Held, that the auction-purchaser could not sue upon his prior mortgagee rights in a fresh suit. (Vol 5) 1918 All 339 (341).

[8] Where, in pursuance of the terms of the compromise, the plaintiff agrees to take money-decree in a suit on a mortgage bond, a subsequent suit for sale of the mortgaged property will be barred by operation of res judicata, the relief of the sale of property not being expressly granted in previous suit will be deemed as refused. (1909) 31 All 19 (20).

[9] Suit by widow for maintenance — Prayer that it should be charged on property not granted — Subsequent suit to charge property with maintenance is res judicata. (Vol 25) 1938 Pesh 68 (69).

[10] Prior suit for refund of tax and declaration of right of free irrigation — Refund decreed — Extent of land entitled to free irrigation also declared — Subsequent suit in respect of other lands — Finding in prior suit is not incidental and second suit is barred. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 1131 (1132).

[11] Mortgagee in previous suit to enforce his security content to take merely a money-decree — Second suit to realize debt by sale of mortgaged property barred under S. 13 (3) (Present S. 11, Expl. V). (1906) 33 Cal 849 (852).

[12] Explanation V to S. 11 applies only to cases of adjudication by Court — Plaintiff asking decree against joint family including minor sons — Claim against sons withdrawn — Such withdrawal does not operate as res judicata under S. 11 but bars plaintiff from instituting suit on same cause of action under O. 23, R. 1. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 718 (719).

[13] Registered security bond to pay amount and on failure charge to be created over property offered as security — Suit for payment of amount and in case of non-payment sale of land offered as security asked for — Simple money-decree passed — Decree can be executed by attachment and sale of property and suit to enforce mortgage under O. 34, R. 14 is barred by res judicata. (Vol 20) 1933 Rang 158 (160).

[14] Explanation V only applies to relief claimed in plaint. Where in disposing of an application for a personal decree against the mortgagor under O. 34, R. 6, the Court does not expressly grant the prayer for a personal decree, a second application for the personal decree is not barred by res judicata. [18] Suit to sell certain property in satisfaction of decree withdrawn — No leave for bringing fresh suit obtained — Another suit to sell the same property in satisfaction of a different decree—Suit is not barred. (1894) 21 Cal 265 (268).

[19] Suit compromised — Omission to settle part of dispute — Subsequent suit is not barred. (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 293 (294) : 10 Luck 61.

36. Former suit — Explanation I. — [1] The doctrine of 'res judicata' so far as it relates to prohibiting the retrial of an issue, must refer not to the date of commencement of litigation but to the time when the Judge is called upon to decide the issue. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 544 (546).

[2] The date of decision and competency of the first Court to entertain a suit, irrespective of when the suit was filed or where the appeal lies, determines res judicata. (1910) 32 All 67 (70).

[3] A suit decided earlier though filed later is former suit within S. 11. (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 173 (176) : 8 Pat 107.

[5] Cross suits — Appeal from one of them only — Un-appealed decree acts as res judicata as being a decree in former suit. (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 496 (499).

[6] The rule that it is the date of decision and not the date of institution of the suit which is relevant for purposes of res judicata is not limited to the Court of first instance but applies equally to the procedure of first and second appellate Courts and indeed even to miscellaneous proceedings. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 544 (546).

[7] A decision between the same parties establishing the title of one of them to the property in dispute which has become final will operate as res judicata even for the purpose of an appeal or revision from a decree in another suit between the same parties in another Court though the decision was given after the decision appealed against or sought to be revised. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 190 (191) : 59 Mad 777.

[8] Suit at Bemetara on partnership accounts for Rs. 3000—Defendant evading service and appearing only, after publication in local newspaper—In the meantime defendant obtaining ex parte decree in Small Cause Court, Poona, for Rs. 900—Poona decree held did not operate as res judicata in previously filed suit pending in Bemetara Court. (Vol 21) 1934 Nag 178 (179).

37. Connected or cross suits or appeals.—[1] In the case of cross suits between the same parties, an earlier final decision in one suit operates as res judicata (1926) 96 Ind Cas 694 (695) (All).

[2] Connected suits — Decision in one not affecting decision in the other—Failure to appeal from one is no bar to appeal from the other. (Vol 10) 1923 Lah 8 (9).

[3] Three connected suits by daughter challenging mother's alienations decided by one judgment — Decree in one suit appealed against in Divisional Court — Appeal dismissed — Other two decrees of higher value appealed against in Chief Court—Held Divisional Court could not have entertained these appeals and were not therefore barred by previous decision. (Vol 3) 1916 Lah 177 (179) : 1916 Pun Re No. 48.

[4] Suits for pre-emption by rival claimants — One claimant's suit dismissed—No appeal by vendees or other pre-emptors—Appeals from decrees passed in their own suits are not barred. (Vol 14) 1927 All 540 (541).

Section 11 (conid.)

[3] Pre-emption suits relating to same transaction—One judgment—Identical decree in each record—Plaintiffs in suit given right to certain order of priority—Plaintiff in one suit need not appeal against decree in suit by himself as well as in suit by plaintiff who has been given preferential right. (Vol 31) 1914 Oudh 220 (220, 225); 19 Luck 469 & 588.

[6] Where in a partition suit several appeals by defendants are dismissed on the same ground and one of the defendants appeals against the judgment on his appeal without appealing against the other judgment in the other appeals to which he was no party, there is no bar on res judicata. (1910) 5 Ind Cas 325 (328) (All).

[7] Cross-objections dismissed as being filed after dismissal of appeal and without going into merits—Appeal on the same points is not barred. (Vol 11) 1924 All 867 (868).

[8] Cross-objection treated as cross-appeal and two separate decrees passed in appeal and on cross-objection—Second appeal from decree in appeal but not from decree on cross-objection held not barred by res judicata as the appeal was from entire decree inclusive of the dismissal of cross-objections. (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 335 (336, 337); 17 Luck 702.

[9] Two similar suits by a party decreed by the same Munsif—Two appeals heard by different Judges one of which is allowed and the other is dismissed—Second appeal from both—What the Court has to determine is whether there is ground for interference with either judgment taken by itself. (Vol 20) 1933 Oudh 115 (115).

[10] Separate decrees out of two suits heard together—In both, same question arising between parties—Appeal against one decree only—Even on appeal succeeding, nothing causing prejudice to other decree—Appeal on the other is not barred by the rule of res judicata because the unappealed judgment was in favour of the appellant. [11] In the course of the same execution proceedings a different objection can be raised at a different stage thereof. (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 27 (30).

[12] The party who is sought to be affected by the bar of constructive res judicata should have notice of the point likely to be decided against him and should have an opportunity of putting forward his contentions against such a decision. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 1167 (1172): 40 Mad 1016* (Vol 30) 1943 Bom 252 (254)* (1912) 15 Cal L Jour 123 (125)* (1911) 13 Cal L Jour 26 (29)* (Vol 18) 1931 Mad 381 (386)* (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 518 (520)* (Vol 20) 1933 Nag 182 (184): 29 Nag L R 193* (Vol 3) 1916 Oudh 338 (339).

[13] Where execution of something not granted by the decree is sought, mere notice to the defendant that further execution is to be applied for, is not sufficient to make the order res judicata. (1909) 5 Mad L Tim 293 (294)* (Vol 8) 1916 All 42 (48)* (Vol 2) 1915 All 344 (345): 37 All 589* (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 844 (847). (No notice to judgment-debtor in previous execution — Question cannot be said to have been decided)* (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 903 (906).

[14] Order made without notice to judgment-debtor cannot be basis for application of rule of res judicata. [15] An order passed by the Court ex parte after holding that the notice was duly served binds the defendant on general principles of res judicata as much as a contested order. (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 162 (168): 37 Mad 462* (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 193 (194)* (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 466 (469)* (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 406 (406).

[16] Where no objection is taken, but the application for execution does not fructify and there is no judicial determination of the point in issue, the judgment-debtor is not debarred by the principles of 'res judicata' from raising the objection in a later application. (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 245 (247): 1939 Rang L R 152* (Vol 23) 1936 All 21 (32): 58 All 313 (FB)* (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 664 (665)* (1910) 12 Cal L Jour 312 (316)* (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 786 (787)* (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 886 (886)* (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 219 (220): 17 Luck 449* (1910) 13 Oudh Cas 90 (92, 93)* (Vol 12) 1925 Pat 588 (590)* (Vol 30) 1943 Pesh 52 (54).

[17] Want of notice to judgment-debtor will not prevent operation of res judicata against judgment-creditor. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 745 (746)* (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 532 (533): 37 Mad 314.

[18] In the case of dismissal of an execution application for default the only point that is decided is that the application is dismissed. There is no bar for a fresh application. Unless, therefore, there was a decision or adjudication, which either directly or impliedly decided a question on which the parties are at issue, that decision being essentially for passing the order, the rule of res judicata does not apply. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 289 (290) * (Vol 16) 1929 Bom 217 (219).

[19] An order dismissing an objection to execution application dismissed for default of appearance of judgment-debtor does not operate as res judicata against him to prevent him from making same objection again. [2] Award neither acted upon nor replacing original rights is no bar to a suit on original rights. (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 237 (238).

[3] An award is as binding as decree of the Court even in respect of those matters not embodied in the decree as not being referred to arbitration. (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 615 (617).

[4] Decree on award is as binding on parties as any other decree in suit. (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 107 (109).

[7] Arbitrator giving no indication that his award was merely preliminary — Award impeached by plaintiff by suit — Subsequently arbitrator purporting to make final award and decree passed in its terms — Plaintiff's suit was not premature and subsequent conduct of arbitrator would not vitiate it — Decree passed in terms of his final award would not operate as res judicata. (Vol 17) 1930 All 584 (586).

or because the Court thought the amendment unnecessary. Else a second application will be barred under the general principles of law of res judicata. (1912) 39 Cal 265 (271).

(B) LEGAL REPRESENTATIVE (DECISION UNDER O. 22, R. 5).—[29] A decision under O. 22, R. 5 that a certain person is not the legal representative of the deceased party, is not 'res judicata,' because this order is not subject to appeal, and the matter decided is, therefore, not finally decided. (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 580 (581).

[30] Order inter partes under O. 22, R. 5, which did not concern property in subsequent suit between those parties does not operate as res judicata in subsequent suit (Vol 23) 1936 All 412 (422) : 58 All 734.

(C) MESNE PROFITS.—[31] When the Court dismisses an application for ascertaining mesne profits, all subsequent applications are barred, in spite of a direction in the decree to ascertain mesne profits in execution. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 712 (743).

[32] The rejection of an application for assessment of mesne profits awarded by a decree in a suit, has the effect of dismissing the suit and a further application for the purpose is barred. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 71 (72).

(F) PROCEEDINGS UNDER O. 21 R. 100.—[37] The finding of fact arrived at in the summary proceedings, under R. 100 of O. 21, would not be 'res judicata' in a subsequent suit. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 16 (17).

(G) RESTITUTION.—[38] Application under S. 144 for principal amount allowed—Subsequent application for interest is not barred either by res judicata or under O. 2, R. 2. (Vol 22) 1935 All 195 (197).

(H) REVIEW.—[39] A suit cannot be barred by res judicata by reason of the rejection of an application for review of a judgment in a previous suit made upon the same grounds as an application for review is not a suit within S. 11. Mere technicality should not stand in the way of granting a relief which a person is entitled to. (1913) 40 Cal 541 (543) : (1909) 10 Cal L Jour 420 (447, 448) : (Vol 17) 1930 Oudh 112 (112).

[But see (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 161 (161).]

[40] The principle which prevents the same case being twice litigated is of general application, and is not limited by the specific words of the Code in this respect. Hence it is not competent for the Court, in the case of the same question arising between the same parties, to review a previous decision, no longer open to appeal, given by another Court having jurisdiction to try the second case. 40. "Suit"—Meaning of.—[1] Per Full Bench; Madeley J., dissenting.—The word 'suit' should be construed liberally as meaning a part of a suit. There is no reason why, when a matter has been decided by a Court of competent jurisdiction, the decision should not be regarded as conclusive between the same parties when the question arises again in a different suit, though that suit as a whole could not be tried by the Court which decided the earlier suit. (Vol 30) 1943 Oudh 383 (346, 353) : 18 Luck 655.

[2] An application under S. 22, Provincial Insolvency Act to recover property wrongfully seized by the receiver is a "suit" within the meaning of S. 11, Civil P. C. (Vol 5) 1918 All 346 (349) : 39 All 626.

[4] Where a judgment is obtained against a dead man and subsequently another suit is brought against his representatives, the former judgment must be treated as never having existed and it cannot operate as res judicata. (1907) 9 Bom L R 274 (279).

41. Heard and finally decided.—[1] To support the plea of res judicata in addition to the fact that the parties to the suits are the same and that the same matter is in issue the matter must have been heard and finally decided. (1897) 24 Cal 616 (626) : 24 Ind App 50 (PC) * (Vol 22) 1935 All 457 (457) * (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 65 (65) : 46 Cal 733 (An order of remand if not appealed against is final and cannot be re-opened thereafter.) * (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 629 (631) * (Vol 7) 1920 Lah 54 (55, 56) (Reasons for decision do not form part of decree and being appealable cannot operate as res judicata.) * (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 925 (927) : 57 Mad 73 (Principle of res judicata cannot be ignored on ground that reasoning in previous decision can be attacked on particular point.) * (1911) 21 Mad L Jour 57 (67, 68) * (Vol 18) 1931 Oudh 157 (158) * (Vol 6) 1919 Oudh 272 (274) : 22 Oudh Gas 60 (Court coming to decision after weighing evidence—Decision is final.) * (Vol 5) 1918 Pat 618 (619, 620) * (Vol 24) 1937 Sind 110 (112) : 31 Sind L R 55 * (Vol 21) 1934 Sind 112 (113).

[3] The expression 'title' in S. 11 refers not to the cause of action on which the suit is brought, but to the interest or capacity of the party suing or being sued. A subsequent suit by him for declaration of his title to Y and Z is not barred by res judicata. (Vol 5) 1918 All 81 (83, 84) : 40 All 534* (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 334 (337)* (Vol 21) 1934 Nag 33 (34).

[6] Lease of property to A.—Subsequent mortgage of same property to B.—Then purchase of equity of redemption by A.—Suit on mortgage by B—A impleaded as party.—But no allegations derogatory to his right as prior lessee.—He need not plead his right as lessee. Several suits for redemption of same mortgage.—[9] Before the decision of the Privy Council reported in (Vol 21) 1934 P C 205:61 Ind App 362:56 All 561 (PC), there was a conflict of opinion as to whether, where nothing is done under a prior decree for redemption, a subsequent suit for redemption is barred by res judicata (1910) 32 All 215 (218)* (1899) 21 All 251 (262)* (Vol 14) 1927 All 305 (305)* (Vol 13) 1926 All 20 (21) : 48 All 17* (Vol 9) 1922 All 377 (379) : 44 All 730* (1909) 4 Ind Cas 410 (412, 413) (Lab)* (1902) 24 All

[10] In 1934 the conflict has been set at rest by the Judicial Committee which held that by the proviso to S. 60, Transfer of Property Act, 1882, the right to redeem subsists unless "it has been extinguished by order of a Court." This right conferred upon the mortgagor by express enactment can only be taken away by means and in manner enacted for the purpose. The words in the decree for redemption "his case will stand dismissed" cannot be construed as meaning that the plaintiff is to be debarred from all right to redeem. It does not operate as res judicata. (Vol 21) 1934 P C 205 (207, 208) : 61 Ind App 362 : 56 All 561 (P C).

[11] Where the prior decree for redemption does not provide that in default of payment within the time fixed, the right of redemption must be extinguished, a fresh suit for redemption is not barred. (Vol 23) 1936 Pat 420 (421) : 15 Pat 607.

[12] Unless there has been an extinction of the mortgage right or of the right to redeem, by a decree passed under O. 34, R. 8 (2) in the former suit, there can be no question of bar by way of res judicata to a second suit for redemption. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 217 (221).

[13] All matters actually decided, such as the amount due, etc., will be conclusive and cannot be raised in the fresh suit. (1874) 22 Suth W R 269 (270).

Suit by mortgagees against mortgagor and puisne mortgagee. — [14] Puisne mortgagee impleaded in a suit on a mortgage brought by a prior mortgagee—Prior mortgage satisfied before sale under the decree in favour of prior mortgagee—Puisne mortgagee can sue mortgagor for sale on his mortgage. (Sale under prior mortgage decree—Deposit by subsequent mortgagee and application to reserve rights under his mortgage—Latter prayer rejected—Suit on his mortgage—Latter is not barred.)

[15] Where a usufructuary mortgagee brings a suit for possession against the mortgagor, a subsequent suit by the latter for redemption is not barred. (1913) 35 All 227 (233, 234) : 40 Ind App 74 (P C).

[16] In a suit on a mortgage the defendant, mortgagor, is bound to put forward a counter-claim for any sum that may be due to him by the mortgagee arising out of the mortgage transaction, the general rule being that all claims relating to the mortgage between the parties thereto must be determined in one suit. (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 531 (532).

[17] In a suit to enforce a mortgage against the heirs of a mortgagor, an heir who has an independent title in the mortgaged properties is not bound to set up his title. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 12 (13) : 58 Cal 1222.

[18] Where the subsequent mortgagee of a holding governed by the Central Provinces Tenancy Act is the landlord himself, and the prior mortgage has not been created with his consent, it has been held that he is in the position of a person claiming by title paramount in respect of such prior mortgage and so, even though he may be added as a party to the suit by the prior mortgagee, the landlord is not bound to set up his rights under his mortgage in such suit. (1936) 19 Nag L Jour 290 (293).

Suit by mortgagee without impleading puisne mortgagee. — [19] A mortgagee who omits to implead a subsequent mortgagee in his suit for sale is not debarred from afterwards bringing a second suit on the same mortgage against the subsequent mortgagee. (Vol 25) 1938 All 115 (115).

Suits by puisne mortgagee against mortgagor and prior mortgagee. — [20] Prior mortgagee made a party to suit by puisne mortgagee on his mortgage—Prior mortgage not impugned or sought to be postponed in any way—Prior mortgagee need not set up his prior mortgage. [22] Where a person having a prior mortgage is impleaded only as a subsequent mortgagee or as the owner of the equity of redemption, thus impliedly negating the priority, he must, by way of defence, set up his priority or he will be barred from doing so later on. [23] In a mortgage suit paramount title cannot ordinarily be drawn into controversy without the consent of the parties. But if there is an allegation in the plaint, derogatory to the title of the prior mortgagee and if the prior mortgagee consents to have that title decided then he will be bound by the decision in that suit. Suits for redemption and for ejectment. — [24] A suit for redemption of a mortgage does not bar a subsequent suit by the mortgagor as a proprietor for ejectment of the mortgagee and vice versa. Suit for redemption by mortgagor — Pleas which the mortgagee might and ought to raise.—[32] Two mortgages by A in favour of B, one usufructuary and one simple—Suit by A for redemption of usufructuary mortgage—B need not set up his rights under the simple mortgage also. (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 516 (516).

[33] Suit for redemption decreed — On failure of mortgagor to deposit mortgage amount within the time fixed, mortgagee failing to obtain order for sale—Mortgagee is barred from suing again on the mortgage-debt. (1839) 13 Bom 567 (570, 571).

[34] Where a mortgagor sues to cancel a mortgage given in renewal of an earlier mortgage and for possession, the defendant, mortgagee, if he fails to set up his rights under the earlier mortgage will be barred from subsequently suing to enforce his rights thereon. (1911) 14 Oudh Cas 117 (123).

[But see (Vol 14) 1927 Nag 83 (84).]

[35] A mortgagee who had purchased the equity of redemption in a portion of the mortgaged property and whose mortgage amount was thus discharged in proportion, filed a suit on the mortgage for recovery of the whole amount denying the fact of his purchase when raised by the defendants. The suit was decreed to the effect that on payment of the whole amount, the whole of the mortgaged properties should be delivered to the defendants. The latter paid up the whole amount. Subsequently, the mortgagee filed a suit for a declaration of his title to the property purchased by him. It was held that he was barred by res judicata from claiming such relief. (Vol 6) 1919 All 123 (125).

[36] In a suit for redemption by a puisne mortgagee against the prior mortgagee and sub-mortgagee, it is not incumbent on the latter to claim payment of the amount due to him and the failure to do so will not preclude him from subsequently suing his mortgagor for recovery of such money. [37] Mortgagee need not, in a redemption suit, set up in defence his right to specific performance of an agreement to sell. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 539 (540).

Suits for redemption of several mortgages.—[38] Where there are several mortgages by the mortgagor in favour of the same mortgagee, a suit for redemption of one of such mortgages cannot bar a subsequent suit for redemption of the other mortgages. Suit on mortgage against Hindu father impleading the sons.—[39] Suit brought against father of Hindu joint family for enforcement of mortgage—Sons also joined as defendants—Plaintiff not asking for any relief against their interests in joint family property but only claiming a personal decree against them—Personal decree not granted—Plaintiff seeking to proceed against sons' interests in the joint family property—Held that the granting of such relief to the plaintiff was barred by the principle of constructive res judicata. [6] Real beneficiaries are parties. (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 702 (705).

[7] Where a person is a pro forma defendant in a previous suit and no relief is sought against him therein, he is not precluded from raising the same question in a subsequent suit. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 942 (943).

[8] The previous judgment will not operate as res judicata when the plaintiff in the subsequent suit was only a nominal party in the prior suit. (1901) 25 Bom 74 (77).

[9] The pre-emptor by mistake impleaded in his suit only one of the four vendees, who realised the whole of the pre-emption money. Pre-emptor's application for mutation was resisted by the rest of the vendees. A subsequent suit for possession of the shares of these vendees or for proportionate refund in the alternative was not barred. (Vol 9) 1922 All 475 (476).

[10] An operative decree, obtained after the death of a defendant, by which the extent and quality of his liabilities are for the first time ascertained, cannot bind the representatives of the deceased, unless they were parties to the suit in which it was pronounced. (1889) 13 All 53 (64) : 17 Ind App 150 (P C).

[11] Final decree is binding on party whether he got notice or not and operates as res judicata in subsequent suit. (Vol 19) 1932 All 698 (700).

59. Co-defendants. — [1] Judgment can operate as res judicata between co-defendants. (Vol 7) 1920 Oudh 221 (222) * (1938) I L R 1938 Lah 75 (81). (New party added as defendant with knowledge of original parties — New party allowed to raise an issue—Decision is binding on the parties.)

[2] In order that a decision should operate as res judicata between co-defendants three conditions must exist : (1) there must be a conflict of interest between those co-defendants, (2) it must be necessary to decide the conflict in order to give the plaintiff the relief he claims, and (3) the question between the co-defendants must have been finally decided. (Vol 18) 1931 P C 114 (117) : 53 All 103 : 53 Ind App 158 (P C) * (Vol 30) 1943 P C 115 (120) : I L R (1943) Kar P C 123 (P C) * (Vol 18) 1931 P C 231 (234) * (Vol 30) 1943 All 197 (201) (Unnecessary decision in former suit does not operate as res judicata.) * (Vol 21) 1934 Bom 313 (316) : 53 Bom 544 * (Vol 30) 1943 Cal 76 (83) : I L R (1942) 2 Cal 299 * (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 276 (277) : I L R (1943) Mad 477 * (1892) 15 Mad 264 (265) * (Vol 31) 1944 Pat 185 (186) : 22 Pat 655 * (Vol 23) 1936 Rang 308 (309, 310).

[3] In order to apply the doctrine of res judicata as between co-defendants it is also necessary to show that the co-defendants were necessary or proper parties. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 92 (95) : I L R (1942) 1 Cal 169 *

[4] Where all these conditions exist, the adjudication will operate as res judicata between the co-defendants. (Vol 19) 1932 P C 161 (164, 165) : 59 Ind App 247 : 10 Rang 322 (P C) * (1900) 22 All 336 (390) * (1887) 11 Bom 216 (220) * (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 276 (277) : I L R (1943) Mad 477. (Second condition not fulfilled — No res judicata.)

[But see (1886) 12 Cal 580 (582) (F B).]

[5] The doctrine of res judicata as between co-defendants must be applied with great caution. Where the plaintiff itself in a prior suit did not raise any conflict between the co-defendants and a defendant did not appear, but a co-defendant appeared and claimed an interest, conflicting with the interest of the absentee defendant, the decision, if any, on the point cannot operate as res judicata unless the absentee defendant gets notice of the conflict. In such circumstances the matter cannot be said to have been heard and finally decided so as to bind the parties. (Vol 30) 1943 Cal 76 (84) : I L R (1942) 2 Cal 299.

60. Conflict of interest. — [1] Co-defendants — Res judicata applies only where there is conflict of interest between them. (Vol 18) 1931 P C 114 (117) : 53 All 103 : 58 Ind App 158 (P C) * (Vol 19) 1932 All 520 (522, 523) * (Vol 12) 1925 All 546 (546, 547) : 47 All 872 * (Vol 21) 1934 Bom 313 (318) : 58 Bom 544 (Partition suit.) * (Vol 1) 1914 Bom 134 (135) : 38 Bom 438 * (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 544 (544, 545) (One of the co-defendants exactly in the position of plaintiff — Decision operates as res judicata.) * (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 283 (284) (A suit however by a third party against all the defendants in a prior suit is not affected by the rule of res judicata.) * (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 252 (254, 255) (Issue of joint family nature decided between co-defendants in a suit by another — In suit between co-defendants issue of jointness is res judicata.) * (Vol 17) 1930 Nag 3 (4) : 26 Nag L R 121 * (Vol 7) 1920 Oudh 221 (222) * (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 83 (87) : 19 Pat 669 (Partition suit.) * (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 27 (30, 31) (Occupancy tenancy.) * (Vol 15) 1928 Rang 315 (316) : 6 Rang 575 * (Vol 13) 1926 Sind 282 (283).

[2] Where there is no conflict of interest between the co-defendants, the decision will not be res judicata. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 632 (633) * (Vol 8) 1921 Lah 47 (47) : 2 Lah 88 * (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 228 (233) (S B) * (1937) 20 Nag L Jour 159 (163) * (1937) 1937 All L Jour 1141 (1150) * (Vol 14) 1927 All 365 (365, 366) * (Vol 10) 1923 All 169 (170) * (Vol 2) 1915 Bom 222 (223) : 40 Bom 210 (Dissolution of partnership.) * (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 996 (1000) (Suit between co-shebaits.) * (Vol 4) 1917 Cal 679 (680) * (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 404 (405) * (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 211 (212) (Principal and surety.)

[3] Where there is a conflict the mere fact that the defendant supported the plaintiff or that he was pro forma party does not detract from the nature of the decision being res judicata. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 830 (833) * (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 102 (102). (Plea of plaintiff and one defendant identical — Plea of co-defendants however conflicting — Decision res judicata.)

61. Constructive res judicata. — [1] A decision between the co-defendants can be on a point directly and substantially in issue between them either actually or constructively. (Vol 15) 1928 Oudh 155 (179, 181).

[But see (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 568 (572).]

[2] The finding upon a point not directly and substantially in issue among the defendants raised in a previous suit does not operate as res judicata in a subsequent suit between them. (Vol 4) 1917 Oudh 66 (69).

62. Decision. — [1] Where the conflict between the co-defendants has not been decided, there will be no res judicata. [4] Where there is no conflict between the defendants and the point is not necessary for disposal of plaintiff's suit, there is no res judicata. [6] Decision affecting right of one defendant against another is decision inter partes and will be res judicata. (Vol 16) 1929 Oudh 275 (277) : 4 Luck 713.

[7] Contest between co-defendants in partition suit — Issue expunged — Decree giving right claimed to one party — Issue does not operate as res judicata. (Vol 3) 1916 Pat 126 (128, 129).

[8] Co-defendants — Decision of material issue operates as res judicata in subsequent suit. (Vol 7) 1920 All 189 (190) * (Vol 12) 1925 All 663 (663) (Interpretation of wajib-ul-ara in previous suit is binding in later suit.) * (1910) 32 All 469 (475) * (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 434 (434) * (1912) 11 Mad L Tnn 71 (72) (In which they are arranged on different sides.) * (Vol 14) 1927 Nag 369 (369) * (Vol 6) 1919 Oudh 105 (108) : 22 Oudh Cas 300.

63. Ex parte decisions. — [1] An ex parte decree as against one defendant — Finding actually recorded as between decree-holder and another defendant is not res judicata between decree-holder and ex parte defendant. (Vol 22) 1935 All 678 (682) : 58 All 98.

[2] An ex parte decree on a bond against two joint debtors is not res judicata between those two debtors, when the question of their respective liability is raised in a suit for contribution by one against the other. (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 541 (541).

64. Necessity of issue. — [1] Co-defendants will be bound as between themselves only when the plaintiff cannot get at his case without deciding a case between the co-defendants. [3] Every attempt should be made to bring all interested persons before Court. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 645 (647).

[4] Principle of res judicata which is made applicable under the explanation rests not on the theory that the persons represented by the party litigating in respect of the common right are parties to the suit, but on the ground that such persons are for the purposes of the section deemed to claim under the persons so litigating. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 381 (383) : I L R (1945) Mad 138.

[5] A decision to operate as res judicata by reason of Explanation 6 must satisfy the conditions that (1) there must be a right claimed by the persons litigating in common for themselves and the parties not expressly named in the suit; (2) the parties not expressly mentioned must be interested in such right so as to give them the right to join as co-plaintiffs. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 457 (460) * (Vol 24) 1937 All 289 (289) * (Vol 16) 1929 All 775 (776) : 52 All 71 * (Vol 11) 1924 All 178 (180); 46 All 110 (DB) (Public right — Parties different in subsequent suit.—If suit relates to the same subject parties are also the same.) * (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 391 (394, 395) : 17 Lah 20 (DB) * (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 325 (326) : 14 Lah 442 (D B) * (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 1088 (1089) * (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 563 (572). 43 Mad 487 (Decree though ex parte and against person litigating for class will bind persons claiming through such person.) * (1905) 28 Mad 457 (463) (FB). (Vol 5) 1918 Pat 73 (75, 76) : 2 Pat L Jour 725 (DB).

[6] Section 11, Expl. 6 will not apply where a plaintiff claims a right for himself though the right may be common to others also. (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 199 (200) * (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 505 (507) * (1910) 33 Mad 483 (484) (Subsequent suit in a special capacity other than that as members of community.—Decisions not binding.) * (1907) 30 Mad 185 (190) : 34 Ind App 93 (PC) * (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh 62 (67) : 10 Luck 443 * (Vol 10) 1923 Oudh 185 (199) : 26 Oudh Cas 133.

[7] In order that Expl. 6 may apply, litigation must be bona fide.—But bona fide litigation is not panacea for all irregularity. (Vol 20) 1933 P C 183 (190) : 60 Ind App 278 : 56 Mad 657 (PC) * (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 268 (271) (DB) (Fraudulent withdrawal of suit — No res judicata.) * (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 75 (75, 76).

[8] The provisions contained are mandatory and the effect of a decision can be avoided only on proof of fraud. Court cannot infer fraud or collusion from mere negligence or gross negligence unless fraud or collusion is the proper inference from facts. (Vol 24) 1937 P C 1 (4) : 64 Ind App 17 : I L R (1937) Mad 263 (PC).

[9] A private individual is entitled to sue for damages for injuries sustained by him in the exercise of his privileges connected with a public right. And if the Court gives a finding in such a suit that the right is a public right it becomes res judicata in a subsequent litigation by virtue of Explanation 6. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 166 (167).

[10] Suit in a representative capacity — Question as to, should be decided with reference to substance and not the form of pleadings. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 445 (446) (DB).

[11] Non-payment of proper court-fee or the addition of an individual relief in the previous suit will not render inoperative the rule where in the subsequent suit the common right is re-litigated. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 457 (459) (DB).

[12] An executor or administrator of a deceased person's estate represents the estate in litigation and a decision against him as such representative is binding on all persons who subsequently succeed to the estate. (1909) 4 Ind Cas 483 (485) (Cal) (Executrix) * (1905) 29 Bom 96 (101) (Administrator).

[13] Official Liquidator represents the body of creditors, debenture-holders and the company. An order passed against him is conclusive against all the parties so represented. (Vol 7) 1920 P C 56 (58) : 43 Mad 550 : 47 Ind App 33 (PC).

86. Benamidar or agent. — [1] A decision in a suit by benamidar binds the real owner. (Vol 5) 1918 P C 140 (143) : 46 Cal 566 : 46 Ind App 1 (P C) * (1908) 30 All 30 (31) (Right of redemption not availed of by benamidar given under the decree — Decree made absolute — Subsequent suit by real owner barred) * (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 896 (898, 899) (D B) * (1884) 10 Cal 697 (705) * (1892) 15 Mad 267 (268).

[2] In the absence of evidence to the contrary it is to be presumed that the benamidar has instituted or defended the suit with the consent of the real owner. (1896) 18 All 69 (76).

[3] Decree passed while benamidar protests that he is only benamidar without bringing on record the real owner will not bind the real owner. (Vol 1) 1914 All 173 (175) : 36 All 446.

[4] Abatement of suit on death of benamidar by the failure to bring the legal representatives operates as a bar in a subsequent suit by the real owner. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 101 (103).

87. Decree against one of several legal representatives. — [1] Where one of several heirs is brought on record such heir can fully represent the whole estate and the decision will operate as res judicata against others also. (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 420 (421) (D B) * (1911) 10 Ind Cas 32 (33) (Cal) (Wrong representative brought on record in appeal against mortgage decree — No fraud found — Decision will bind) * (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 1199 (1199, 1200) * (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 147 (148) (DB).

[2] Decree obtained against supposed legal representative — Fresh suit on the same cause of action against real representative is maintainable. (Vol 15) 1928 Pat 362 (363).

88. Hindu reversioners. — [1] Where during the lifetime of the widow a suit is brought by the nearest reversioner challenging either an adoption by her or an alienation made by her, the suit is one brought with the object of removing a common apprehended injury to all the reversioners. It is a suit brought in a representative capacity and on behalf of all the reversioners. (Vol 2) 1915 P C 124 (125) : 38 Mad 406 : 42 Ind App 125 (P C).

[2] The decision in such a suit affects the reversioners as a body and under Explanation 6 of this section bars a fresh suit by another reversioner on the same cause of action. [3] The decree will bind even if it is on a compromise provided the compromise was bona fide. (Vol 20) 1933 Oudh 322 (327) : 8 Luck 586.

[4] Where in the prior suit the plaintiff was found not to be a reversioner he cannot be said to have represented the body of representatives. (Vol 13) 1926 All 573 (578) * (Vol 17) 1930 All 9 (11). (Relief claimed in personal capacity — Decision not binding on other reversioners.)

89. Hindu widow. — [1] A Hindu widow represents the entire inheritance in respect of her husband's estate. A decree against her fairly and properly obtained, is binding on the succeeding heirs. (1868) 9 Moo Ind App 539 (604) (P C) * (Vol 18) 1931 P C 114 (117, 118) : 53 All 103 : 58 Ind App 155 (P C) * (1885) 11 Cal 186 (197) : 11 Ind App 197 (P C) * (1866) 11 Moo Ind App 241 (266, 267) (P C) * (Vol 12) 1925 All 339 (340) : 47 All 490 * (Vol 2) 1915 All 360 (364, 365, 366) : 37 All 496 * (Vol 5) 1918 Bom 85 (86, 88) : 43 Bom 249 * (1913) 37 Bom 172 (176) * (Vol 9) 1922 Cal 321 (324, 326) : 49 Cal 45 * (1894) 21 Cal S (17) : 20 Ind App 183 (P C) * (1889) 16 Cal 40 (56) : 15 Ind App 195 (P C). [2] A decision against the widow is binding on the succeeding heirs not by virtue of the rule of res judicata, but on general principles of res judicata. (Vol 5) 1918 P C 87 (91) : 40 All 593 : 45 Ind App 168 (P C).

[3] The general principle of res judicata applies to a decree based on a bona fide compromise as equally as it does to a decree on contest. (Vol 9) 1922 P C 356 (357, 358) : 49 Ind App 342 : 1 Pat 741 (P C) * (Vol 3) 1916 All 38 (41) : 38 All 679 * (1918) 35 All 240 (242) * (1911) 33 All 356 (367) : 38 Ind App 87 (P C) * (1907) 29 All 239 (242, 243) (Collusive arbitration.) * (Vol 5) 1918 Bom 85 (86, 87) : 43 Bom 249 * (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 938 (943) * (Vol 6) 1919 Lah 292 (294) : 1919 Pun Re No. 9 * (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 475 (476) * (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 807 (808). [See however (Vol 12) 1925 All 79 (83) : 46 All 637. (Hindu widow sues in a representative capacity within meaning of Expl. VI.)]

[4] A decree passed against the widow on a ground personal to herself does not bind the reversioner. (Vol 25) 1938 P C 254 (256, 258) : 1 L R (1938) 2 Cal 653 : 65 Ind App 365 : 32 Sind L R 918 (P C) * (Vol 26) 1939 All 197 (202).

[5] If the suit is not conducted by the widow bona fide for the benefit of the estate, it binds only her widow's estate and is not binding on the reversioner. (Vol 6) 1919 Bom 146 (148, 150) : 43 Bom 869 * (Vol 18) 1931 All 407 (411) * (Vol 16) 1929 All 963 (965) : 52 All 178 * (1887) 11 Bom 119 (130) * (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 511 (513) * (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 73 (75) * (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 204 (206) * (1899) 26 Cal 265 (292) * (1889) 16 Cal 511 (513) * (1884) 10 Cal 985 (991, 992) : 11 Ind App 66 (P C) * (1875) 1 Cal 133 (138, 140) : 2 Ind App 275 (P C).

[6] If in the suit the contentions raised are those connected with the inheritance and the trial was with reference to them, the widow is held to be representing the estate. [But see (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 756 (757).]

[7] If the suit is in relation to anything which the widow may have done herself to the prejudice of the reversionary heirs, she cannot be said to be litigating in respect thereof as representing the estate. (Vol 6) 1919 Oudh 258 (259) : 22 Oudh Cas 260.

[8] A decree obtained by a mortgagee on the basis of a mortgage not executed by the widow for legal necessity cannot bind the reversioners. (Vol 27) 1940 All 433 (436) * (Vol 6) 1919 Oudh 258 (259) : 22 Oudh Cas 260 * (Vol 12) 1925 Pat 625 (673, 674) : 4 Pat 510.

[But see (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 876 (877). (A decree against the widow and the then reversioner binds the whole inheritance.)]

90. Karnavan of a tarwad :— [1] Decree in a suit brought against a Karnavan of a Malabar tarwad in his representative capacity and which he honestly conducts, precludes suit by other members of tarwad, though not actually made parties. [2] Where the members of a tarwad are represented by a Karnavan of the tarwad in an irregular fashion the decree does not raise an absolute estoppel against members not actually brought on the record. (1894) 17 Mad 214 (215).

[3] Where in the previous suit, the Karnavan did not implead the junior members of his tarwad and even disputed their title as members it was held that the decree in the previous suit did not operate as res judicata. (1910) 8 Mad L Tim 445 (446).

1. Applicability and scope.—[1] A foreign judgment is subject to the same conditions as to res judicata as a judgment of a Court in British India. (Vol 5) 1918 Low Bur 30 (31) : 9 Low Bur Rul 103.

[2] Section 13 provides that foreign judgment may operate as res judicata except in the six cases specified in that section and subject to other conditions mentioned in S. 11. (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 173 (175) : I L R (1938) Bom 16 (1899) 26 Cal 931 (935).

[3] Section 13 applies to plaintiffs as well as defendants. (Vol 15) 1928 Rang. 319 (319) : 6 Rang. 552 (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 327 (336) : 51 Mad 720.

[4] Every issue decided by foreign Court is not binding though the relief granted or refused is binding. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 327 (336) : 51 Mad 720.

[5] The wording in S. 13 'Court of jurisdiction competent to try such subsequent suit' means a 'Court having concurrent jurisdiction with the Court trying the subsequent suit whether as regards the pecuniary limits of its jurisdiction or the subject-matter of the have been re-arranged and as it is hoped stated more clearly. Section 14.—The last paragraph has been omitted. It appears to the Committee that it is not possible to maintain this distinction in the case of all Asiatic Courts. The Courts of Japan for instance are entitled to be treated on the same footing as European Courts. They knew of no satisfactory distinction which could be drawn so as to give effect to the intention of the existing provisions; and they recommend that the paragraph should be omitted and the Courts should rely on the powers given by Clause 13.—S. O. R.

[6] Words "as if they had been passed by Court in British India" in S. 44 do not control operation of S. 13 (a). (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 551 (551) (Vol 18) 1931 All 689 (691) : 53 All 747.

[7] Judgment of foreign Court is conclusive if passed by competent Court. (Vol 15) 1928 P C 83 (85) (P C).

2. Clause (a).—[1] The foreign Courts must have competent jurisdiction to make the judgment. (1888) 1888 Pun Re No. 191, p. 491 (497) [Reversed on another point in 21 Ind App 171 : 22 Cal 222 : 1894 Pun Re No 112 (P C).]

[2] Office of trusteeship—Court competent to decide is the Court of domicile of trust. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 327 (337) : 51 Mad 720.

[3] Foreign Court whether of competent jurisdiction must be determined by rules of private international law. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 511 (515, 516, 517) : 63 Cal 1033.

[4] The principle upon which actions on foreign judgments rest is that a judgment of a Court of competent jurisdiction imposes a duty on the defendants to pay the sum for which the judgment has been given. (1890) 13 Mad 496 (497).

3. Clause (b).—[1] In order to operate as res judicata a foreign judgment must be on the merits of the case. (1888) 1888 Pun Re No. 191, page 491 (506). (Reversed on other point in 21 Ind App 171 : 22 Cal 222 : 1894 Pun Re No. 112 (P C)).

[2] Decree to be conclusive must involve controversy and adjudication thereon—Decree by foreign Court on strength of compromise is not on merits. (Vol 33) 1946 Mad 296 (297).

[3] Foreign judgment—Ex parte judgment without further hearing is not on merits. But if evidence is taken on behalf of plaintiff and judgment given, it is on merits. [10] Suit by plaintiff in England — Service of summons accepted by solicitor and appearance put in by him on behalf of defendants — Judgment given on plaintiff's evidence — Judgment held to be on merits. 5. Clause (d). — [1] Expression 'natural justice' cannot be said to mean British justice as opposed to justice of any other country. Because the foreign Courts have not followed the rules of procedure and evidence of British Courts does not make the proceedings of foreign Court 'opposed to natural justice.' (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 109 (114) : 20 Pat 144.

[2] A wrong view as to burden of proof will not make a foreign judgment erroneous on the face of it. A mistake of law in a foreign judgment is no ground for vacating it. There must be something in the procedure anterior to the judgment which is repugnant to natural justice. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 274 (275) : 41 Mad 205.

[3] Foreign judgment — Legal representative not brought on record — Judgment is opposed to natural justice. (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 200 (215) : 8 Lah 54.

[5] Foreign judgment based on second or third review on the same grounds is opposed to natural justice. (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 200 (211) : 8 Lah 54.

[6] The fact that foreign Courts do not regard rules of the Courts of British India as imperative, even if the rules are of legal application in such states, should not be a reason for dismissing suits based on such foreign judgments on the ground that they are contrary to natural justice. (Vol 3) 1916 Lah 330 (332).

6. Clause (e). — [1] Explanation V to S. 13, Civil Procedure Code refers to bona fide claims, not to bona fide defences. (1900) 24 Bom 77 (85).

[2] It is competent for every Court whether superior or inferior to treat as a nullity any judgment which can be clearly shown to have been obtained by manifest fraud. (1899) 26 Cal 591 (908).

[3] A foreign judgment may always be impeached on the ground of fraud or collusion or for want of jurisdiction. (1884) 7 Mad 164 (166).

[4] Mere fact that decree is obtained on evidence which is believed by Court but which in fact is not true does not mean that it is obtained by fraud. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 387 (389).

[5] Claim including certain items for which defendant was not liable — Judgment cannot be said to have been obtained by fraud on Court. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 199 (202) : I L R (1942) Bom 688.

8. Effect of foreign judgment. — [1] It is only in proceedings based upon 'foreign judgments' that question of effect of foreign judgment can properly arise. (Vol 1) 1914 All 514 (516) : 37 All 1.

[2] A foreign judgment has no force or authority as such in British India, but may give a cause of action for a suit to obtain the same relief in British India. It is only in such proceedings that the question of effect of the foreign judgment properly arises. (Vol 3) 1916 P C 136 (138) (P C) * (Vol 1) 1914 All 514 (516) : 37 All 1.

[3] It is not open to the Courts in British India to sit in appeal over a foreign judgment and the Court cannot refuse to recognise a foreign judgment because it proceeds on grounds which would not be adequate in British India unless it offends against the rules under S. 13. [6] Foreign judgment can be final even when an appeal is pending in foreign Court. (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 200 (207) : 8 Lah 54.

[7] Probate — It is conclusive evidence that instrument was testamentary according to law of country where it was granted—Revocation of probate shows that instrument was not testamentary—Order granting or revoking probate is not judgment in rem so as to bind Courts in India. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 197 (198).

[8] Award by foreign arbitrator — Misconduct not affecting his jurisdiction—British Indian Court cannot go into that question—Foreign Court only can consider it. (Vol 30) 1943 Bom 201 (206) : I L R (1943) Bom 366.

[9] Conclusiveness of the judgment of a foreign Court, if there is no flaw mentioned in the section. (Vol 9) 1922 Lah 175 (176) * (1899) 26 Cal 931 (935) * (1901) 28 Cal 641 (651).

[2] In an action in personam foreign Courts have jurisdiction in the following cases. (1) Where at the commencement of action the defendant resides or presents in that Court. (2) Where the defendant at the time of judgment was a subject or a citizen of that country. (3) Where the party objecting to jurisdiction has by his own conduct submitted to such jurisdiction. SECTION 14—SYNOPSIS.

1. Applicability and scope.

2. Presumptions.

3. Burden of proof.

1. Applicability and scope.—[1] A foreign judgment can be relied on in Courts to which the Code applies. (1889) 13 Bom 224 (227).

[2] Party appearing voluntarily in foreign Court even to dispute jurisdiction submits himself to that Court's jurisdiction. (Vol 13) 1926 Nag 77 (78): 22 Nag L R 82.

2. Presumptions. — [1] In a suit on a foreign judgment the plaintiff need not state that the Court had jurisdiction over the parties or the cause, every presumption being made in favour of the foreign judgment. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 446 (446)* (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 199 (200): I L R (1942) Bom 688.

[2] Parties not present—Presumption is that they submitted to judgment. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 446 (446).

[3] See also Evidence Act, S. 79 (Presumption as to genuineness of certified copies) and S. 86 (Presumption as to certified copies of foreign judicial records).

3. Burden of proof — [1] In a suit on a foreign judgment, the burden lay under the old Code on the plaintiff of proving jurisdiction of the foreign Court. The subsequent change of law in S. 14 of the new Code cannot take retrospective effect. (1910) 1910 Pun L R No 41 page 96 (98).

[1882, S. 15. 1877, S. 15 and 25; 1859, S. 6 Para. 1.]

SECTION 15 — SYNOPSIS.

1. Applicability, scope and object.
2. Cases in which satisfactory valuation is not possible.
3. "Court of the lowest grade".
4. Objection to jurisdiction—Waiver.
5. "Shall be instituted".
5. Valuation improper—Effect.
7. Valuation in plaint determines jurisdiction.

1. Applicability, scope and object. — [1] Section 15 is intended to protect Courts of higher grade and does not affect their jurisdiction. (Vol 31) 1944 All 1 (4); 1 L R (1944) All 20.

[2] The section is a rule of procedure and does not affect the question of jurisdiction (1885, 7 All 230 (241) (F B) * (Vol 31) 1944 Bom. 300 (302), * (1910) 14 Cal W N 322 (324) * (1898) 25 Cal 46 (48) * (Vol 30) 1943 Cal 450 (451).

[3] Section 15 does not apply to High Court though not excepted by S. 120. (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 517 (520).

[4] No provision in special Act—Civil Procedure Code must govern place of suing—Special Act providing forum—Suit must be filed there. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 69 (71); 1 L R (1942) 1 Cal 235.

[5] Section 15 does not apply to suit cognizable by Village Munsif under Madras Village Courts Act. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 495 (496); 1 L R (1940) Mad 684.

2. Cases in which satisfactory valuation is not possible. — [1] Suit for restitution of conjugal rights is not necessarily excluded from jurisdiction of Munsif—Value of such suit is as a rule value put by plaintiff. (1906) 28 All 545 (549).

[2] Suit to set aside adoption — Value for purposes of jurisdiction is not value of property, but value put upon plaint. (1893) 15 All 378 (379).

[3] Subject-matter of suit incapable of valuation — Interest of plaintiff affected must be considered for jurisdiction purposes. (1891) 14 Mad 169 (170) * (1883) 6 Mad 192 (196) (Suit to set aside valuation.) * (1888) 11 Mad 266 (268) (Suit to remove Karnavan.) * (1890) 13 Mad 56 (60) * (1892) 15 Mad 294 (295) * (1903) 31 Mad 89 (96) (F B) * (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 84 (85) (Suit to set aside award).

3. "Court of the lowest grade." — [1] The term "Court of the lowest grade" refers only to Courts to which Civil P. C. is applicable. (1890) 13 Mad 145 (146).

[2] Having regard to Cl. 12, Letters Patent and S. 22, Presidency Small Cause Courts Act, High Court has jurisdiction to hear suit wherein damage claimed exceeds Rs. 100 — Jurisdiction is not taken away by S. 15. (1910) 34 Bom 13 (34).

4. Objection to jurisdiction—Waiver. — [1] In the matter of pecuniary jurisdiction, the waiver of a party is not sufficient to clothe the Court with jurisdiction which it does not otherwise possess. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 723 (724).

5. "Shall be instituted". — [1] It is imperative on suitor to bring his suit in the Court of lowest grade. (Vol 12) 1925 Rang 278 (278) * (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 484 (486).

[2] Word "shall" in S. 15 is not imperative on Courts and does not deprive higher Court of its jurisdiction to try suit triable by Court of less pecuniary jurisdiction. (Vol 12) 1925 Rang 278 (278) * (1910) 14 Cal W N 322 (324) * (1890) 17 Cal 155 (158).

[3] Suit triable by Court of lower grade instituted in Court of higher grade—Its trial by latter is merely an irregularity. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 568 (569).

[4] Punjab Courts Act, S. 34—Judge receiving plaints for distribution is acting not as Court but ministerially—His discretion overrides the provisions of S. 15 in so far as he can direct suit to be tried by higher Court. (Vol 13) 1928 Lah 484 (486).

[5] Plaint presented to Court having jurisdiction — Its acceptance by Court as being in order—Subsequent finding of fact as to value of subject-matter of suit requiring presentation to another Court having jurisdiction — Plaint returned for presentation to that Court—Plaint held instituted when presented to first Court. (Vol 23) 1941 Mad 711 (712).

[6] Once the institution takes place in accordance with the provision of S. 15, Civil P. C., the operation of the section is exhausted. The section does not authorise the transfer of a pending suit, merely because in the course of the trial, it is found that the plaintiff is entitled only to a part of the claim, which would have been cognizable by a lower Court. (Vol 7) 1920 Nag 47 (48).

[7] Preliminary decree for accounts—Amount found due being in excess of Court's jurisdiction — Proper order is to transfer case to Court having jurisdiction and not to return plaint for presentation to proper Court. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 107 (110).

[8] Suit involving accounts — Court is competent to pass decree for amount exceeding limits of its pecuniary jurisdiction. (Vol 12) 1925 Sind 324 (328); 18 Sind L R 286 * (1911) 33 All 97 (99, 100).

[9] Court having no jurisdiction — Its judgment is void. (1911) 38 Cal 639 (668).

[10] Court having no jurisdiction over subject-matter of suit—Jurisdiction cannot be conferred by consent of parties. (1911) 38 Cal 639 (668) * (1887) 9 All 191 (203) * (1911) 14 Cal L Jour 337 (345, 346) * (1904) 31 Cal 849 (852, 853).

6. Valuation improper—Effect. — [1] Court finding that value of relief has been overvalued — Court's duty is to return plaint for presentation in proper Court. (Vol 22) 1935 All 157 (160) * (1897) 24 Cal 661 (663) * (1898) 21 Mad 271 (273, 274).

[2] If from improper motives, plaintiff either under-values or overvalues it, the Court must decide the proper value. (1907) 34 Cal 352 (356) * (1913) 40 Cal 245 (250).

[3] False statement to bring case within jurisdiction is abuse of process of Court. (Vol 10) 1923 All 137 (138, 139); 45 All 193.

[4] False statement to avoid jurisdiction of Court — Plaintiff should be required to prove that allegation is bona fide and not colourable to change venue. (1901) 24 Mad 158 (159).

7. Valuation in plaint determines jurisdiction. — [1] Value of subject-matter of suit for purposes of jurisdiction is the value stated by plaintiff in his plaint. (1891) 13 All 320 (323) * (1895) 1895 Bom P J 238, p. 333 (334, 335) * (1884) 8 Bom 31 (33) * (1907) 31 Bom 73 (79) * (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 8 (8, 9) * (Vol 2) 1915 Sind 3 (3); 9 Sind L R 164.

SECTION 17 — SYNOPSIS.

1. Causes of action.
2. Chartered High Courts.
3. "Courts".
4. Scope and object.
5. Withdrawal of part of claim — Effect.

1. Causes of action.—[1] Plaintiff having two or more causes of action cannot take advantage of S. 17 if the joinder of such causes of action is bad for multifariousness. (Vol 27) 1940 All 205 (206)* (1885) 1885 All W N 123 (126) (Overruled on a different point in 30 All 560 (F B)).

[2] Distinct causes of action against several defendants can be combined in same suit if there is some common question of law or fact—S. 17 can be applied. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 622 (622, 624).

2. Chartered High Courts.—[1] Section 17 does not apply to chartered High Courts : see S. 120.

[2] A suit for land partly within the jurisdiction of the High Court and partly outside cannot be entertained with respect to the latter part on the original side unless leave is obtained under cl. 12, Letters Patent (Bom). (1898) 22 Bom 922 (926) * (1887) 14 Cal 835 (838).

[3] Property situated in Native State—High Court can order sale of such property in mortgage decree—Letters Patent (Bombay), cl. 12—Bombay High Court Rules (Original), R 581. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 642 (644, 645):57 Bom 234.

3. 'Courts.'—[1] Words 'within jurisdiction of different Courts' must mean within jurisdiction of different Courts to which the Code applies, that is Courts in British India. (Vol 17) 1930 P C 188 (189) : 57 Ind App 194 : 54 Bom 495 (P C) * (Vol 6) 1919 P C 150 (152) : 46 Ind App 151:42 Mad 813 (P C) * (Vol 23) 1936 P C 189 (191) : 15 Pat 567 : 63 Ind App. 311 (P C).

4. Scope and object.—[1] Section 17 is intended to solve the difficulty which would naturally arise if there was a dispute about some immovable property which is situate in different jurisdictions. (Vol 29) 1942 All 387 (389) : I L R (1942) All 862.

[2] Section 17 and the later sections in the group of the sections dealing with jurisdiction, proceed to widen and enlarge the scope of S. 16 by enacting other and more liberal rules. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 129 (137).

[3] Section 17 deals as to which Court is to be held for the purpose of Sch. 2 para. 20 to have jurisdiction in a given case. Consequently when part alone of the subject-matter of an award is within a Court's jurisdiction, then the Court has jurisdiction over the entire property. The only case wherein S. 17 is displaced is where part of the property is situate outside British India. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 129 (135, 136, 137).

[4] Sections 16 and 17 are not confined to suits involving immovable property only but they apply

18. (1) Where it is alleged to be uncertain within the local limits of the jurisdiction of which Place of institution of suit where local limits of jurisdiction of Courts are uncertain. of two or more Courts any immovable property is situate, any one of those Courts may, if satisfied that there is ground for the alleged uncertainty, record a statement to that effect and thereupon proceed to entertain and dispose of any suit relating to that property, and its decree in the suit shall have the same effect as if the property were situate within the local limits of its jurisdiction:

Provided that the suit is one with respect to which the Court is competent as regards the nature and value of the suit to exercise jurisdiction.

(2) Where a statement has not been recorded under sub-section (1), and an objection is taken before an appellate or revisional Court that a decree or order in a suit relating to such property was made by a Court not having jurisdiction where the property is situate, the appellate or revisional Court shall not allow the objection unless in its opinion there was, at the time of the institution of the suit, no reasonable ground for uncertainty as to the Court having jurisdiction with respect thereto and there has been a consequent failure of justice.

equally to suits for immovable property as well as moveable property provided the immovable property is situate wholly or in part within the local jurisdiction of the Court. (Vol 13) 1926 Lah 503 (504).

[5] Section applies only where the properties are situate in British India. (Vol 1) 1914 P C 140 (145, 146) : 42 Cal 116 : 41 Ind App 197 (P C) (Lands situate in Sonthal Parganas—Section 17 cannot confer jurisdiction.) * (Vol 17) 1930 P C 188 (189, 190) : 57 Ind App 194 : 54 Bom 495 (P C) (Suit for foreclosure, sale or redemption is a suit to obtain relief respecting immovable property—Such immovable property must however be in British India—Mortgage of property partly in British India and partly out of British India—Courts in British India have no jurisdiction to try a suit on such mortgage so far as property outside British India is concerned.) * (Vol 25) 1938 Bom 121 (123, 124) : I L R (1937) Bom 895 (Berar is foreign territory—Courts in British India have no jurisdiction to pass decree in respect of property situated in Berar.) * (Vol 28) 1941 Lah 347 (353) (Property situated outside British India—No decree nor injunction in respect of its management can be passed—But property in British India though outside jurisdiction of particular Court may be included in suit with property situated within Court's jurisdiction.)

[See however (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 292 (296) : 13 Pat 486 (Lands situate both in Santal Parganas and in Gaya District—Gaya Court has jurisdiction within the meaning of Santal Parganas Regulation (1872), Ss. 5 and 5 (a).)]

[8] Property situate within jurisdiction of two Courts—Plaintiff can bring two separate suits and need not combine them in one suit. (1866-68) 3 Mad H C R 376 (377) * (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 350 (351) (Suit for partition of property situate in different jurisdictions.)

[9] Phrase "relief respecting immovable property" in S. 17 has not the effect of including in that section suits relating to immovable property of a nature different from suits in respect thereto as are specified in S. 16 (a) to (e). (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 69 (72) : I L R (1942) 1 Cal 235.

[10] This section does not apply to the High Court in the exercise of its original civil jurisdiction: see S. 120.

5. Withdrawal of part of claim—Effect.—[1] Where a Court is invested with jurisdiction by virtue of this section, it will be not divested of the jurisdiction by reason of the withdrawal or compromise with respect to part of property situate within jurisdiction unless the withdrawal or compromise is not bona fide. See (1908) 30 All 560 (566, 567) (F B) (Compromise: 1885 All W N 125, overruled.) * (1889) 12 Mad 380 (386) (Withdrawal.) * (Vol 25) 1938 Oudh 65 (69) (Relinquishment in appeal.)

[2] Jurisdiction once vested by virtue of S. 17 is not taken away though plaintiff is found to have no title to portion of property within jurisdiction of that Court as alleged unless inclusion of such property is not bona fide. (Vol 17) 1930 Nag 189 (191) : 26 Nag L R 103.

[5] This section does not apply to the High Court in the exercise of its original civil jurisdiction : see Section 120.

5. "Carries on business". — [1] "Carrying on business" is not personally working — Firms in different places constituted differently may yet be the same legal entity. (Vol 9) 1922 All 367 (368, 369).

[2] Carrying on business — Defendant firm held to carry on business at its sub-office at Amritsar and suit instituted there against firm held rightly instituted. (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 11 (12) : 14 Lah 42.

authorised merely to take orders and transmit them to office for acceptance).

7. Cause of action — Meaning of. — [1] Section 20 (c) has not altered the law as to what is the cause of action in suits arising out of contract. (Vol 6) 1919 Nag 16 (18).

[2] The expression "cause of action" has been used in this section in a restricted as well as in some respects in an elastic sense so as to include the facts constituting the infringement of the right, but not necessarily all those constituting the right itself. (1903) 25 All 48 (52).

[3] Cause of action must be antecedent to the suit and so no cause of action can be founded on any allegations made in the proceedings. (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 830 (830, 881) * (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 221 (223) (Per Krishnan J. — The expression "cause of action" in S. 20 (c) means the cause of action as it was at the time when the right to sue arose for the first time.) * (Vol 6) 1919 Pat 507 (510) : 4 Pat L Jour 387.

[4] Cause of action means every fact which it would be necessary for the plaintiff to prove, if traversed, in order to support his right to judgment of the Court. It does not comprise every piece of evidence which is necessary to prove each fact, but every fact which is necessary to prove. (Vol 19) 1932 All 543 (545) : 54 All 525 * (Vol 21) 1934 All 226 (229) * (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 99 (111) : I L R (1941) 2 Cal 477 * (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 160 (167) : 61 Cal 1023 * (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 664 (665) * (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 883 (884) * (Vol 9) 1922 Oudh 109 (111) * (Vol 20) 1933 Sind 179 (180, 181) : 27 Sind L R 230.

[5] Cause of action has no relation to defence by defendants. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 42 (43) * (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 194 (194) : 46 Cal 520 * (1889) 16 Cal 98 (102) : 15 Ind App 156 (P C) * (Vol 4) 1917 Nag 1 (4).

[6] Right to possess immovable property and right to enjoy profits thereof are distinct causes of action. (Vol 4) 1917 Nag 19 (21).

[7] Contract of agency for collection of dues — General enquiry for accounts and not each separate act of collection is the cause of action. (Vol 17) 1930 Bom 150 (152) : 54 Bom 192.

[8] Seeking execution of the decree affords plaintiff cause of action. (Vol 2) 1915 All 163 (164) : 37 All 189.

[9] The title under which the defendant professes to hold possession, does not affect the cause of action of the plaintiff suing in ejectment. If the plaintiff's right has been infringed by one act or transaction that infringement gives him the cause of action against all persons interested in the infringement. (1913) 20 Ind Cas 347 (348) (Cal).

24. Suit relating to torts.—[1] According to Ss. 19 and 20 the residence of the defendant within the territorial limits of a Court will give jurisdiction to it even in respect of torts committed outside the local limits of the Court. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 1206 (1208) : 39 Mad 433* (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 887 (888, 889) (Suit for damages for conversion of land.)

SECTION 21 — SYNOPSIS

1. Applicability and scope.
2. Execution proceedings.
3. Failure of justice.
4. Foreign Courts.
5. Insolvency proceedings.
6. Objections to place of suing.
7. Suit to set aside decree on ground of jurisdiction.
8. Waiver.

1. Applicability and scope.—[1] Section 21 applies to all objections based on the alleged infringement of the provisions of Ss. 16 to 18, Civil P. C., as regards the institution of suits relating to immovable property, an appellate or revisional Court being precluded by S. 21 from allowing an objection as to the place of suing unless it was taken in the original Court and even then unless there was a consequent failure of justice. (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 1019 (1023, 1024, 1025) : 43 Mad 675 (F B). [See (Vol 27) 1940 Sind 150 (2) (153) : I L R (1941) Kar 79. (Non-compliance with provisions of Ss. 15 to 20 does not render decree passed by competent Court mere nullity.)]

[2] Section 21 does not apply to cases of want of pecuniary jurisdiction or exclusive jurisdiction — Its application is confined only to objections regarding want of territorial jurisdiction. (Vol 24) 1937 All 515 (525) : I L R (1937) All 670 * (Vol 33) 1946 Sind 103 (107) : I L R (1945) Kar 445.

[3] Where the objection is not an objection to the place of suing, but an objection going to the nullity of the order on the ground of want of jurisdiction S. 21 does not apply and the objection can be taken at any time. (Vol 6) 1919 P C 150 (152) : 42 Mad 813 : 46 Ind App 151 (P C). (Overruling (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 198.) * (Vol 21) 1934 All 139 (141). (Section 21 does not apply to inherent incompetency of Court to deal with cause affecting immovable property outside its jurisdiction.) * (Vol 27) 1940 Oudh 245 (247).

[See (1885) 7 All 230 (243). (If irregularity of procedure on Court's part affects its jurisdiction then the plea of want of jurisdiction can be entertained for the first time at any stage provided that there were on the record sufficient material to substantiate it.) * (Vol 13) 1926 All 650 (652). (Judgment of a Court with incompetent jurisdiction is not res judicata.)]

[4] Where there is entire absence of jurisdiction, no action on part of plaintiff and no inaction on part of defendant can confer jurisdiction on Court, because jurisdiction cannot be created by waiver or consent.

[5] Section 21, Civil P. C., and S. 11, Suits Valuation Act, are exceptions to fundamental rule of law that judgment of Court without jurisdiction is nullity and that want of jurisdiction cannot be waived. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 257 (259, 261).

[6] The principle underlying S. 21 has been applied to cases which do not strictly fall within its terms. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 421 (422) : 49 Mad 746. * (Vol 20) 1933 Nag 318 (321, 322) : 29 Nag L R 342. (Section 21 is not limited to appeals and revision in same suit.)

[7] High Court exercising original jurisdiction which it does not possess under its Letters Patent—S. 21 does not apply. (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 517 (520). * (1936) 164 Ind Cas 907 (910) (Cal) * (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 291 (300) : 56 Bom 324.

[8] No leave obtained as to property out of jurisdiction under Calcutta Letters Patent, Cl. 12 — Objection as to jurisdiction can be taken for first time at appellate stage — High Court has no jurisdiction as to such property. (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 353 (364) : 56 Cal 940.

[9] Principle of S 21 is applicable to ex parte decree. (Vol 17) 1930 All 873 (874) : 52 All 947.

[10] Suit for transaction outside jurisdiction on allegation that contract entered within — Failure to prove contract ousts jurisdiction — S. 21 being retrospective applies to suit filed before Act—As no failure of justice was caused objection to jurisdiction was held not tenable. (Vol 1) 1914 Lah 385 (387, 388) : 1914 Pun Re No. 87.

[11] When it is found that a suit ought to have been instituted in some other Court the Court should return the plaint for proper presentation even if the plea is raised at a later stage but in the original proceedings. The question of delay mentioned in S. 21, Civil P. C., is only applicable to appeals and revisions. (1910) 4 Sind L R 264 (266).

[12] The jurisdiction of the Court trying a remanded case depends entirely on the order of remand. Any objection to its jurisdiction can be given effect to as neither S. 21 in terms nor the principle underlying it applies to such a case. (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 351 (351, 352).

[13] Irregularities in initial procedure such as if objected to would lead to dismissal of suit—If Court competent to try and parties join issue on merits without objection no subsequent objection on the ground can be allowed. [16] Question of jurisdiction if of law depending upon public documents can be raised in appeal for first time—Held Quetta was not part of British India as defined in General Clauses Act (1897), S. 3 (vii). (Vol 21) 1934 Sind 123 (125, 129) : 28 Sind L R 54.

[17] Trial Court dismissing suit as against person on ground of want of jurisdiction as against such person—

On appeal by other defendant, Appellate Court passing decree as against person against whom it was dismissed—Held decree could not be passed and review could be allowed as S. 21 did not cure defect of jurisdiction as objection was in fact taken in the trial Court. (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 153 (153).

[19] The failure to take notice of the provisions of S. 21 bears analogy to a mistake apparent on the face of the record and is ground for review. (Vol 16) 1929 Nag 73 (74) : 25 Nag L R 104.

2. Execution proceedings. — [1] Section 21 does not apply to execution proceedings. But the principle applies. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 746 (759)* (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 1019 (1023) : 43 Mad 675 (F B). (Objection to jurisdiction is not maintainable in execution unless taken in trial Court.) * (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 457 (458)* (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 505 (508) : 43 Mad 135 * (Vol 10) 1923 Cal 619 (620, 621). (Execution sale without jurisdiction—Section does not apply.)

[3] An execution sale after confirmation cannot be avoided on the ground that the Court had no territorial jurisdiction over the property. (1913) 24 Mad L Jour 70 (72) * (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 573 (575). (Execution transferred by District Judge to N Court—N Court having territorial jurisdiction over one property but not over two others—Sale of all three by N Court—Omission to raise objection before sale—Objection held could not be raised later.)

[4] Jurisdiction cannot be conferred on Court by consent of parties. Therefore failure to raise plea as to want of jurisdiction in trial Court does not preclude party from raising objection in executing Court. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 652 (656).

[5] The judgment-debtor under foreign decree sought to be executed in British Indian Court can raise objections to the decree. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 788 (790).

3. Failure of justice.—[1] Appellate Court cannot interfere on ground of lower Court's want of jurisdiction unless defendant shows that he was prejudiced by trial in particular jurisdiction. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 571 (574) : I L R (1937) Mad 990* (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 574 (576). (Trial Court having no jurisdiction to try suit—But no consequent failure of justice—Defendant ex parte for no satisfactory reason—Revisional or appellate Court will not interfere.)* (Vol 21) 1934 All 226 (230). (Jurisdiction of trial Court doubtful—Appellate Court will not interfere in absence of prejudice.)* (Vol 18) 1931 All 556 (557)* (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 1014 (1015). (High Court refused to interfere in revision as there was no prejudice even though the objection was raised in trial Court.)* (1933) 40 Pun L R 234 (234). (Cannot be allowed in revisional Court.)* (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 233 (233)* (Vol 7) 1920 Nag 92 (92)* (Vol 20) 1933 Pat 555 (557). (Proceedings in respect of immovable property challenged on ground of want of jurisdiction—Defendant must show that property is clearly within jurisdiction of another Court and that there was failure of justice.)

[2] In order to satisfy the Court under S. 21 it is necessary to show not merely that the suit was wrongly decided but that the wrong decision was in some measure due to its having been instituted in a wrong local jurisdiction. (Vol 9) 1922 Oudh 124 (126).

[3] Objection as to jurisdiction decided against defendant—He refusing to produce evidence on merits—Defendant cannot contend that there has been failure of justice and objection as to place of suing cannot be raised in appeal. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 1016 (1016).

[4] Whole of the merits in the suit ought to be gone into to find out if there has been a consequent failure of justice. (Vol 8) 1921 All 66 (67, 68).

[5] Objection not set forth in grounds of appeal—Appellate Court under O. 41, R. 2 has discretion to allow objection and ordinarily would not object to its being raised and argued if respondent is not likely to suffer thereby—Objection to territorial jurisdiction neither raised in trial Court nor mentioned in grounds of appeal—Objection held on facts of case could not be allowed to be raised—But in view of large stakes involved and possibility of case proceeding further it was proper that objection be dealt with on merits. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 129 (135).

4. Foreign Courts. — [1] Section 21 cannot be construed, as either legislating for foreign tribunals or codifying any rules of international law. The section does not apply to cases of foreign judgments sought under provisions of S. 44, Civil P. C., to be executed in British Indian Courts. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 788 (789).

[2] Suit in British Indian Court against non-resident foreigner on a cause of action out of British India—Section 21 has no application. (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 297 (298) : 9 Lah 455.

[3] Goods ordered from Kumbakonam to be supplied at Sagaram in Mysore—Goods not ordered sent with goods ordered—Whole parcel returned—Suit for price of goods ordered and damages caused by negligence in re-sending goods not ordered—Suit for price for goods ordered lay in Kumbakonam, but not for damages as it was caused in Mysore—Section 21 does not help to assume jurisdiction for cause of action arising out of British India. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 1043 (1043).

5. Insolvency proceedings. — [1] Proceedings under the Provincial Insolvency Act 3 of 1907—Objection to jurisdiction can be taken for first time in appeal as S. 47 of that Act does not make applicable S. 21 to such proceedings. (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 350 (352).

6. Objections to place of suing.—[1] Objection as to place of suing cannot be allowed unless taken at earliest opportunity and has caused failure of justice. (Vol 3) 1916 Low Bur 44 (45)* (Vol 6) 1919 All 82 (83) : 42 All 74* (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 142 (143)* (Vol 6) 1919 Lah 217 (217)* (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 171 (172)* (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 697 (698, 700). (Absence of objection to local jurisdiction which was transferred by notification precludes party from objecting on appeal (Wallace, J. Contra).)

[2] Objection to the place of suing must be taken before passing of the original decree. (Vol 15) 1928 Pat 324 (326) : 7 Pat 216* (Vol 20) 1933 Pat 104 (107) : 12 Pat 117.

[3] The expression 'place of suing' simply means venue of trial and has no reference to the competency of the Court in the sense of its general authority to adjudicate on any matter in controversy. (Vol 28) 1941 Nag 36 (51) : I L R (1941) Nag 1 (F B).

[4] An objection that a suit is of small cause nature is not an objection to the place of suing and can be entertained in second appeal. (Vol 18) 1931 Oudh 411 (411).

[But see (Vol 18) 1931 Oudh 136 (136, 137).]

[5] No objection as to jurisdiction regarding the place of suing can be taken for the first time in second

22. Where a suit may be instituted in any one of two or more Courts and is instituted in one of such Courts, any defendant, after notice to the other parties, may, at the earliest possible opportunity and in all cases where issues are settled at or before such settlement, apply to have the suit transferred to another Court, and the Court to which such application is made, after considering the objections of the other parties (if any), shall determine in which of the several Courts having jurisdiction the suit shall proceed.

[6] Suit for accounts against agent — Objection to jurisdiction overruled — Preliminary decree passed — Section 21 held no bar to appellate Court reversing preliminary decree as trial had not proceeded beyond the issue of jurisdiction. (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 171 (172).

7. Suit to set aside decree on ground of jurisdiction.—[1] Jurisdiction—Absence of—Consent or waiver does not legalize jurisdiction — Section 21 does not bar agitation of such question by independent suit. [2] The principle underlying the section, viz., that of waiver of jurisdiction, is also applicable to a separate suit to set aside a decree passed without jurisdiction. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 117 (123) * (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 449 (452) * (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 257 (261) * (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 242 (244). [2] A defendant who objects to the jurisdiction of a Court cannot be said to have acquiesced in the trial of the suit if he does not apply for a transfer. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 62 (63).

[3] Suit instituted in Court without jurisdiction — Parties consenting to its transfer to competent Court — Defence of jurisdiction raised before fixing of issues and afterwards throughout insisted on—Held that defendant cannot be said to have waived his right to set up this defence only because he had personally agreed to the transfer and hence suit must be dismissed as it was incompetently brought. SECTION 22 — SYNOPSIS.

1. Applicability and scope.
2. Application when to be made.
3. Grounds of transfer.
4. Notice.
5. Proper Court.

1. Applicability and scope. — [1] The provisions of S. 22 are mandatory. (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 175 (175). [2] Transfer of case is quite different from return of plaint for presentation to another Court. (Vol 3) 1916 Nag 31 (33) : 13 Nag L R 81.

[3] Provisions of S. 22 can apply only if the suit in its entirety is cognizable by either of the two Courts.

(Vol 29) 1942 All 387 (388) : ILR (1942) All 862 * (Vol 1) 1914 All 351 (352). (Where the jurisdiction of one of the Courts is denied, an application for transfer does not lie under this section.) (Vol 10) 1923 Lah 288 (289).

[4] In an application for transfer under Ss. 22 and 23, the question of want of jurisdiction of the trying Court cannot be raised. (Vol 7) 1920 Pat 138 (140).

[5] Transfer to original side of a High Court from a Court subordinate to High Court is not governed by Ss. 22 and 23. (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 306 (306, 307).

[6] Question whether suit is to be tried by subordinate Court or High Court or Chief Court — Ss. 22 and 23 have no application — But High Court can under S 151 exercise powers similar to those contemplated by Ss. 22 and 23. (Vol 21) 1934 All 14 (16) : 56 All 201.

[7] Section 151 does not empower Court to wholly ignore provisions of S. 22. (Vol 3) 1916 Lah 95 (96) : 1917 Pun Re No. 11.

[8] Decision of Court that suit shall proceed in certain Court amounts to transfer of proceedings to that Court. (Vol 27) 1940 Nag 145 (148) : I L R (1941) Nag 311.

[9] Transfer of case—Courts have got unfettered discretion in the matter but it should be exercised very cautiously. (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 249 (250).

[10] High Court or District Court has jurisdiction to order transfer of case pending in subordinate Court no matter whether such Court has jurisdiction or not to entertain suit. (Vol 21) 1934 All 569 (571).

[11] A defendant in a suit who takes objection to the jurisdiction of the Court in which it has been instituted to try that suit cannot maintain an application for its transfer to another Court under S. 22, Civil P. C. (Vol 5) 1918 Oudh 441 (442) : 21 Oudh Cas 217 * (Vol 28) 1941 All 27 (28) : I L R (1940) All 737.

[12] A High Court's order under S. 22 has the effect of staying further proceedings in the Court from which the transfer has been ordered. (1909) 4 Ind Cas 814 (815) (Upp Bur).

2. Application when to be made.— [1] Application should be made at or before settlement of issues. (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 175 (175).

[2] Application for transfer—Issues settled — Delay in application renders it incompetent. (Vol 3) 1916 Lah 95 (95, 96) : 1917 Pun Re No. 11 * (Vol 12) 1925 Lah 322 (322).

[3] Party taking transfer proceedings in trial Court and then approaching High Court is not guilty of delay. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 15 (15, 16).

3. Grounds of transfer. — [1] No transfer ought to be made unless such an order is absolutely necessary in the interest of justice. The Court will not transfer a suit properly laid, except under special circumstances. (1909) 10 Cal L Jour 308 (211, 212).

[2] A suit can be transferred only upon two grounds, viz : (a) that there will not be an impartial trial by the trying Court or (b) that there is a manifest preponderance of convenience to the petitioner if the suit is transferred to the other Court. The convenience of the plaintiffs and their witnesses has also to be considered particularly as they have in the first instance the right to choose the venue in which they would prosecute their

To what Court application lies.

23. (1) Where the several Courts having jurisdiction are subordinate to the same Appellate Court, an application under section 22 shall be made to the Appellate Court.

(2) Where such Courts are subordinate to different Appellate Courts but to the same High Court, the application shall be made to the said High Court.

(3) Where such Courts are subordinate to different High Courts, the application shall be made to the High Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the Court in which the suit is brought is situate.

[3] Transfer is unnecessary if the suit will be more expeditiously and more economically decided in the original Court. (Vol 15) 1928 Oudh 89 (89).

[4] Sections 22 and 23 — Mere inconvenience is not sufficient ground — Whether sufficient grounds exist depends upon the facts of each case. (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 304 (305).

[5] Expression of opinion of the Judge regarding the character of the plaintiff or of his paper is no ground for transfer when that was elicited by the conduct of the plaintiff himself. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 763 (763).

[6] No bias for or against any party—Merely taking erroneous view is not sufficient for transfer. (Vol 21) 1934 All 37 (39).

[7] Question of jurisdiction decided against defendant—Application for transfer is not absolutely barred—But where application is a mere attempt to evade the decision of the question of jurisdiction it will not be allowed. (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 183 (184, 185).

[8] Allegations of plaintiff should be considered rather than those of defendant. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 15 (16).

4. Notice. — [1] Provision requiring notice to be given to opposite party prior to filing of the application is mandatory and if no such notice is given the petition under S. 22 does not lie. (1928) 107 Ind Cas 593 (593) (Lah).

[2] The words "after notice to the other parties" in S. 22 mean notice prior to the making of application. (Vol 3) 1916 Lah 95 (95, 96) : 1917 Pun Re No. 11 * (Vol 22) 1935 All 979 (980). (But notice given even after making transfer application is sufficient.)

[3] Order of transfer without notice to parties is not legal as it is a matter in which convenience of parties is of great importance. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 859 (859).

5. Proper Court. — [1] The Court of Subordinate Judge is subordinate to the District Court, for S. 23, though it may not be the 'forum' of appeal in the particular case, for the transfer of which the application is made. (1909) 10 Cal L Jour 208 (211, 212).

[2] Suit pending on original side of High Court — Application to transfer suit should be made to that Court—It has power to pass order under S. 151. (Vol 21) 1934 Rang 265 (266) : 12 Rang 548 (FB).

[3] A plaintiff has the right to choose his own Court for his own suit and in cases of disputes about property the Court where the property is situated is prima facie the better Court. (Vol 3) 1916 All 255 (255).

[4] Plaintiff has a right to bring a suit in any Court allowed to him by law, and to overrule his right of selection of Court, a strong case based on some ground of expense or convenience must be made out. (Vol 3) 1916 Oudh 208 (208).

SECTION 23—SYNOPSIS.

1. "Appellate Court."
2. "Application shall be made"—Sub-section (3).
3. High Court.
4. Power of High Court to transfer.
5. Subordinate Court.

1. "Appellate Court."—[1] The words 'appellate Court' in sub-ss. (1) and (2) mean the Court to which ordinarily appeals will lie from the Court in which the suit has been filed. (Vol 10) 1923 Rang 22 (22) : 11 Low Bur Rul 446. (Overruled on another point in (Vol 21) 1934 Rang 265 : 12 Rang 548 (FB).)

2. "Application shall be made" — Sub-section (3). — [1] Ex parte decree passed by Calcutta Court—Execution of decree sought at Surat Court — Suit for declaring the decree to be null and void is maintainable in Surat Court — Suit cannot be stayed under S. 151—Application ought to be made under S. 23 (3). (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 79 (80) : 51 Bom 26.

[2] An application contemplated by sub-s. (3) is to be made only when it is ascertained, or admitted, that different Courts subordinate to different High Courts actually have jurisdiction. Where one of such Courts has no jurisdiction, the application will not lie. (1909) 1909 Pun L R No. 77, p. 278 (279).

3. High Court. — [1] Expression "High Court" in S. 23 includes Chief Court of Oudh. (Vol 21) 1934 All 14 (15) : 56 All 201.

4. Power of High Court to transfer. — [1] Section 22 provides that the Court to which an application for transfer of a case is made shall 'determine in which of the several Courts having jurisdiction the suit shall proceed'. It has been held in the following cases that

24. (1) On the application of any of the parties¹³ and after notice⁹ to the parties and after hearing such of them as desire to be heard, or of its own motion¹⁰ without such notice, the High Court or the District Court may, at any stage,⁴—

- General power of transfer and withdrawal.*
- (a) transfer any suit, appeal or other proceeding pending before it for trial or disposal to any Court subordinate to it and competent⁵ to try or dispose of the same, or
 - (b) withdraw any suit, appeal or other proceeding pending in any Court subordinate to it, and
 - (i) try or dispose of the same; or
 - (ii) transfer the same for trial or disposal to any Court subordinate to it and competent to try or dispose of the same; or
 - (iii) re-transfer the same for trial or disposal to the Court from which it was withdrawn.

(2) Where any suit or proceeding has been transferred or withdrawn under sub-section (1), the Court which thereafter tries such suit may, subject to any special directions in the case of an order of transfer, either re-try it or proceed from the point at which it was transferred or withdrawn.¹¹

(3) For the purposes of this section, Courts of Additional and Assistant Judges shall be deemed to be subordinate to the District Court.

(4) The Court trying any suit transferred or withdrawn under this section from a Court of Small Causes shall, for the purposes of such suit, be deemed to be a Court of Small Causes.

Objects and Reasons.

"Clause 24. — The words "at any stage" have been added to remove the difficulty created by the view that a suit cannot be transferred after the hearing has once commenced, as to which there is a conflict of decisions."—S. O. R.

this power to determine includes the power to transfer the case. Hence a High Court has power to transfer a suit pending in a Court within its appellate jurisdiction to a Court within the jurisdiction of another High Court. (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 79 (80) : 51 Bom 26*(Vol 27) 1940 Nag 145 (148) : ILR (1941) Nag 311. ((Vol 3) 1916 Nag 31 : 13 Nag L B 81 Overruled.) * (Vol 7) 1920 Pat 138 (141).

[2] This power to transfer has been denied in certain other cases which have, however, held that the High Court can declare that the suit is to be proceeded with in the other Court, the effect of which declaration will be to stay the suit in the Court from which the transfer is desired. And on such a declaration the transferor Court will return the plaint for presentation to the proper Court. (1883) 5 All 60 (61, 62) * (1910) 5 Ind Cas 588 (589) (All) * (1913) 20 Ind Cas 758 (758, 759) (Oudh) * (Vol 15) 1928 Pat 640 (640) * (1909) 4 Ind Cas 814 (815) (Upp Bur).

[3] The High Court on whose original side a suit is pending has inherent power to transfer it to a Court subordinate to a different High Court. (Vol 21) 1934 Rang 265 (266) : 12 Rang 548 (F B).

[4] Where a suit is pending in a Court subordinate to a High Court such High Court has inherent power to transfer it for trial to the original side of another High Court. (Vol 21) 1934 All 14 (17) : 56 All 201.

[5] Where the plaintiff has chosen a forum in utter disregard of the convenience of both parties, for some ulterior object and in abuse of his position as dominus litis, the High Court can, in the exercise of its inherent power, determine which of the two Courts have jurisdiction to try the suit. (Vol 21) 1934 All 14 (16) : 56 All 201.

5. Subordinate Court. — [1] The Judge sitting on the original side of the High Court is not subordinate to the High Court for the purpose of transfer applications. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 290 (291) * (Vol 11)

[But see (Vol 15) 1928 Lah 183 (184).]

[2] Even if this section does not apply to the High Court, the High Court in which the suit is pending has inherent power to transfer the case. And the application is to be made to the original side of the High Court in which the suit is pending. (Vol 21) 1934 Rang 265 (266) : 12 Rang 548 (F B).

[3] The Court of Subordinate Judge is subordinate to the District Court, for the purposes of S. 23. (1909) 10 Cal L Jour 208 (210).

1. Appeal. — [1] Order of High Court under S. 24 is not appealable. (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 267 (273): 13 Rang 457 (FB) ((Vol 16) 1929 Rang 41 : 6 Rang 703 (FB) overruled.) * (Vol 5) 1918 Upp Bur 14 (14): 3 Upp Bur 61.

[2] High Court's order of transfer is not a judgment within the meaning of Letters Patent (Rangoon) cl. 13, and hence is not appealable. (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 267 (272) : 13 Rang 457 (FB).

[3] Decision of the Court to which case is transferred is appealable in same manner as its other decisions. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 687 (687).

2. Applicability and scope. — [1] As to the applicability of this section to any suit or proceeding in the Court of Small Causes established in the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, see S. 8. The provisions of sub-rule (1) of O. 18, R. 15 shall, so far as they are applicable, be deemed to apply to evidence taken in a suit transferred under this section.

[2] Section 24 contemplates transfer of case of one existing Court to another existing Court and not from Court which has ceased to exist. (Vol 24) 1937 Oudh 398 (399) : 13 Luck 369 * (Vol 18) 1931 All 574 (579): 54 All 171 (FB).

[3] The power granted by S. 24 is untrammelled by any such conditions as are laid down in S. 22 and can be exercised even with respect to suits triable by one Court alone. (Vol 21) 1934 All 569 (571).

[4] Section 24 does not intend to limit the power of the District Court to cases in which it itself had territorial jurisdiction. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 145 (148).

[5] High Court can direct transfer of a case where District Judge has refused transfer. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 326 (327) * (Vol 14) 1927 Pat 383 (384).

[6] High Court Judge has jurisdiction to transfer case from one Court to another independently of S. 24. (Vol 22) 1935 All 750 (750).

[7] High Court in insolvency jurisdiction cannot withdraw insolvency proceedings pending with a Sub-Judge in the presidency. (Vol 12) 1925 Bom 543 (545) : 49 Bom 788.

[8] High Court cannot transfer a petition for setting aside an election under S. 19 (1), Bombay Local Boards Act before an Assistant Judge. (Vol 32) 1945 Sind 9 (11) : I L R (1944) Kar 388.

[9] Section 150 relates to transfer of general business of Court — S. 24 contemplates transfer of particular case or cases pending. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 272 (273).

[10] There is a clear distinction between orders of transfer and administrative orders allocating business to particular Judges. When once a Judge has taken cognizance of a suit any order removing the suit from his file is an order of transfer. (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 69 (71) : I L R 1941 Bom 131.

[11] Section 24 is exhaustive of the judicial power to transfersuits and no Court has jurisdiction to transfer a suit from one Court to another unless both Courts are subordinate to it and even a High Court has no power to compel its institution in any Court beyond its jurisdiction. This power is entirely different in character and legal effect from the one in case of an order returning the plaint with a view to its presentation in the proper Court. (Vol 3) 1916 Nag 31 (32, 33) : 13 Nag L R 81.

[12] The powers of transfer under S. 23, Bombay Civil Courts Act, are controlled by S. 24, Civil P. C., and are limited to administrative orders allocating business. Hence an order of transfer (under S. 23, cl. 5, Bombay Civil Courts Act), after another Subordinate Judge has taken cognizance is incompetent. (Vol 26) 1939 Bom 485 (486) : I L R (1939) Bom 472.

[13] Interlocutory application pending before the District Munsif to punish the defendant for disobedience of an ad interim injunction granted by the Munsif, cannot be transferred by the District Judge or the High Court. Section 24 does not apply. (1911) 21 Mad L Jour 829 (831).

[15] Madras City Civil Court not competent to try small cause suit — Chief Justice of High Court has power to transfer small cause suit to City Civil Court not under S. 24, but only under Madras City Civil Court Act (1892), Ss. 3, 5. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 483 (483).

[16] Transfer of Judge with Small Cause powers pending suit — Successor not invested with such powers — Order of Additional District Judge to successor drawing his attention that certain small cause cases be disposed by him under S. 35, Provincial Small Cause Courts Act — Order held was not an order of transfer within meaning of S. 24, Civil P. C., but to be one under Provincial Small Cause Courts Act (1887), S. 35. (Vol 18) 1931 All 574 (577, 578) : 54 All 171 (FB).

[17] Decree cannot be transferred for limited purpose, i. e., to share in rateable distribution of sale proceeds. (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 221 (222).

3. "Application of parties". — [1] High Court having refused to transfer on its own motion can do so on an application therefor. (Vol 10) 1923 All 153 (158).

[2] If the application for the transfer of a case, made to a District Court, proves ineffective, the High Court can transfer the case on application. (1910) 11 Cal L Jour 218 (219).

[3] Application to transfer suit from Court of Small Causes to City Civil Court can be entertained. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 9 (9) : I L R (1940) Mad 251.

[4] Certain suits tried analogously and governed by same judgment — Appeals pending in High Court from some of these suits — Appellant wanting transfer of rest of appeals pending in lower Appellate Court to High Court for analogous trial of them with those pending in High Court can do so by one application. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 84 (85) : I L R (1939) 2 Cal 264 * (Vol 6) 1919 Pat 376 (377) : 4 Pat L Jour 13.

[5] Application to withdraw petition under Provincial Insolvency Act from Subordinate Judge and transfer to High Court is not maintainable. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 1091 (1092) : 52 Mad 57.

[6] "Parties" means parties to the suit, appeal, or proceedings, the transfer of which is sought. (Vol 3) 1916 Nag 123 (126) : 13 Nag L R 203.

[7] The creditor who has received notice in insolvency proceedings is a party entitled to apply for transfer. (1898) 22 Bom 778 (782).

[8] Application under S. 24 frivolous — Opposite party must be allowed substantial costs. (Vol 32) 1945 Oudh 233 (235) : 20 Luck 382.

4. "At any stage". — [1] The cases decided under the old Code show a conflict (a) as to whether a suit could be withdrawn or transferred after the hearing had once commenced; (b) as to whether the District Court could re-transfer a case once withdrawn or transferred; and (c) whether it could transfer or withdraw a case remanded by the High Court. By the addition of the words 'at any stage' and the addition of cl. (1) (b) (iii) this conflict is now set at rest.

Objects and Reasons.

"Clause 25.—Clause 25 of the Bill as introduced has been rendered unnecessary by the omission of clause 22. We have accordingly taken it out and have put in its place a new clause taking power for the Governor-General in Council to transfer cases from one High Court to another under certain circumstances. We think that the exercise of such a power may sometimes be necessary and it has been brought to our notice that the absence of any provision on the point in the existing Code has given rise to difficulty. The new clause proceeds on the analogy of section 527 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898."—S. C. R.

[2] A suit is instituted in ordinary cases when the plaint is presented to the proper officer. Its return for amendment and subsequent presentation and acceptance by the Court will not constitute a fresh institution of the suit. (1878-80) 2 All 832 (834).

[3] Where a Judge accepts a plaint presented to him outside Court and after the usual office hours, the suit must be deemed to have been instituted on the day on which the plaint was so presented. [6] The presentation of plaint or appeal means that it shall be delivered to the proper officer of the Court either by the appellant or his pleader. (1892) 15 Mad 187 (188).

[7] Sending of plaint by post to Revenue Officer, who is on tour, and compliance of his order such as paying batta within a fixed date, held was proper institution of suit. (1885) 8 Mad 411 (412).

[8] A plaint means a private memorial tendered to a Court in which the person sets forth his cause of action; it is the exhibition of an action in writing. (1899) 22 Mad 494 (502).

[9] A writtens tatement claiming a set-off will be deemed to that extent to be a plaint. (1892) 15 Mad 29 (34).

[1] After registration of plaint, summons should be issued to the defendant. (1898) 22 Bom 971 (972)* (1897) 14 Cal 204 (207).

[2] When the order rejecting the plaint is made, no summons should be issued, since S. 27, Civil P. C., only provides summons to issue where suits have been duly instituted. (Vol 9) 1922 Cal 234 (235).

[3] As to the method of issue and service of summons see O. 5; as to summonns to witness, see section 31.

Section 28 — Note 1.

[1] It is for the Court which originally issued summons to decide whether the service of summons is sufficient or not by the Court to which it has been sent for service. (1895) 22 Cal 889 (891).

[But see (1911) 33 All 649 (651, 652)* (1886) 10 Bom 202 (204).]

[2] The affixing, taken by itself, is certainly not effectual complete service of summons. Court should decide whether the summons is duly served by such affixing or not and if it decides in the negative, then a new summons must be issued, or substituted service directed. (1886) 10 Bom 202 (204).

[3] As to summonns to witness, see section 31. See also Order 5, Rules 21 and 23.

30. Subject to such conditions and limitations as may be prescribed the Court may, Power to order discovery and the like. at any time, either of its own motion or on the application of any party, —

- (a) make such orders as may be necessary or reasonable in all matters relating to the delivery and answering of interrogatories, the admission of documents and facts, and the discovery, inspection, production, impounding and return of documents or other material objects producible as evidence;
- (b) issue summonses to persons whose attendance is required either to give evidence or to produce documents or such other objects as aforesaid;
- (c) order any fact to be proved by affidavit.

31. The provisions in sections 27, 28 and 29 shall apply to summonses to give evidence or to Summons to witness. produce documents or other material objects.

32. The Court may compel the attendance of any person to whom a summons has been Penalty for default. issued under section 30 and for that purpose may —

- (a) issue a warrant for his arrest;
- (b) attach and sell his property;
- (c) impose a fine upon him not exceeding five hundred rupees;
- (d) order him to furnish security for his appearance and in default commit him to the civil prison.

[See O. 16, Rr. 10 to 13, 17 and 21.]

Objects and Reasons.

Thinking it unnecessary to impose penal consequences for a default of the class indicated in this section, the Committee have omitted the last paragraph of S. 136 of the Code of 1882, which provided that any party failing to comply with any order under Chap. III of that Code, to answer interrogatories or for discovery, production, or inspection, which has been served personally upon him, shall be deemed guilty of an offence under S. 188 of the Penal Code.—See S. O. R.

JUDGMENT AND DECREE.

33. The Court, after the case has been heard, shall pronounce judgment, and on such Judgment and decree. judgment a decree shall follow.

Section 30 — Note 1.

[1] The conditions and limitations referred to in this section are to be found in Orders 11, 12, 13, 16 and 19.

Section 32 — Note 1.

[1] Jurisdiction to impose fine vested by S. 32 can be exercised only in manner laid down by O. 16. (Vol 16) 1929 All 850 (852).

[2] Fine can be imposed only upon persons not appearing in obedience to summons to give evidence and required to give evidence and not on persons not required subsequently to produce evidence. (Vol 16) 1929 All 850 (853).

[3] Section 32 applies only when a person has failed to comply with a summons to attend Court and not to the case of a party who fails to produce documents which he has been ordered to produce. (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 181 (183); 5 Pat L Jour 550.

INTEREST.

34. (1) Where and in so far as a decree is for the payment of money,³ the Court may, in the decree, order interest at such rate as the Court deems reasonable to be paid on the principal sum adjudged, from the date of the suit to the date of the decree,⁴ in addition to any interest adjudged on such principal sum for any period prior to the institution of the suit,⁵ with further interest at such rate as the Court deems reasonable on the aggregate sum so adjudged, from the date of the decree to the date of payment, or to such earlier date as the Court thinks fit.

(2) Where such a decree is silent with respect to the payment of further interest on such aggregate sum as aforesaid from the date of the decree to the date of payment or other earlier date, the Court shall be deemed to have refused such interest, and a separate suit therefor shall not lie.

Objects and Reasons.

"Clause 34.—The words 'not being a decree for the enforcement of a mortgage or charge' have been omitted in this clause and elsewhere in order to make it clear that a decree for the payment of money does not include a decree for sale in enforcement of a mortgage or charge."—S. C. R.

pronounced without giving opportunity to parties to address any fresh argument — Judgment is liable to be set aside.)

[3] For the method of pronouncing judgment and making decree, see O. 20.

2. Decree to follow judgment.—[1] It is the duty of the Court to draw up a decree in accordance with judgment. No adverse inference as to right to appeal can be drawn against a party omitting to ask the Court to draw up a decree. (Vol 1) 1914 Bom 23 (25) : 33 Bom 331 * (Vol 6) 1919 Lah 53 (54) : (1919) Pun Re No 66 * (Vol 11) 1924 Nag 271 (274) : 20 Nag L R 181.

[2] In the case of an original civil suit the decree must be quite distinct from the judgment. (Vol 7) 1920 Lah 395 (396) : 1 Lah 223.

[3] After the judgment is pronounced the High Court has no power to stop the preparation of decree merely because proper court-fee is not paid. (Vol 19) 1932 Pat 228 (231) : 11 Pat 582.

[4] Where subsequent to the delivery of judgment by High Court on appeal, an application for scaling down of debt is filed, the practice of remitting such application to the lower Court for enquiry and report and drawing the decree in accordance with such report is contrary to law. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 929 (931, 932) : 1 L R (1942) Mad 346 (F B). ((Vol 27) 1940 Mad 478, overruled.)

[5] Section 33 is qualified by Succession Certificate Act (1889), S. 4 — Decree cannot be passed till a certificate is produced. (Vol 7) 1920 Nag 148 (149).

[6] Section 33 does not preclude the Court from following the practice of preparing a decree when an application is made; and it does not preclude the High Court from making a rule that where a decree is unnecessary no decree be prepared. (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 266 (269) : 13 Pat 371.

[7] Decree for more than what is claimed in plaint cannot be granted without amending plaint. (Vol 19) 1932 Rang 141 (142).

SECTION 34 — SYNOPSIS.

1. Applicability and scope.
2. Decree for payment of money.
3. Decree silent as to interest.
4. Interest pendente lite and future.
5. Interest prior to suit.

6. Mortgage suits.

7. Rule of dampnat.

1. Applicability and scope. — [1] Section 34 bears no analogy to S. 2 (12), and O. 20, R. 12 dealing with mesne profits. Interest may be awarded under S. 34 as an inducement to prompt satisfaction of the decree and as a penalty for non-compliance with it. Such interest is no part of the claim or relief granted, as in the case of mesne profits. (1906) 33 Cal 1232 (1235).

[2] Claim for interest from date of institution of suit until payment is like future mesne profits which do not fall under S. 7 of Court-fees Act (VII of 1870) and hence no additional stamp is required. (1893) 17 Bom 41 (42).

2. Decree for payment of money. — [1] It has been held in the following cases that the words "decree for payment of money" include claim for unliquidated damages: (Vol 27) 1940 Bom 369 (377, 378) : 1 L R (1941) Bom 71 * (Vol 12) 1925 Bom 547 (556). [2] But a contrary view is taken in the following cases: (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 386 (387) * (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 737 (739) * (Vol 18) 1931 Sind 121 (124) : 25 Sind L R 104.

[3] Decree for partition and for accounts — Section does not apply. (Vol 12) 1925 Bom 406 (409) : 49 Bom 282.

3. Decree silent as to interest. — [1] Where a decree is silent with respect to further interest from date of decree to the date of payment the Court must be deemed to have refused to give interest unless it can be shown that its silence was due to oversight or mistake and a separate suit will not lie for its recovery. (Vol 5) 1918 Low Bur 136 (137) : 9 Low Bur Rul 78 * (1913) 37 Bom 326 (338, 339) : 40 Ind App 68 (PC) * (1896) 23 Cal 357 (360). [2] It is illegal for Court to decree claim for interest by way of amendment of its decree. Order so amending decree is open to revision. (1893) 15 All 121 (122, 123).

[4] Non-mention by appellate Court as to interest granted by lower Court amounts to refusal. (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 102 (103).

4. Interest pendente lite and future.—[1] Interest pendente lite and future is governed by S. 34. (Vol 22) 1935 All 505 (506) (F B).

16. Partition suits. — [1] Costs in partition suit up to preliminary decree—Parties should bear their own costs—But the institution fee should be borne proportionately by all. (Vol 10) 1923 Bom 464 (466)* (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 618 (619) : 42 Cal 451* (1909) 10 Cal L Jour 503 (516).

[2] It is incorrect that in partition suits, parties should bear their own costs up to the preliminary decree. The question depends upon the nature of the dispute raised. (Vol 29) 1942 Pat 76 (77) * (Vol 17) 1930 Pat 336 (336) : 9 Pat 773. (Defendants not contesting plaintiff's case — Plaintiff is not entitled to costs up to preliminary decree.)

[3] Partition suit — Costs up to preliminary decree should come out of estate. (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 149 (150).

[4] In a suit for partition, the Court has a discretion to award costs against a party who raises a vexatious contention and fails. (1913) 21 Ind Cas 746 (748) (Mad) * (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 573 (574)* (1909) 10 Cal L Jour 503 (516)* (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 229 (230).

[5] Suit for partition and mesne profits—Preliminary decree directing enquiry into mesne profits — Final decree directing payment of mesne profits — Plaintiff paying court-fee at time of execution and seeking to recover same from defendants — Direction for court-fee held implied and plaintiff held entitled to recover same from defendant. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 689 (689, 690).

17. Principles governing award of costs. — [1] The theory on which costs are now awarded to a plaintiff is that the default of the defendant made it necessary to sue him, and to a defendant is that the plaintiff sued him without cause; costs are thus in the nature of incidental damages allowed to indemnify a party against the expense of successfully vindicating his rights in Court and consequently the party to blame pays costs to the party without fault. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 185 (190, 191) : 48 Cal 427.

[2] Court while awarding costs is not confined to the consideration of the conduct of the parties in the actual litigation itself, but may also take into consideration matters which led up to and were the occasion of that litigation. (Vol 12) 1923 Cal 569 (570)* (1911) 13 Cal L Jour 404 (411).

[3] Award of costs is in the discretion of Court. (Vol 33) 1946 Cal 249 (258) : I L R (1944) 2 Cal 487 * (Vol 29) 1942 All 233 (237) : I L R (1942) All 832 * (Vol 20) 1933 All 311 (311, 312)* (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 16 (17) : ILR (1940) Bom 837* (Vol 20) 1933 Bom 304 (305) * (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 126 (135) * (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 585 (587).

[4] Discretion is a judicial discretion to be exercised on general principles and not arbitrarily. (Vol 32) 1945 Pat 184 (184) : 23 Pat 927* (1903) 7 Cal W N 647 (648, 649)* (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 1009 (1013) * (Vol 7) 1920 Lah 164 (164)* (1904) 27 Mad 341 (342).

[5] Discretion should not be limited by artificial rules. (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 567 (568) : 43 Mad 61.

20. Representative suits.—[1] If the representative party alone is to bear the costs he should be named in the order. If the representative and the party he represents are to bear the costs, then the order should clearly specify that. (Vol 4) 1917 Bom 141 (148) : 42 Bom 556.

PART II. EXECUTION.

["Clauses 36-74. — The bulk of the provisions as to execution will be found in the Rules, but the main provisions as to the Courts by which decrees may be executed, the question to be determined by Courts executing decrees, the limit of time for execution, transferees and legal representatives, procedure in executing, arrest and attachment, the relegation to Collectors of power to execute certain decrees, the distribution of assets and resistance to execution have been retained in the body of the Bill."—S. O. R.]

GENERAL.

36. The provisions of this Code relating to the execution of decrees shall, so far as they are Application to orders. applicable, be deemed to apply to the execution of orders.

[Compare 1882, S. 649, para. 1.]

37. The expression "Court which passed a decree," or words to that effect, shall, in relation to the Definition of Court which execution of decrees, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject passed a decree. or context, be deemed to include,—

(a) where the decree to be executed has been passed in the exercise of appellate jurisdiction, the Court of first instance, and

(b) where the Court of first instance has ceased to exist or to have jurisdiction to execute it, the Court which, if the suit wherein the decree was passed was instituted at the time of making the application for the execution of the decree, would have jurisdiction to try such suit.

[1] This section applies to all orders that can be included in the definition of the term 'order' given in S. 2 (14). (Vol 21) 1934 Bom 452 (457) : 59 Bom 10 (Order obtained by attorney against his client for payment of costs.) * (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 696 (698) (Order passed in execution proceeding.) * (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 1222 (1223) (Orders granting day costs.)

[2] An order made after the dismissal of a partition suit directing the plaintiff to deposit in Court a certain sum of money as remuneration for work done by the commissioners of partition is an order within the meaning of S. 2 (14); it may be executed as a decree. (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 57 (58, 59) : 52, Cal 269.

[3] The following orders can, by virtue of this section, be executed as decree :—

(a) Order for recovery of amount drawn by Court Commissioner in excess of his dues. (1910) 6 Ind Cas 386 (387) (Cal).

(b) Court sale subsequently set aside — Order for refund of money to purchaser. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 894 (895).

(c) An order under O. 20, R. 11 (2) can be executed as if it were a decree. (Vol 12) 1925 Rang 189 (191) : 2 Rang 673.

(d) On a judgment on admission decree need not be drawn — Plaintiff may enforce payment as on order in execution by reason of S. 36. (Vol 13) 1926 Sind 119 (120) : 20 Sind L R 216.

(e) Decree that respondents should have all costs, but not mentioning certain costs for which order passed subsequently—Order is executable. (Vol 8) 1921 Sind 13 (15) : 15 Sind L R 11.

[4] Section 36 is not limited to orders made only under Civil Procedure Code. (Vol 21) 1934 Bom 452 (457) : 59 Bom 10 (Section applies to order on a notice of motion passed by a Chartered High Court.)

[5] An order passed against guardian under S. 34, Guardians and Wards Act (8 of 1890) is not executable as it is not one contemplated by S. 2, Civil P. C. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 889 (890) : 41 Mad 241.

[But see (Vol 12) 1925 All 457 (457).]

[6] The District Judge, acting under a scheme of management, framed by a Court, is not acting in a judicial capacity—He merely acts as 'persona designata.'

Hence, an order for costs made by him, though legal, is not capable of execution. (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 97 (98).

[7] Where an order is passed in favour of a dead person, it is not altogether a nullity — If a party is dead, the records stand good so far as the living parties are concerned and that any disposal of the case notwithstanding the death of one of the parties will be valid, subject to its being vacated at the instance of the legal representatives of the dead. (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 527 (527).

SECTION 37—SYNOPSIS.

1. Court ceases to have jurisdiction to execute.

1a. Court has ceased to exist.

2. "Court which passed a decree".

3. "To include".

4. Proper Court.

5. Scope and applicability.

1. Court ceases to have jurisdiction to execute.

—[1] When once a Court gets jurisdiction to entertain a suit it does not ordinarily lose such jurisdiction by reason of subsequent events. (1886) 10 Bom 200 (202). (Amount due under money decree increased by accumulation of interest—This amount beyond jurisdiction of Court —Court does not cease to have jurisdiction.) * (1882) 6 Bom 582 (583) * (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 684 (687).

[2] It was argued that Court which passed a decree ceased to have jurisdiction to execute it because after the passing of the decree a party (e. g., Court of Wards) was added in execution who, had he been a party when the suit, wherein the decree was passed, was instituted would have deprived the Court of its jurisdiction : Held that notwithstanding the fact the Court could proceed with execution. (Vol 1) 1914 Bom 180 (181); 38 Bom. 662.

[3] Mortgage decree for sale in respect of properties both within and without jurisdiction—Court has jurisdiction to sell in execution properties outside jurisdiction. (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 687 (687) : 14 Lah 457 * (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 403 (409) : 1 L R (1939) 1 Cal 493 * (1887) 14 Cal 661 (672) * (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 421 (424) : 49 Mad 746.

execute the decree passed by his predecessor. (Vol 3) 1916 Pat 3 (3) : 2 Pat L Jour 113.

[5] A Court does not cease to have jurisdiction by the transfer to a different Court by the Provincial Government of the area in which the property in respect of which the decree was passed is situate. (1907) 30 Mad 537 (539).

[6] The transfer by the District Judge of the business of the Court to another Court does not entail the loss of jurisdiction of the former Court. (1898) 25 Cal 315 (316, 319) (1900) 27 Cal 272 (274, 275) (1895) 22 Cal 871 (874, 875) (Vol 8) 1921 Pat 152 (154) : 6 Pat L Jour 304.

[7] Assignment of business to another by District Judge under S. 13 (2) of Bengal, Agra and Assam Civil Courts Act is only arrangement for distribution of civil business and does not in any way curtail jurisdiction of Court which passed the decree. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 321 (323) : I L R (1942) 1 Cal 289.

1a. Court has ceased to exist—[1] Court in Madras Presidency transferred to new Orissa Province—Decree-holder filing execution in Court in Orissa Province which passed decree—Execution held not properly filed since by Government notification, the Court passing the decree ceased to exist, when that territory was transferred to another province. (Vol 30) 1943 Pat 423 (424).

[2] Court passing decree ceasing to exist—Decree should be executed by Court having jurisdiction to try suit. (Vol 6) 1919 Pat 367 (368).

[3] A Court that is abolished can be revived (Vol 13) 1926 Pat 209 (210) : 4 Pat 688.

[4] Where the Court which passes the decree is abolished but is subsequently re-established, it can execute the decree provided it would have jurisdiction to try the suit to which the decree relates if it were instituted at the time of the application for execution. (Vol 13) 1926 Pat 209 (209) : 4 Pat 688.

[5] Withdrawal of special jurisdiction vested in Court—Court ceases to exist. (Vol 6) 1919 Pat 237 (238). (Case under Land Acquisition Act) (1896) 19 Mad 445 (448) (Jurisdiction under Small Cause Courts Act).

2. "Court which passed a decree"—[1] A Court other than the one which passed the decree, is contemplated by the definition of "Court which passed the decree" in S. 37. A Court, which ceases to exist does not exhaust that definition, it still leaves room to include a Court, still existing but ceasing to exercise jurisdiction within the meaning of the definition. (Vol 31) 1944 Sind 173 (175) : I L R (1944) Kar 33.

[2] "Court which passed a decree" merely includes another Court besides the Court which originally passed the decree and a Court does not cease to be so merely because the local limits of its jurisdiction are altered or the headquarters of such Court are removed to another place. (1881) 6 Cal 513 (515, 519) (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 10 (11) : 46 Mad 1.

[3] The High Court to which the Privy Council transmits its decree, in receiving and filing it does merely a ministerial act and the District Court does not thereby cease to be the Court which passed the decree for the purpose of recognizing the transferee decree-holder. (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 222 (224) : 38 Mad 832.

3. "To include."—[1] The word "includes" as used in S. 37, though it extends the meaning of the expression "Court which passed the decree" in one sense, does, in another sense, restrict it, under the circumstances specified in cl. (a) and cl. (b) of the section, and substitute for it another Court, which, for purposes of the section, is to be regarded as the only Court which passed the decree. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 321 (322) : I L R (1942) 1 Cal 289.

[2] Term "shall be deemed to include" is of extensive and not of restrictive jurisdiction—Jurisdiction of

COURTS BY WHICH DECREES MAY BE EXECUTED.

Court by which decree may be executed.

Court passing decree to execute same is not taken away. (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 427 (431) : 42 Mad 821 (FB).

4. Proper Court. — [1] Jurisdiction to try suits under S. 92 was also conferred on First Class Subordinate Judge's Court after amendment of S. 92 and therefore such Court would be proper Court for executing the decree, within the meaning of S. 37 (b). (Vol 31) 1944 Bom 300 (301, 302).

[2] Order for costs by High Court while refusing application for leave — Order can be executed only by Court to which it is transferred by High Court—Transferee Court cannot transfer it to another Court. (Vol 31) 1944 Cal 301 (301).

[3] Delay in issuing a notification to the effect that the powers of the Judge of a Court have been raised retrospectively from a certain previous date does not affect his authority to dispose of a matter which he disposed of in the interim period. (Vol 2) 1915 Oudh 170 (170).

[4] A preliminary decree for nearly Rs. 2000 was made in a mortgage suit by a Munsif having power to try suits up to Rs. 2000. The Munsif being transferred and his successor not being vested with the same power the final decree was made by the Sub-Judge. Execution was, however, taken out in the Court of the Munsif who in the meantime was vested with jurisdiction. Held, that the Munsif's Court could execute the decree under S. 150, though not under Ss. 37 and 38. (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 532 (532) : 47 Cal 1100.

[5] Where the decree which was being executed was a decree of the Calcutta High Court in a suit which arose within the present jurisdiction of the Patna High Court, it was the latter Court which had power to supervise the execution of the decree. (Vol 5) 1918 Pat 352 (354) : 3 Pat L Jour 435.

[6] Court not having jurisdiction at the time execution application is presented, but obtaining jurisdiction before passing order—Court is not bound to dismiss application on the ground that it had no jurisdiction at the time when the petition was filed. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 283 (286) : 57 Mad 795.

[7] In general, appellate decree if properly drawn is the one to be executed. But there may be cases in which the general and ordinary rule cannot and should not be invariably enforced. In particular circumstances it may be incumbent on the Courts to permit execution of the original Court's decree. (Vol 8) 1921 Low Bur 37 (42) : 11 Low Bur 163.

5. Scope and applicability.—[1] The jurisdiction of a Court resulting from the application of S. 37 (b) in the case of a decree made in a suit filed under S. 92 is not limited or nullified by the provisions of S. 15. (Vol 31) 1944 Bom 300 (302).

[2] Section 37 (b) specifically relates to execution proceedings. Where, therefore, there is transfer of territorial jurisdiction, jurisdiction should not be limited only to suits to the exclusion of execution proceedings. (Vol 31) 1944 Sind 173 (176) : I L R (1944) Kar 33.

[3] The terms of the section are general and draw no distinction as to the nature of the cause which puts an end to the jurisdiction. (1893) 17 Bom 162 (164).

[5] Section 37 does not take away powers conferred under S. 38. (Vol 31) 1944 Sind 173 (175, 176) : I L R (1944) Kar 33.

[6] Where the Court is one and the same but is presided over by several Judges, the decree passed by one can be executed by the other. Section 37 (b) does not apply to such a case. (1941) 73 Cal L Jour 351 (353)* (Vol 6) 1919 Pat 367 (369).

[2] Though S. 38 is general in its wording, power of transferring a decree to another Court must be exercised subject to the conditions contained in S. 39. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 17 (17).

[3] Unless the decree is sent for execution under S. 38 a suit to set aside sale in execution cannot be treated as proceedings in execution under S. 47 (2). (Vol 9) 1922 Nag 189 (191).

[4] If two Subordinate Judges had the same local jurisdiction assigned to them, it is competent for the District Judge to distribute business among the two officers, but that would not empower him to make any order in contravention of S. 38 directing the decree passed by one of the officers be executed by the other. (1941) 73 Cal L Jour 351 (354).

[16] When there is no want of jurisdiction apparent on the face of the decree the party in execution cannot raise a disputed point of fact which, if his contention is true, would have deprived the Court of its jurisdiction to pass a decree in that matter. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 362 (363).

[17] Executing Court cannot add to or alter the decree. (Vol 11) 1924 Pat 263 (264) : 3 Pat 221.

[6] Application for transfer of decree to the District Court A—Judgment-debtor resident in district B—The District Judge of A having jurisdiction over districts both A and B—The application is in order. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 265 (266).

[7] An application for the transfer of the decree is an application which involves a question relating to the execution of decree and an appeal, therefore, lies from an order rejecting such an application. (1904) 8 Cal W N 575 (577).

[8] An order of transfer of decree, made on an application which fails to state that the judgment-debtor has property or resides within the jurisdiction of the Court to which the applicant desires transfer, is not proper. (1939) 41 Pun L R 186 (187).

[9] Court considering application for transfer must go into question of limitation. (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 199 (200).

[10] Rule 2 Ch. 17 of the Rules of the Calcutta High Court permits an application under O. 21, R. 16 to be combined with an application for transmission of a decree for execution. (Vol 19) 1932 Pat 168 (168, 169) : 11 Pat 94.

[11] Decree sent to another Court for execution on decree-holder's application — Question of pecuniary jurisdiction of Court to which it is sent does not arise — It can be sent to any Court. (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 206 (206).

2. Execution application. — [1] An application for execution has to be made to the Court to which decree has been transferred and not to the Court which passed the decree. (Vol 3) 1916 P C 16 (18) : 39 Mad 640 : 43 Ind App 238 (PC).

[2] When execution application is filed in transferring Court before transfer of decree it is not necessary to file a fresh application in transferee Court. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 312 (316); 58 Cal 832 & (Vol 11) 1924 Pat 120 (121) : 2 Pat 909.

[3] The transferee Court has jurisdiction to entertain application for execution from the date of the passing of the order of transfer. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 214 (214).

[4] Transmission for execution to Sub-Court—Transferee Court and not the District Court has jurisdiction to entertain application for execution—Decree has to be sent to the District Court under O. 21, R. 5 only for transmission. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 214 (214).

2a. Notice. — [1] Transfer of decree being a ministerial act, proceedings are not vitiated by want of notice to judgment-debtors. (Vol 30) 1943 Pesh 87 (88).

(Vol 4) 1917 Pat 70, Not followed)* (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 99 (99).

[But see (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 268 (269, 270) (Court can issue certificate of non-satisfaction even when execution is pending — But order for transfer can be made only after issuing notice to judgment-debtor.)* (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 70 (71).]

3. Scope.—[1] Provisions of S. 39 are permissive and not mandatory. (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 570 (572)* (1892) 19 Cal 13 (16) (Section is directory.)

[1a] Word "Court" means Court in British India. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 309 (311) : I L R (1941) Mad 574 (FB).

[2] The use of the word 'may' does not take away from Court the power to execute its own decree conferred by previous sections, but rather gives it a discretion either to execute the decree itself or on the application of the decree-holder to send it to another Court for execution. (1888) 15 Cal 667 (670)* (1895) 22 Cal 871 (876)* (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 213 (214, 215) : 59 Cal 199 (The discretion is controlled by the provisions of the section.)* (Vol 26) 1939 Cal 651 (654) (Discretion given by S. 39 must be judicially exercised.)* (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 73 (74) (Judgment-debtor not liable to arrest — Still decree can be transmitted to Court where he resides.)

[3] Transfer may be made when any one of the four conditions laid down in the section are satisfied. (Vol 27) 1940 All 331 (331) : I L R (1940) All 318.

[4] Small Cause Court must adopt the procedure mentioned in the section where execution is sought against the person or property outside its local jurisdiction and, as such, cannot attach the salary of a public officer, which is disbursed outside its local jurisdiction. (1884) 6 All 243 (248) (FB).

[5] The test of the applicability of the section is whether the provisions of the Code regulate the procedure of the Court which makes the decree, as also of the Court to which it is transferred for execution. (1907) 34 Cal 576 (582).

[6] Proceedings which are without jurisdiction are not proceedings that can be transferred. (1910) 37 Cal 574 (578).

[7] When Court passes decree and there is decree in appeal therefrom, for all purposes of execution there is only one decree, viz., the original decree as amended by appellate Court — It is only this decree that is transferred. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 872 (873).

[8] Section does not apply to a decree under the Presidency Small Cause Courts Act. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 265 (266).

[9] No transfer of a decree should be made for execution so as to evade the provisions of the limitation Act or to validate an invalid application. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 192 (193) : 42 Mad 461.

[10] It is the decree itself which a Court can transfer for execution under S. 39. The Court cannot, either of its own motion or at the bidding of another Court transfer the darkhast or a suit pending before it, unless an order for transfer is duly passed either by District Judge or by High Court. (Vol 26) 1939 Bom 468 (470).

[11] Court which can execute award can transfer it for execution. (Vol 9) 1922 Bom 377 (377, 378) : 46 Bom 128.

[12] As to the applicability of this section to any suit or proceeding in the Court of Small Causes established in the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, see section 8.

4. Sub-section (1) (b).—[1] Ground for transfer one under sub-s. 1 (b)—Execution will be limited to execution against judgment-debtor who satisfies condition set out in sub-s. (1) (b). (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 521 (523) : 63 Cal 1210.

[2] It would be necessary for the decree-holder to satisfy Court that judgment-debtor has not sufficient property within local limits of jurisdiction of Court which passed the decree sufficient to satisfy decree. (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 529 (529) : 56 Cal 1176.

[3] Court passing decree having within its jurisdiction property sufficient to satisfy decree is not necessarily precluded from transferring decree. (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 481 (481) : 28 Oudh Cas 199.

[4] Decree transferred for execution by sale to Court within whose jurisdiction part of property covered by decree lies—Such Court can proceed with execution. (Vol 5) 1918 Lah 63 (64) : 1918 Pun Re No. 43.

[5] The jurisdiction of a Court is circumscribed by and co-extensive with its territorial limit. Where property sought to be attached is bona fide without the jurisdiction of the original Court whose decree is sought to be enforced and is in the hands of a third party who is not amenable to or permanently residing within the jurisdiction of the executing Court, it must be transferred to the Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the property sought to be attached is for the time being. (Vol 5) 1918 Pat 126 (127) : 4 Pat L Jour 141.

[6] Decree for sale—Sale held by Court A — Decree-holder purchaser obstructed in taking possession—Decree may be transferred to Court B for removal of obstruction — Clause (d) need not be considered at all in such cases. (Vol 23) 1936 Sind 11 (13) : 30 Sind L R 290.

5. Sub-section (2).—[1] Section 39 (2) refers to a "Subordinate Court," and one Subordinate Court is not subordinate to another. (Vol 31) 1944 Sind 173 (174, 175) : I L R (1944) Kar 33.

5a. To what Court decree can be transferred — Question of competency.—[1] Meaning of "competent jurisdiction" in sub-s. (2) unmistakably points to the conclusion that it is not open to any and every Court to execute a decree irrespective of its pecuniary jurisdiction and that the competence of the Court to execute a particular decree must be determined by reference to its competence to try a suit of similar valuation in which the decree under the section was passed. (Vol 26) 1939 All 57 (59) : I L R (1939) All 97 [(1884) 7 Mad 397 and (1894) 17 Mad 309, held no longer good law.]* (1940) 1940 Nag L Jour 244 (251) * (1910) 37 Cal 574 (577)* (1889) 16 Cal 457 (464)* (1888) 12 Bom 155 (157).

[2] A Court passing a decree cannot send of its own motion to any Court subordinate to it for execution when the value of the subject-matter of the suit of the decree exceeds the pecuniary jurisdiction of that Subordinate Court. (1911) 12 Ind Cas 27 (28) (Low Bur) * (Vol 9) 1922 Pat 188 (189) : 1 Pat 651.

[3] Words 'competent jurisdiction' in sub-section (2) refer to territorial and pecuniary jurisdiction to deal with decree and do not mean competency to try original suit. (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 253 (253, 259) : I L R (1939) Lah 551.

[4] Award under Arbitration Act can be enforced only by District Judge, and it cannot be transferred by him to any other than a District Judge. (Vol 21) 1934 Pesh 107 (109).

6. Transferor and transferee Courts.—Powers of.—[1] Small Cause Court cannot by transferring execution application to its regular side confer upon itself jurisdiction to proceed against immovable property. (Vol 25) 1938 Pesh 70 (71, 72).

[But see (1884) 8 Bom 230 (334) (A Subordinate Judge invested with small cause powers may, for any good reason to be recorded in writing, transfer the decree passed under small cause jurisdiction to the other branch of the same Court, as it might to a different

[2] Decree transferred for execution to Court of Government Agent of Vizagapatam—Transmitting Court cannot be presumed to request the Agent's Court to execute against property outside its jurisdiction nor has the latter the power to do so. (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 144 (144).

[3] A District Munsif, receiving by transfer a decree of a village Court under S. 66 of Madras Act I [I] of 1889 or withdrawing execution of a decree to his own file under S. 67 has no jurisdiction to transfer it for execution to another District Munsif under S. 39. (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 651 (652) : 46 Mad 734.

[4] Application for execution to Court passing decree—Such Court can transmit decree to Court where immovable property sought to be sold is situate along with papers required by O. 21, Rr. 3 and 6. (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 267 (269).

[5] Where a decree is transferred to another Court for execution, the transferring Court retains jurisdiction only for limited purposes, namely, for dealing with applications for recording assignment of decrees under O. 21, R. 16 and applications against legal representatives of judgment-debtor. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 906 (908) : 60 Cal 1176.

[6] Clauses of S. 39 do not limit the powers of the transferee Court—Decree transferred under clause (b)—Transferee Court can order arrest of judgment-debtor. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 27 (29).

[7] Application for bringing legal representatives on record must be made to Court passing decree—Court to which decree is transferred has no jurisdiction to entertain it. (Vol 7) 1920 Nag 174 (175).

[8] Objections to execution should be taken in the Court passing the decree and not in transferee Court. (Vol 14) 1927 Nag 31 (32).

[9] See also Note 3 on S. 41 and Notes 2 and 3 on S. 42.

7. Transmission of decree.—[1] Entire decree and not part of it should be sent for execution to other Court. (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 118 (119) (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 70 (71).

[2] Decree cannot be transferred to another Court for a limited purpose only, i. e., to enable the decree-holder to share in the rateable distribution of assets. (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 221 (222, 223).

[3] Decree can be sent for execution to more than one Court. (Vol 14) 1927 Rang 258 (261) : 5 Rang 397.

[4] Transmitting a decree for execution is a ministerial act. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 99 (99) (Vol 30) 1943 Pesh 87 (88).

[See however (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 199 (200) (Order for transfer of decree after hearing judgment-debtor's objections is not ministerial.)]

[5] An order for sending a decree to another Court for execution is not an order for execution. An execution application on which such an order has been made will not save limitation for subsequent application. (Vol 22) 1935 Pat 485 (486).

[6] Transmission for execution can be made ex parte. (Vol 15) 1928 Rang 40 (42) : 5 Rang 775.

[7] A certificate of transfer of a decree need not be signed by the Judge who passed it. (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 369 (369).

Section 40—Note 1.

[1] Courts in British India have no authority to send their decrees for execution to Courts not in British India. (1888) 12 Bom 230 (231) (1907) 34 Cal 576 (582).

[2] Decree transferred for execution—Law of limitation applicable for its execution is that applicable to Court which passed decree. (1913) 36 Mad 108 (111, 112) (1897) 24 Cal 473 (491) (1890) 17 Cal 491 (497).

[4] As to the applicability of this section to any suit or proceeding in the Court of Small Causes established in the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, see section 8.

SECTION 41—SYNOPSIS.

1. Certificate under S. 41.

2. Scope of section.

3. Transferee Court.

1. Certificate under S. 41.—[1] Formal certification by the executing Court to the Court transferring the decree is very necessary. (Vol 11) 1924 Bom 359 (359, 360).

[2] No particular method is prescribed for the certificate under S. 41. (Vol 10) 1923 Bom 371 (371).

[3] Transferee Court dismissing execution and directing that transferor Court should be informed—Certified copy of this order, together with decree-holder's application for transfer, filed in transferor Court—Held, this was sufficient compliance with S. 41. (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 557 (559) : I L R (1937) 2 Cal 734.

[4] Once a certificate is given by the transferee Court, the original Court is competent to re-transfer to the same transferee Court on proper application being made. If at the time of application, the certificate of non-satisfaction had not been granted by the transferee Court the defect is cured by the certificate being received subsequently. (Vol 13) 1926 Lah 113 (114).

2. Scope of section.—[1] Madras Civil Rules of Practice, R. 161 (a), is not inconsistent with S. 41, nor is it ultra vires. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 1209 (1209).

[2] Where a Subordinate Judge is invested with Small Cause Court powers and from the small cause side a decree is transferred to original side for execution and comes before the same Judge, then it is impossible to apply S. 41 strictly because that section clearly contemplates different Courts, not different branches of the same Court. (Vol 10) 1923 Bom 371 (372).

[3] As to the applicability of this section to any suit or proceeding in the Court of Small Causes established in the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, see S. 8.

3. Transferee Court.—[1] The transferee Court retains its jurisdiction to execute the decree either until the execution has been withdrawn from it or until it has fully executed the decree or until it has failed to execute the decree and has certified that fact to the Court which forwarded the decree. There should be a complete failure such as would result in no benefit to the judgment-creditor for one reason or another, and not merely a partial failure. (Vol 10) 1923 Bom 396

42. The Court executing a decree sent to it shall have the same powers in executing such decree as if it had been passed by itself. All persons disobeying or obstructing the execution of the decree shall be punishable by such Court in the same manner as if it had passed the decree. And its order in executing such decree shall be subject to the same rules in respect of appeal as if the decree had been passed by itself.

[2] The transferee Court cannot grant certificate of non-satisfaction to another Court. It can only execute the decree itself and certify the result to the original Court. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 330 (331).

[3] Court to which decree is transferred for execution ceases to have jurisdiction after it has taken action under S. 41. (Vol 13) 1926 Pat 274 (275) : 5 Pat 398.

[4] After issue of certificate whether rightly or wrongly the Court to whom the decree is transferred cannot deal with execution matters. (Vol 12) 1925 All 179 (179).

[5] The mere fact that an execution proceeding has been struck off does not indicate the final determination of the execution proceedings in that Court. (1909) 9 Cal L Jour 443 (452) & (Vol 25) 1938 All 412 (413).

[6] Transfer of decree — Judgment-debtor granted time under compromise — Executing Court ordering record to be filed but attachment to subsist — Certificate purporting to be under section 41 sent to transferor Court—Fresh application for execution to proceed and for rateable distribution on judgment-debtor's failure to pay — Certificate sent held unnecessary and was not properly under section 41 — Jurisdiction of executing Court held had not ceased. (Vol 24) 1937 All 766 (768).

[7] Even after issue of certificate under S. 41, transferee Court has jurisdiction to decide objections relating to anything done in the course of its proceedings (Vol 16) 1929 Oudh 76 (77) : 4 Luck 209.

[8] Where a decree has been sent to another Court for execution and no report has been sent to the original Court under section 41, so as to deprive the transferee Court of the power to execute the decree any further, an application to the transferee Court for arrest of the judgment-debtor is one made to the proper Court. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 27 (28).

SECTION 42 — SYNOPSIS.

1. Jurisdiction of transferee Court how long continues.
2. Powers of transferee Court.
3. Powers of transferor Court after transfer.
4. "Shall be subject to the same rules in respect of appeal."

1. Jurisdiction of transferee Court how long continues. — [1] Till the Court to which a decree has been sent for execution has made its return to the Court which made the decree, it has jurisdiction to entertain successive applications for execution. (1909) 9 Cal L Jour 443 (451, 452).

[2] Transferee Court retains its jurisdiction to execute decree even though there has been appeal after transfer and it has been affirmed in appeal—Execution cannot be defeated only because transferor Court did not make fresh order of transfer. (Vol 18) 1931 Pat 27 (30) : 9 Pat 829.

[4] Execution transferred—Application under S. 73 can be entertained by original Court. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 113 (113).

[5] Decree-holder obtaining under O. 21, R. 6 (2) (All), copy of decree and certificate may take same to Court to which they are sent or return it to Court of issue — If so returned, Court of issue becomes seised of the matter and is either asked to grant execution itself or to grant a new certificate for transfer. (Vol 23) 1936 All 369 (369).

2. Powers of transferee Court.—[1] Expression "powers in executing such decree" means "powers in carrying out the purpose of executing such decree". (Vol 23) 1936 Rang 184 (186).

[2] General powers of Court to which decree is transferred for execution are same as those of Court that passed the decree. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 652 (657) & (Vol 3) 1916 All 293 (294) & (1911) 10 Ind Cas 538 (538) (Cal) & (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 145 (147) & (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 183 (187) : 43 Mad 786 (Decree for rent transferred to Civil Court—Provisions of Code at once become applicable to execution proceedings.) & (Vol 18) 1931 Nag 170 (171) : 27 Nag L R 386 & (Vol 29) 1942 Oudh 1 (S. 9) : 17 Luck 249 & (Vol 2) 1915 Oudh 142 (143) & (Vol 23) 1936 Sind 11 (13) : 30 Sind L R 290.

[3] Transferee Court cannot execute decree in absence of application under O. 21, Rr. 10 and 11. (Vol 11) 1924 Nag 413 (414).

[4] An order by a Court passing a decree for the transmission of a decree for execution to another Court is not an order for the execution of the decree, nor is an application for the transmission an application for execution under O. 21, R. 11. (1911) 35 Bom 103 (109).

[5] Transferee Court has no jurisdiction to consider validity or propriety of order of transfer. (Vol 24) 1937 Rang 477 (480) : 1937 Rang L R 287 & (1885) 7 All 330 (333) & (1897) 21 Bom 456 (458) & (1886) 10 Bom 65 (68) & (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 143 (144) & (1882) 4 Mad 324 (325).

[6] Transferee Court is bound to consider whether execution application made to it is in time. (Vol 24) 1937 Rang 477 (480) : 1937 Rang L R 287 & (Vol 23) 1936 Rang 271 (273) : 14 Rang 550.

[7] Objection that decree is incapable of execution or that execution is barred by limitation should be tried by transferee Court. (Vol 15) 1928 Rang 40 (42) : 5 Rang 775 & (1896) 23 Cal 39 (44) & (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 213 (216).

[8] Where no order for execution has been made by the Court transmitting the decree, the Court to which the decree is transmitted has power to determine whether the execution is barred. But if before the transmission of the decree the Court passes an order for execution that order is binding on parties until reversed on appeal and the Court to which decree is transferred has no power to determine whether execution is barred by limitation. (1891) 15 Bom 28 (29, 30).

[9] Transferee Court cannot question the jurisdiction of the Court which passed the decree. (1906) 30 Bom 101 (108) & (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 117 (118).

[12] Transferee Court is not competent to grant certificate of non-satisfaction to another Court. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 330 (331).

[13] Transferee Court cannot refuse to execute decree because questions that cannot be decided in execution have been raised by the parties before it. (1887) 11 Bom 528 (532).

[14] Transferee Court cannot go behind decree. (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 183 (187) : 43 Mad 786.

[16] Transferee Court has no power to refuse to execute except under O. 21, R. 26. (Vol 23) 1936 Rang 184 (187).

SECTION 44 — SYNOPSIS.

1. Applicability and scope.
2. Refusal to execute.

1. Applicability and scope. — [1] Decree of Native State is a foreign decree — S. 44 merely alters procedure of its enforcement. (Vol 3) 1916 Bom 307 (308) : 40 Bom 551 & (1891) 15 Bom 216 (219).

[2] Section 44 does not override S. 13. (Vol 18) 1931 All 689 (691) : 53 All 747.

[3] Words 'as if they had been passed by Court in British India' in S. 44 do not control operation of S. 13 (a). (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 551 (551).

[4] Words "may be executed. . . . British India." refer only to mode of execution. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 788 (789).

[5] Per Sadasiva Iyer, J. — A suit does not lie in British India on decrees of Courts of Native States. Such decrees are made executable by notification by Governor-General in Council under S. 44. (1913) 14 Mad L Tim 96 (101, 104). (Sundar Iyer, J. Contra. This case went in Letters Patent appeal the decision whereof is reported in (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 486 : 39 Mad 24.)

[6] A decree of a Court of a Native State does not cease to be the decree of a foreign Court simply because a notification under S. 44 has been issued. (Vol 25) 1935 Cal 511 (517) : 68 Cal 1083.

[7] Notice to judgment-debtor is essential when foreign decrees are sought to be executed in British Indian Courts. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 788 (789).

[8] Transmission of decree for execution to Native State is illegal — Long practice cannot justify such transmission — Ex parte order for transmission can be set aside within the time prescribed by Limitation Act (1908), Art. 182. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 605 (605, 606).

[9] Execution of foreign judgments — S. 21 does not apply. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 788 (789).

[10] The Law of Limitation governing the execution of foreign decrees in British India is the law in force in British India and not the law in force when the decree was passed. (Vol 3) 1916 Bom 200 (202) : 40 Bom 504 & (1887) 14 Cal 570 (571).

[11] An order for transmission of a decree to British Court cannot be treated as an order for execution. (Vol 3) 1916 Bom 200 (202) : 40 Bom 504.

[12] Decree passed in Pudukottai Court can be executed in Burma. (Vol 25) 1938 Rang 352 (352) : 1938 Rang L R 463.

[13] A Judge of a Presidency Small Cause Court has jurisdiction to execute the decree of a foreign Court transmitted to it under S. 44, but the Registrar of the same Court has no power under S. 13 or Section 35, Presidency Small Cause Courts Act to issue process in execution of a foreign decree. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 645 (646, 647).

2. Refusal to execute. — [1] A British Indian Court executing a decree passed by a Court in a Native State, in respect of which a notification pursuant to S. 44 has been issued, is competent to go behind the decree and inquire into the question whether the Court which passed the decree had jurisdiction to do so, as a British Court ought not to execute the decree if passed without jurisdiction. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 486 (487) : 39 Mad 24 (F B) & (Vol 3) 1916 Bom 307 (308) : 40 Bom 551 & (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 955 (956).

[2] Courts may refuse execution — Discretion to refuse is not limited to Ss. 13 and 14. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 788 (790).

[3] An application for execution under S. 44 may be resisted on any of the grounds mentioned in S. 13. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 780 (782) : 39 Mad 733.

[4] British Indian Court has ample jurisdiction to refuse to execute decree passed by Native State Court. (Vol 18) 1931 All 689 (691) : 53 All 747 & (1891) 15 Bom 216 (219).

[5] Judgment-debtor can object to execution on the ground that the decree is not conclusive. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 788 (790).

Execution of decrees passed by Courts in the United Kingdom and other reciprocating territory.

^a[44A. (1) Where a certified copy of a decree of any of the superior Courts of the United Kingdom or any reciprocating territory has been filed in a District Court, the decree may be executed in British India as if it had been passed by the District Court.

(2) Together with the certified copy of the decree shall be filed a certificate from such superior Court stating the extent, if any, to which the decree has been satisfied or adjusted and such certificate shall, for the purposes of proceedings under this section, be conclusive proof of the extent of such satisfaction or adjustment.

(3) The provisions of section 47 shall as from the filing of the certified copy of the decree apply to the proceedings of a District Court executing a decree under this section, and the District Court shall refuse execution of any such decree, if it is shown to the satisfaction of the Court that the decree falls within any of the exceptions specified in clauses (a) to (f) of section 18.

Explanation 1.—"Superior Courts," with reference to the United Kingdom, means the High Court in England, the Court of Session in Scotland, the High Court in Northern Ireland, the Court of Chancery of the County Palatine of Lancaster and the Court of Chancery of the County Palatine of Durham.

Explanation 2.—"Reciprocating territory" means any country, or territory, situated in any part of His Majesty's Dominions ^b[* * *] which the ^c[Central Government] may, from time to time, by notification in the ^d[Official Gazette], declare to be reciprocating territory for the purposes of this section; and "superior Courts," with reference to any such territory, means such Courts as may be specified in the said notification.

Explanation 3.—"Decree," with reference to a superior Court, means any decree or judgment of such Court under which a sum of money is payable, not being a sum payable in respect of taxes or other charges of a like nature or in respect of a fine or other penalty, and

(a) with reference to superior Courts in the United Kingdom, includes judgments given and decrees made in any Court in appeals against such decrees or judgments, but

(b) in no case includes an arbitration award, even if such award is enforceable as a decree or judgment.]

[a] This section was inserted by the Code of Civil Procedure (Amendment) Act, 1937 (8 [VIII] of 1937), Section 2. [b] The words "or in India" repealed by A. O. [c] Substituted by A. O. for "Governor-General in Council." [d] Substituted by A. O. for "Gazette of India."

^a[45. So much of the foregoing sections of this Part as empowers a Court to send a decree for execution to another Court shall be construed as empowering a Court in any Province to send a decree for execution to any Court established or continued by the authority of the Central Government or of the Crown Representative in the territories of any foreign Prince or State to which the Provincial Government has by notification in the Official Gazette declared this section to apply.]

[6] Decree by Native State — Judgment-debtor can object to its validity on ground of want of jurisdiction — He need not ask for review of order in Court of Native State — His remedy is to object to execution in executing Court. (Vol 18) 1931 All 689 (691) : 53 All 747.

[7] If decree is proved to be fraudulently obtained or passed without jurisdiction Court is not bound to execute. (1891) 15 Bom 216 (219).

[1] Agent claiming his commission to the knowledge of the principal — Latter absent and not represented at hearing — Claim awarded — No appeal nor application to set aside decree — Held that principal failed to satisfy that decision was not on merits. (Vol 30) 1943 Cal 42 (44).

Section 45 — Note 1

[1] The Courts contemplated by S. 45 are Courts in the Native Indian States in alliance with the British Government. (Vol 16) 1929 Sind 45(46) : 23 Sind L R 205.

[2] The words "foreign Prince" in S. 45, refer to Courts in Native Indian States in alliance with the British Government. (Vol 29) 1942 Pesh 49 (50).

[3] Khan of Qalat is foreign or Indian Prince within S. 311, Government of India Act. (Vol 29) 1942 Pesh 49 (50).

46. (1) Upon the application of the decree-holder the Court which passed the decree may, Precepts. whenever it thinks fit, issue a precept to any other Court which would be competent to execute such decree to attach any property belonging to the judgment-debtor and specified in the precept.

(2) The Court to which a precept is sent shall proceed to attach the property in the manner prescribed in regard to the attachment of property in execution of a decree :

Provided that no attachment under a precept shall continue for more than two months unless the period of attachment is extended by an order of the Court which passed the decree or unless before the determination of such attachment the decree has been transferred to the Court by which the attachment has been made and the decree-holder has applied for an order for the sale of such property.

Objects and Reasons.

"Clause 46—Precept.—Though a system of execution based on precepts is in the opinion of the Committee open to grave objection, they think the idea may be utilised for the purpose of enabling a decree-holder to obtain an interim attachment where there is ground to apprehend that he may otherwise be deprived of the fruits of his decree. They have for this purpose introduced Clause 46 into the Bill. They think it expedient to fix a time limit for the continuance of this interim attachment, but at the same time they have empowered the Court to extend the period to meet the exigencies of particular cases.

After careful consideration they have come to the conclusion that notwithstanding attachment under a precept, re-attachment on the ordinary application for execution will still be necessary. Though at first sight it may appear a better course to provide that re-attachment shall not be necessary when the issue of a precept is followed by the ordinary application for execution, after careful consideration they have come to the conclusion that it will be safer to require re-attachment, having regard to the agency by which execution is carried into effect."—S. O. R.

"Clause 46.—We think that a decree-holder who has obtained an interim attachment should not be required to re-attach the property if before the determination of the attachment he applies for execution against the property, and we have altered this accordingly. There will now be only one attachment."—S. O. R.

[5] Attachment before judgment—Property in Dutch territory — Mandate, issued to British Consul there, cannot be maintained. (Vol 16) 1929 Sind 45 (46) : 23 Sind L R 205.

SECTION 46 — SYNOPSIS.

1. Attachment by precept.
2. Power of Court.
3. Scope and applicability.

1. Attachment by precept. — [1] An order passed by a Court extending the period of attachment always relates back to the date of the petition and has a retrospective effect even though the order was passed after the expiry of the statutory period of two months. It is enough if the application for extension was put in before the expiry of that period. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 591 (592).

[2] Attachment by precept—Objection to execution based on omission to transfer decree cannot be taken at hearing of appeal. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 591 (591).

[3] Property in custody of Court—Precept received for attachment — Attachment takes effect from date when it is received by Court holding property. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 914 (915).

[4] When money is attached in pursuance of a precept under S. 46, it can be paid over to another decree-holder, attaching it, within the statutory period of sixty days. (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 486 (488). ((Vol 22) 1935 Lah 914, reversed.)

2. Power of Court. — [1] Court to which precept is issued for attachment of property can accept money or security — Neither surety nor judgment-debtor can object to it. (Vol 13) 1926 Lah 433 (433, 434).

[2] Validity of precept cannot be challenged by the Court to which it is sent. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 581 (588).

[3] Decree transferred for execution — Transferee Court is not competent to issue precept. (Vol 13) 1926 Sind 157 (158).

[4] Decree transferred for execution — Parent Court can issue precept even after the transfer. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 581 (588).

[5] Court issuing precept cannot attach property itself. (Vol 20) 1933 All 844 (845).

[6] Concurrent execution in transferee Court is permissible. (Vol 10) 1923 Pat 224 (225) : 2 Pat 828.

3. Scope and applicability. — [1] The object of S. 46 is to attach property of the judgment-debtor in another Court in order to prevent him from alienating or otherwise dealing with it to the detriment of the decree-holder till proper proceedings for sale of the property in pursuance of execution application can be taken. The section does not contemplate an indefinite order stating that an attachment is made permanently. (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 486 (487, 488).

[2] Application under S. 46 is not application for execution. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 249 (250).

[3] Court has under S. 46, power to order attachment before judgment of property outside local limits of its jurisdiction and further it is also competent to entertain application for removal of such attachment. [Vol 18] 1931 Rang 279 (280) : 9 Rang 561.

[4] Defendant's property in foreign territory cannot under this section be attached by Indian Courts. (Vol 18) 1931 Lah 723 (724, 725) : 13 Lah 206.

[5] Court cannot attach debt outside its jurisdiction except through precept — Direct attachment is illegal. (Vol 27) 1940 Rang 34 (36) : 1939 Rang L R 694.

[6] Though the property referred to in O. 38, R. 5 (b) must be property within the Court's jurisdiction, no such restriction is imposed with regard to the property mentioned in clause (a). Property without local limits of the Courts may be attached before judgment. (1911) 10 Ind Cas 794 (795, 796) (Low Bur).

QUESTIONS TO BE DETERMINED BY COURT EXECUTING DECREE.

47. (1) All questions arising between the parties to the suit⁶ in which the decree was passed, or their representatives,¹² and relating to the execution, discharge or satisfaction of the decree,²¹ shall be determined⁴¹ by the Court executing the decree⁴⁰ and not by a separate suit.³⁹

(2) The Court may, subject to any objection as to limitation⁴ or jurisdiction, treat a proceeding under this section as a suit or a suit as a proceeding and may, if necessary, order payment of any additional court-fees.

(3) Where a question arises as to whether any person is or is not the representative of a party, such question shall, for the purposes of this section, be determined by the Court.²⁰

*Explanation.*⁸—For the purposes of this section, a plaintiff whose suit has been dismissed and a defendant against whom a suit has been dismissed, are parties to the suit.

[1882—S. 244; 1877—S. 244. 1861—S. 11; 1859—S. 283. See S. 2, Cl. (2); Ss. 50, 52, 144, 145.]

Objects and Reasons.

"Clause 47.—The Committee have omitted sub-clauses (a) and (b) of Section 244 of the existing Code because they are strongly of opinion that questions regarding the amount of any mesne profits or interest should be determined by the decree and not in execution. If this view is accepted it will be possible to exercise an effective control over the action taken by subordinate Courts in dealing with such matters.

The Committee have re-drafted sub-clause (3) and made it compulsory on the Court to determine questions arising as to representatives of parties. In their opinion it is inexpedient that separate suits should be instituted for the decision of such questions. The delay and expense involved are often very great and result in the needless protraction of litigation.

The Explanation is intended to put an end to a conflict of judicial decisions."—S. O. R.

[7] An application for an attachment under this section cannot be regarded as an application for execution entitling a decree-holder to rateable distribution of assets under S. 73. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 249 (250).

[8] After an attachment under a precept there must be an application for execution in the proper form and it is only upon such application that execution can issue. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 26 (28) : I L R (1939) 2 Cal 370.

[23] Dispute between decree-holder and assignee does not come under S. 47—Separate suit relating to validity of assignment is competent—Assignee of decree realizing decretal amount from judgment-debtor—Decree-holder executing decree—Assignee applying that decree is satisfied—Executing Court dismissing application finding assignment not valid—Suit by judgment-debtor to realize amount paid to assignee, making decree-holder and assignee defendants—S. 47 does not bar assignee from defending his assignment. [2] The tests for determining whether a person is a representative of a party to the suit within S. 47 are first whether any portion of the interest of the decree-holder or judgment-debtor which was originally vested in one of the parties to the suit, has, by act of parties or by operation of law vested in the person who is sought to be treated as a representative and secondly if there has been a devolution of interest whether, so far as such interest is concerned that person is bound by the decree. [6] The auction-purchaser does not purchase the mortgagee's interest also in the execution sale, but gets the mortgagee's right by virtue of the doctrine of subrogation (Vol 13) 1931 All 466 (480): 53 All 1023 (F.B.). (Vol 24) 1937 All 742 (746): I L R (1937) All 921 (F.B.).

[7] In execution of a money-decree obtained by A, B purchased the property of the judgment-debtor. The sale was set aside on an application by the judgment-debtor under O. 21, R. 90 and the purchase money returned to B. On appeal, however, the lower Court's order was reversed, and the sale was confirmed. B having failed to return the purchase money, A filed a suit against B for the recovery of the purchase money. It was held that the suit was barred by this section. (1905) 27 All 155 (157).

[8] R executed five mortgage-deeds hypothecating different portions of his property in favour of M. M brought a suit on foot of all the mortgages and obtained a consolidated decree for sale for the whole amount. After obtaining an order absolute, M applied for sale of the properties in execution. Meantime, G, the plaintiff who had purchased a portion of the properties in execution of a simple money decree against R objected to the sale but his objection was disallowed. He, thereupon, brought suit for the determination of the same question. It was held that suit was barred by this section. (1904) 26 All 447 (461) (F.B.).

[9] Where the decree-holder himself becomes the purchaser in execution of his decree, it has been held that he retains his character and a question arising between him and the judgment-debtor in respect of the purchase is one "between the parties to the suit." [11] Where the representative character of the decree-holder-purchaser comes in question in a distinct proceeding, his character as decree-holder in one execution proceeding can have no effect on his position in another and he will be in the same position as a stranger purchaser. [12] A stranger auction-purchaser can apart from the summary remedy provided by O. 21, Rr. 95 to 102, agitate a dispute as to delivery of possession between him and the judgment-debtor in a separate suit and if he avails himself of the summary remedy, no appeal would lie from an order passed in such proceedings. [14] A contrary view has been taken in the under-mentioned cases holding that upon the judgment-debtor's property being sold and the amount due under the decree being realised the decree is fully executed, discharged and satisfied, and no question relating to the execution, discharge or satisfaction of the decree remains to be considered, and that, whether or not the auction-purchaser obtains possession of the property sold is wholly immaterial for the purposes of the decree. [15] Where the decree-holder purchaser obtains possession under the sale and is thereafter dispossessed again by the judgment-debtor, a suit for possession by the decree-holder is not barred under this section inasmuch as the matter in dispute in such a case arises after the satisfaction of the decree and does not relate to the execution, discharge or satisfaction of the decree. 1. Appellate decree. — [1] The appellate decree being the only decree capable of execution limitation runs from the date of the appellate decree even though a portion only of the original decree was appealed against and an execution application made after 12 years from the original decree but within 12 years from that of the appellate decree is not barred under S. 48. (1911) 21 Mad L Jour 1020 (1021) & (1907) 34 Cal 874 (876, 877) & (Vol 33) 1946 Mad 231 (232) & (Vol 32) 1945 Mad 485 (487) & (1903) 26 Mad 91 (95, 96) (F B) & (Vol 36) 1943 Pat 371 (373).

[2] Following are appellate decrees, for purposes of limitation under S. 48. (Vol 8) 1921 All 134 (134) : 43 All 405. (Order dismissing appeal on the ground that appellant has no right to it.) & (1910) 32 All 136 (137, 138). (Abatement of appeal owing to death of appellant.) & (Vol 25) 1938 Pat 401 (402). (Peremptory order by Appellate Court directing defendants to pay printing costs within certain time and on default appeal to stand dismissed).

[3] The following are not appellate decrees for purposes of limitation under S. 48. (Vol 13) 1926 All 440 (441); 48 All 377. (Dismissal of appeal filed from a non-appellable decree.) & (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 664 (664, 665). (Mere direction by Appellate Court to amend decree.)

[4] Appeal against some defendants — Limitation for execution against others will run only from date of original decree. (Vol 10) 1923 Bom 400 (400)

[5] Where an appeal is dismissed for default the only decree which could be executed is the decree of the original Court and limitation runs from the date of the original decree and not from the date of the order of dismissal for default. (Vol 5) 1918 Oudh 446 (449) & (Vol 30) 1943 Pat 371 (373).

[6] Revision petition presented to High Court against decree of Small Cause Court — Period of twelve years should be computed from date of decree and not from decision of High Court. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 477 (478) & (Vol 30) 1943 Pat 371 (373).

2. Applicability and scope.—[1] Per Phillips J. —The Legislature has laid down a period of twelve years as the maximum period within which a decree can be executed (save in the case of fraud) and presumably this period has been fixed to avoid a prolonged harassing of the judgment-debtor, and consequently, the section must be construed strictly. (Vol 5) 1913 Mad 1187 (1194) : 40 Mad 989 (F B).

[2] Section 48 governs applications for execution of all kinds of decrees except those for injunction. (1910) 32 All 499 (501, 502).

[4] Section 48 has no application to decrees made by the High Court in the exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction. (1893) 20 Cal 551 (557).

[5] Decree passed by Presidency Small Cause Court transferred for execution to Court of Sub-Judge — Section 48 is not applicable. (Vol 19) 1932 Sind 116 (118) : 26 Sind L R 91 * (Vol 29) 1942 Pat 128 (128, 129, 130)

[6] Execution proceedings should not be permitted to drag on for more than 12 years, merely because it suits the convenience of the decree-holder. (1910) 8 Ind Cas 727 (728) (Oudh).

[7] For determining the period of 12 years under this section, reference must be made exclusively to the provisions of the Code. (Vol 30) 1943 Pat 371 (373).

[8] Before the execution of a decree can be held barred under this section it must be shown that the decree was in all parts ripe for execution on the date from which the period of twelve years is to be computed. (1922) 36 Bom 368 (371, 372) * (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 492 (494).

[9] Decree-holder securing possession — Omission to specify shares of judgment-debtors does not make decree unexecutable. (Vol 7) 1920 Nag 40 (42).

[10] Paragraph 11 (3), Sch. 3 controls S. 48. (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 465 (470) * (Vol 6) 1919 All 64 (2) (65) : 42 All 118 * (1910) 13 Oudh Cas 303 (308).

[11] Section 48 of the present Code is more extensive than S. 230 of the old Code and covers compromise decrees. (Vol 2) 1915 Bom 40 (40, 41) : 39 Bom 256.

[12] Section 48, Civil P. C., which does not prescribe any period of limitation does not apply to the warrant under S. 386 (1) (b), Criminal P. C. (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 158 (159) : I L R (1941) Bom 147 : 42 Cri L Jour 534.

2a. "At a certain date." — [1] Where a decree does not fix a definite date the question whether a sum is payable by a certain date should be ascertained by construction of the decree and if so ascertainable time runs from that date (1891) 14 Mad 396 (398) * (1889) 1889 Pun Re No. 159, p. 559 (561).

[2] An order merely directing a compromise petition for payments by instalments to be filed is not an order directing payments to be made at a particular date. (Vol 19) 1932 All 273 (282) : 54 All 573 (F B) * (1889) 16 Cal 16 (18, 19).

3. Computation of period of limitation. — [1] This section does not contemplate a deduction of any particular period from the prescribed period of 12 years. The period during which execution proceedings have been stayed cannot be deducted from the period of 12 years. (Vol 7) 1920 Nag 68 (69).

[2] The period during which the estate is in charge of Government under the Act, is excluded for limitation to file an application for execution. (1911) 38 Cal 288 (292).

[3] The time spent in obtaining the conciliator's certificate under S. 48, Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act can be deducted in computing the period of limitation under S. 48, Civil P. C. (Vol 5) 1918 Bom 187 (188) : 42 Bom 367.

[4] The provisions of S. 45, Madras Court of Wards Act allowing deduction of time during which the estate was under the Court's management will apply only when decrees have been transferred to the Collector for execution, and an amendment of it in execution cannot be permitted to revive a barred claim. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 449 (451).

[5] The decree in question was obtained against the appellant on 17th July 1920. Various applications for execution were put in and the last was made on 28th April 1933. The judgment-debtor raised various objections. The entire property of his was under the control of the Collector from 27th April 1926 to 18th November 1929 in execution of the decree held by the bank. Held that this period should be excluded from the period of 12 years prescribed by S. 48, Civil P. C. (1937) 1937 Oudh W N 1116 (1117).

[6] A decree-holder cannot by binding himself not to execute a decree for a certain period, add to the time which the law allows him to execute it. (1912) 15 Cal L Jour 678 (682).

[7] Application for sale of non-hypothecated properties made more than 12 years from date of decree providing for payment of mortgage money is barred. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 449 (449).

[8] Validity of the original presentation of an application for execution of a decree is not affected by a subsequent order of return for correction of defects unless the defects to be corrected are such as to prejudice the judgment-debtor substantially. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 1042 (1043).

[9] An application to execute an order awarding mesne profits, made on the last day of the 12th year after the order but which came for hearing after 12 years, is not barred. Also an application presented in time but corrected at the Court's direction and represented after time, is not defective in any way and is not barred. (1910) 7 Mad L Tim 353 (353, 354).

[10] Solenama instalment decree passed in a mortgage suit in 1909 authorizing decree-holder to realize whole amount in case of default — Final decree passed in 1911 — Personal decree passed under O. 34, R. 6 in 1920 — Execution application in 1925 — Application was held to be time barred and personal decree not necessary in view of the solenama decree. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 668 (669).

[11] The fact that a previous execution petition was held not barred by S. 48, does not for ever remove the operation of S. 48, out of the way of future petitions. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 842 (844).

[12] No fraud or force preventing consideration of application — There is no suspension of execution. (Vol 4) 1917 Cal 460 (461).

[13] An order postponing execution of a decree or ordering payment by instalments under S. 210 (old Code) is virtually an order amending the decree and an application for execution made within 12 years of the order, is not barred. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 188 (188).

4. Execution application. — [1] A decree was passed on 7th August 1875. It was kept alive until 26th July 1887. On that date application for certificate was made to the Court which passed the decree to allow execution to be taken out in another Civil Court. The decree was sent for execution but execution had been refused : Held that the application was merely to transfer the decree for execution and not an application for the execution of the decree itself. (1889) 16 Cal 744 (745, 746).

[2] On 19th December 1881 the respondents obtained a decree against the appellant. On 11th December 1893 the respondents applied for transmission of certified copy of the decree to the District Judge as no property was within the jurisdiction of the High Court. Notice was issued and the certified copy was transmitted to District Court. The appellant filed objection that the execution of the decree was barred. Held that the application of 11th December 1893 was not an application for execution and order of 19th December 1893 was not an order for execution. There was no necessity for issue of a notice. The first application for execution of the decree was not within time. The execution of the decree was barred. (1895) 22 Cal 921 (923, 924).

[3] When application has not been properly made within the 12 years' period provided in S. 48 no amendment should be allowed in execution petition which would have the effect of depriving the judgment-debtor of putting forward the plea of limitation. But in special circumstances the Court has discretion to order such amendments in order to enable the decree-holder to proceed further with execution. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 19 (20).

[4] Application for amendment of previous application for execution made after 12 years is not necessarily ultra vires but whether the amendment is to be allowed or not will depend upon the circumstances of each case. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 1154 (1155).

[5] Execution application filed bona fide against wrong legal representative within time — Amendment allowed but after 12 years time — Amendment takes effect from date of original representation. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 161 (163).

[6] Complete execution application filed within 12 years — Application for execution against other properties beyond 12 years cannot be allowed as one for amendment of the first. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 347 (347, 348).

[7] Execution application filed within twelve years from date of decree — Notice to party representing one defendant served after expiry of twelve years — Application held within time. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 113 (113).

5. Finality of decision. — [1] Court has jurisdiction to decide the question of limitation — Decision whether right or wrong stands unless set aside in appeal or revision — Till then it cannot be attacked in another proceeding. (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 282 (283) : 61 Cal 234.

[2] Application for attachment allowed to be decided ex parte even after notice — Plea of twelve years' bar cannot be allowed in appeal — No review also can be allowed. (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 826 (826).

6. Fraud or force. — [1] The proviso to S. 48 is intended to prevent the twelve years' rule of limitation being an inducement to judgment-debtors to evade execution by fraud or force with a view to obtaining the benefit of the twelve years' rule. (1899) 22 Mad 320 (323) (F B).

[2] The second proviso of S. 48 has the effect of extending the period of limitation to 12 years from the time when the decree-holder was, by fraud of the judgment-debtor, prevented from executing his decree. (1912) 34 All 20 (21)* (1910) 8 Ind Cas 805 (805) (Mad).

[3] In order to succeed under S. 48 (2) the decree-holder must prove that he was prevented from executing the decree by reason of fraud or force on the part of judgment-debtor. If he merely fails to execute when he can, he cannot be protected by S. 48 (2). (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 597 (599) * (1912) 15 Cal L Jour 678 (680).

[But see (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 8 (9) : 58 Mad 311. (By mere fact of fraud being committed by judgment-debtor, decree-holder can claim exemption under S. 48 (2) (a)—He need not show that he was prevented from executing decree by such fraud.)]

[5] Term "fraud" in S. 48 (2) should be liberally construed. (Vol 33) 1946 Mad 172 (173).

[6] Any action of the judgment-debtor which puts off the decree-holder from executing his decree at once should be taken as fraud, if the result thereof is to bar execution of the decree under the 12 years' rule. (Vol 18) 1931 All 31 (33)* (Vol 22) 1935 Pat 380 (382) : 14 Pat 816.

[7] Fraud must be of nature which decree-holder is not able to discover and which helps judgment-debtor in gaining time. (Vol 18) 1931 All 134 (134) : 53 All 419* (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 843 (845). (Dishonest circumvention is fraud—But mere raising of objections so as to prolong execution proceedings beyond the period of limitation is not necessarily fraud.)* (Vol 14) 1927 All 668 (669). (Fraud includes also circumvention.)

[8] In the following cases the conduct of the judgment-debtor has been held to amount to fraud within the meaning of the section. (Vol 9) 1922 All 145 (146) : 44 All 319. (Delaying of execution due to frivolous objections by debtor is fraud.)* (1912) 9 All L Jour 17 (18, 19). (Judgment-debtor successfully evading arrest.)* (1909) 6 All L Jour 401 (402). (Judgment-debtor either keeping out of the way or taking false objections to evade payments.)* (1885) 9 Bom 318 (319). (Appellant evading payment of money justly due to decree-holder by many stratagems and raising objections.)* (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 178 (179). (Fraudulent transfer.)* (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 836 (837). (Evasion by judgment-debtor of arrest when able to pay is fraud.)* (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 492 (492, 493). (Evasion of arrest in execution.)* (1913) 24 Mad L Jour 270 (270). (An improper means resorted to in order to prevent execution could amount to fraud.)* (1912) 35 Mad 670 (676, 677). (A deliberate evasion of the process of Court to defeat execution of decree amounts to fraud.)* (1899) 22 Mad 320 (322) (FB). (Locking up the house when judgment-debtor knew that warrant for attachment of his moveable property had been issued.)* (1883) 6 Mad 365 (367). (Delay caused by evading service of warrant.)* (Vol 12) 1925 Nag 82 (82, 88) : 22 Nag L R 67. (Locking house, evading arrest or payment or fictitious transfer).

[9] Keeping doors closed is per se no evidence of fraud, on the part of a lady. Deliberate attempt to do so against executing officer is necessary. (Vol 4) 1917 Oudh 159 (160).

[10] An unsuccessful appeal by judgment-debtor from execution proceedings does not of itself constitute fraud or frivolous or vexatious evasion or the execution of decree. (1910) 1910 Pun L R No. 20, p. 49 (50) : 1910 Pun Re No. 17.

[11] Mere raising of objections as to prolong execution proceedings beyond the period of limitation is not necessarily fraud. (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 843 (845) * (1912) 15 Cal L Jour 678 (680). (Conduct of the judgment-debtor cannot be deemed fraudulent simply because his objection to the validity of sale of his property in execution ultimately proves unsuccessful.)

[12] A decree-holder cannot take advantage of his judgment-debtor's fraud or force if he has ample time to apply afresh after the conclusion of the fraud or force. (1909) 1909 Pun L R No. 75, p. 273 (275, 276).

[But see (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 197 (198). (A decree-holder applying for execution after 12 years from the date of the decree is not restricted to proving that the fraud or force occurred within three years of the application. He is entitled to the benefit of the proviso even if the fraud or force was long anterior in date.)]

[13] Fraud of the judgment-debtor need not be continuous. Existence of fraud, and prevention by the debtor, of execution within the period of 12 years is sufficient. (1911) 14 Oudh Cas 238 (243).

[14] An application was made by the decree-holder for the execution of the decree more than 12 years after decree. Execution was prevented by the heirs of the original judgment-debtor. Held that the decree-holder was not barred in respect of the application. (1882) 4 Mad 292 (294).

[16] When the execution of decree is prevented by the fraud of one of several judgment-debtors, extension of time will be allowed only against such judgment-debtor and not against others who are not guilty of fraud. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 1 (2) : 38 Mad 419 (F B) * (Vol 18) 1981 Mad 381 (383) * (Vol 17) 1930 Sind 218 (219).

[17] Claim by third person preferred and allowed — Decree-holder filing a suit for declaration and getting a decree — Fresh application for execution — Decree-holder will be deemed to be prevented from proceeding with execution under S. 48 (2) (a). (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 532 (533).

[18] Plea of fraud can be raised by decree-holder for first time even in appeal arising out of execution proceedings. (Vol 33) 1946 Mad 172 (173).

[19] Continuing absence from jurisdiction being continuing fraud gives new starting point from the last day that the judgment-debtor was present. (Vol 12) 1925 Nag 82 (90) : 22 Nag L R 67.

7. Fresh application. — [1] Section 48 applies only to fresh application for execution and not to applications for revival of previous execution. (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 43 (43, 44).

[2] Per Rachhpal Singh, J. — When an application is made by a decree-holder after the expiry of the period of 12 years from date of the decree, the Court has to decide whether it is a fresh application or one in continuation of an application which has been lying dormant. The test is to see, whether the character of the fresh application is different from that of the former application; for instance, where the relief claimed in the second application is against properties, or persons, different from those mentioned in the former application, the second application will be "fresh application". (Vol 21) 1934 All 482 (489) (F B).

[3] The question whether an application is a fresh application or is merely one to revive the previous execution proceedings has always to be decided upon the circumstances of each case and in each case the substance of the matter must prevail over the form of the application. (Vol 27) 1940 All 270 (272) : I L R (1940) All 377 (F B) * (Vol 26) 1939 P C 80 (84) : 66 Ind App 84 : 14 Luck 192 : I L R (1939) Kar P C 136 (P C).

[4] Application within 12 years of specified date found defective — Amendment of the application after 12 years should not be allowed if it has the effect of substantially altering the character of execution proceedings. (Vol 29) 1942 All 442 (443).

[5] Where the defect of the application is a fundamental one, amendment of the application to make it operative from the date of the original application ought not to be allowed. (1890) 17 Cal 631 (636 to 638, 641).

[6] An application to amend a previous application though not in the prescribed form but which when read with previous application, supplies the necessary information, should be treated as a fresh application to allow execution to proceed. (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 261 (262).

[7] Following are "fresh applications" for purposes of S. 48 :—

(i) Where character of subsequent application is different from that of the previous one. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 255 (257) : I L R (1942) 1 Cal 245.

(ii) Application to proceed against properties other than those mentioned in first application. (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 635 (635, 636) * (Vol 32) 1945 Nag 239 (239, 240) : I L R (1945) Nag 555 * (Vol 18) 1931 All 134 (134) : 53 All 419. (The fact that execution proceedings started by the previous application are pending does not save limitation.)

(iii) Application for attachment of property under the jurisdiction of a different Court than that in which the decree is passed. (1911) 35 Bom 103 (109).

(iv) Application to proceed against person other than one against whom it was originally sought to execute decree. (Vol 28) 1941 Pat 635 (636).

(v) Application to correct misdescription is one for continuation but to substitute property for one mentioned in application is fresh application. (Vol 30) 1943 Pat 127 (130, 131):21 Pat 835* (Vol 32) 1945 Oudh 84 (87).

(vi) First application asked for arrest of judgment-debtor and sale of his holding — After it was barred another application for attachment of moveables filed — Application held was not continuation of previous application. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 162 (163).

[8] The following are not "fresh applications" :—

(i) Application to continue proceedings against legal representatives of judgment-debtor. (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 425 (2) (427) * (Vol 33) 1946 Cal 51 (52, 53) * (Vol 18) 1931 Mad 303 (308).

(ii) Application for restoration of an execution petition, presented within 12 years of passing the decree, but struck off on account of insufficient process-fee. (1911) 33 All 517 (519, 522) (F B).

(iii) Application for re-sale of property not found to be incapable of being sold. (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 43 (43, 44).

(iv) Court ordering sale on execution application by decree-holder — On adjustment between judgment-debtor and decree-holder latter applying for postponement of auction sale — Fact that case was struck off does not show that execution application came to an end — Nor does tabular form of subsequent application suggest that it is fresh. (Vol 27) 1940 All 270 (272) : I L R (1940) All 377 (F B).

(v) Application for sale of properties, not sold in previous execution proceedings is not fresh. (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 92 (93) : I L R (1937) Nag 522.

(vi) Decree-holder undertaking to give further list of properties if that in the first application is not sufficient — No order by Court regarding that undertaking — Decree not completely satisfied by sale — Application including further list is not a fresh application. (Vol 21) 1934 All 481 (486) : 56 All 791 (F B).

(vii) A supplemental list of properties sought to be attached and sold should be taken as part of the original application. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 73 (74).

[9] Fresh execution petition beyond the period of limitation — Special circumstances must be shown to circumvent salutary provisions of S. 48. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 623 (624).

8. Insolvency Act and S. 48. — [1] Section 48 does not apply to insolvency proceedings. (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 163 (167) : 47 Mad 120.

[2] Execution of decree — Limitation is extended by S. 78 (2), Provincial Insolvency Act, which controls the limitation period provided by any statute — Benefit of S. 78, Provincial Insolvency Act, is not exhausted once it is made use of. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 270 (271, 272, 273) : I L R (1939) Mad 611.

[3] Decree-holder prevented from applying for execution due to special provisions of law should be protected. S. 78 (2), Provincial Insolvency Act, controls S. 48, Civil P. C. (Vol 19) 1932 Oudh 69 (70) : 7 Luck 397.

[4] Stay of execution under S. 50, Provincial Insolvency Act extends period of limitation. (1912) 16 Ind Cas 541 (541, 542) (Cal).

9. Limitation Act and S. 48. — [1] It is the Limitation Act, and not S. 48, Civil P. C., that prescribes a period of limitation. S. 48 only fixes an outside period after which execution of a decree, though not barred by

Limitation Act, cannot be granted. (Vol 19) 1932 Oudh 220 (291) * (Vol 5) 1918 All 216 (218) : 40 All 198.

[4] Section 29, Limitation Act, does not include Civil Procedure Code in its scope—Ss. 19 and 20, Limitation Act, do not apply to S. 48, Civil P. C. (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 465 (471) * (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 485 (486) : 1 Pat L Jour 214.

[5] Section 230 of the Code of 1877 (now S. 48) cannot affect period allowed by Art. 180, Limitation Act of 1877 (now Art. 183). (1884) 7 Mad 540 (544).

[6] The phrase "period of limitation" can be used in two senses (1) a strict and (2) a loose sense. In the strict sense it means such a period that a proceeding to which it is sought to be applied will be in time if filed within the period, and beyond time, if filed after. In the loose sense it means a secondary period which applies a further check to an application or suit which is found not wanting when the strict period is applied. S. 48 falls into the latter category. (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 268 (270) : 45 Mad 785.

[7] The words "provided for" in Art. 182 mean that where execution is barred by S. 48, Civil P. C., execution cannot be allowed under Art. 182, Limitation Act. (Vol 19) 1932 All 351 (352) : 54 All 622 * (Vol 2) 1915 Bom 40 (40, 41) : 39 Bom 256 * (Vol 26) 1939 Pat 607 (609, 610) : 18 Pat 395.

[8] Article 181, Limitation Act, should be read as application for which no period of limitation for the purpose of dismissal is provided elsewhere in the schedule or by S. 48. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 995 (998) : 54 Mad 306.

[9] Section 48 does not apply to revival of antecedent application held in suspense by reason of some bar—Such application is governed by Limitation Act (1908), Art. 181. (Vol 5) 1918 Pat 296 (2) (297) : 3 Pat L Jour 103.

10. Recurring periods. — [1] Execution proceedings — Compromise — Decretal amount to be paid by instalments — On default of any instalment, whole amount to become recoverable — Limitation begins to run from the default. (Vol 32) 1945 Cal 154 (155) * (Vol 27) 1940 All 423 (424) : 1 L R (1940) All 536 * (Vol 11) 1924 All 263 (264) : 46 All 73 * (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 322 (323). (Instalment decree — Whole decretal amount to fall due on default — No option given to decree-holder — Limitation in respect of whole amount runs from date of first default.) * (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 159 (160) (Do.) * (Vol 30) 1943 Pat 33 (34).

[2] Decree providing payment by instalments at specified times — In case of default of any instalment while decretal amount becoming due — No instalment paid—Section 48 does not bar execution of decree with regard to instalments not barred by limitation as the decree-holder has a right to waive default. (Vol 19) 1932 Lah 564 (565).

[3] Instalment decree giving option to decree-holder to execute full decree on default — He may not exercise this option. (Vol 23) 1936 Lah 159 (160, 161).

[4] Decree repayable within twelve years — Interest to be paid every year—On default of two years' interest whole property liable to be sold or else only after twelve years — After first default decree-holder applying for sale — Application not pursued — Another application after nine years of default and after twelve years of the decree filed — Second application held time barred as decree-holder had exercised his option on the first default and could not therefore fall back upon the former clause giving him twelve years' time. (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 263 (263).

[5] Decree directing recovery of money from A on failure to recover from B — Execution against A is barred after twelve years from date of decree. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 20 (22) : 48 Mad 846. [(Vol 5) 1918 Mad 1187 : 40 Mad 989 (FB) considered as overruled by (Vol 4) 1917 P C 85.]

[6] Instalment decree ceasing to be so on default — Court cannot restore decree to original status at the request of the judgment-debtor. (Vol 12) 1925 Bom 326 (326).

11. Retrospective effect. — [1] Section 48 has a retrospective effect, and governs an application for the execution of a decree passed before the Code came into force. Hence such an application, if presented twelve years after the date of the decree, is barred. (Vol 8) 1921 Bom 40 (43) : 45 Bom 365. (Mortgage-decree.) * (Vol 13) 1926 All 93 (94) : 48 All 121. 12. Revival of previous application. — [1] Section 48, Civil P. C., has no application to the case of a revival of an antecedent application for execution which has been in suspense by reason of some bar or has been stayed pending the determination of a subsequent litigation. (Vol 5) 1918 Pat 296 (297) : 3 Pat L Jour 103.

[2] Execution ordered—Interruption not attributable to decree-holder — After interruption removed decree-holder re-applying for execution — Latter application is to revive former execution proceedings. (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 492 (494) * (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 532 (533) * (Vol 4) 1917 Oudh 69 (71).

[3] Execution application is pending until validly disposed of—Subsequent application for the same prayer is continuation of the previous one, and not being a "fresh application" does not attract the provisions of S. 48. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 407 (411) * (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 432 (433, 435).

[4] Two conditions must be satisfied, so that subsequent application may be regarded as in continuation of the previous one by the decree-holder, namely, (1) the previous one should have been dismissed for no fault of the decree-holder; and (2) the latter application should be similar in scope and character to the previous one. A fair test to gauge the similarity of scope and character between the two, would be to see if the decree-holder could have got the relief in the previous application, which he claims in the subsequent one, supposing the previous application had not been struck off. (Vol 11) 1924 Pat 367 (369, 370).

[5] The following applications were held to have the effect of continuing the previous application:

[a] Execution application filed within limitation but execution arrested without fault of decree-holder beyond period of limitation—Application to continue the execution made beyond limitation — Latter application is merely ancillary to first and is not barred. (Vol 13) 1926 All 331 (331, 332).

[b] Application twelve years after passing of decree but within three years of the last one. (1913) 21 Ind Cas 923 (924, 925) (Cal).

[h] An application for sale is nothing but a continuance of the prior application for attachment. (1910) 8 Mad L Tim 367 (367).

[i] Execution suspended as judgment-debtor compromised by agreeing to pay yearly instalments. An application by decree-holder on failure of debtor to pay instalment. (Vol 27) 1940 Oudh 26 (26).

[6] Following applications were held, not having the effect of continuing the previous one:

[i] Decree for arrears of rent in 1896—Execution application in 1908 for attachment and sale—Sale, subsequently, set aside — Subsequent applications to convert decree into money decree — Applications in 1917 and 1918 to attach personal property of judgment-debtor and purchaser of property respectively—Last application in 1922 for attachment was, held, not to be in continuation of the application of 1908. 13. Starting point.—[1] In the absence of anything postponing the period of execution, the period of twelve years is to be computed from the date of the decree. (1900) 2 Bom L R 199 (200).

[2] In the case of a preliminary and final decree in a suit, for the purpose of this section the two are to be taken as a single decree and the date from which time is computed is the date of the final decree. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 482 (483) * (Vol 11) 1924 Cal 131 (132) : 50 Cal 743.

[5] Limitation under S. 48 runs from date of original decree and not from date of amendment — Execution after 12 years from date of original decree is barred, amendment or no amendment. [3] Application for execution against deceased judgment-debtor pending.—Fresh application for execution against legal representatives is not necessary — Execution can be continued by substituting name of legal representative in place of deceased judgment-debtor. (Vol 23) 1936 Bom 456 (457). * (1910) 34 Bom 142 (151).

[4] The order permitting execution against the legal representatives can be made ex parte. (Vol 15) 1928 Rang 40 (42) : 5 Rang 775.

[5] The legal representative is not to be proceeded against in execution till he has been brought on record. (1912) 23 Mad L Jour 287 (287).

[6] An application under this section is necessary only when further execution is needed or asked for. A separate application merely for substituting a legal representative is not necessary. (Vol 23) 1936 Oudh 152 (153) : 11 Luck 500 * (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 693 (693) (Execution not necessary for twenty years — Decree-holder is not barred.)

[7] The application to execute the decree against the legal representatives should be made to the Court which passed the decree. (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 239 (241) * (1894) 18 Bom 224 (226) (Application for execution against legal representative lies to Court which passed the decree, though notice to party may be issued by transferee Court.) * (Vol 21) 1934 Bom 215 (216) * (1912) 23 Mad L Jour 287 (287) * (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 411 (412).

[8] The application for substitution of legal representative should be made to the Court which passed the decree. But if it is made to the transferee Court the defect might be waived and the acquiescing party cannot challenge the legality of the proceedings. [9] Question as to whether application to add legal representative of a deceased judgment-debtor should be made to the Court passing decree or to Court which is executing decree is one of procedure and not one of jurisdiction — In case of non-compliance with procedure defect might be waived. (Vol 25) 1938 Rang 385 (387) : 1938 Rang L R 355.

8. Execution against wrong legal representative or without legal representative. — [1] The fact that one of the parties in appeal to the Privy Council had died before the appeal was heard but his legal representatives had not been brought on record, does not make the Privy Council decree a nullity. (Vol 19) 1932 Pat 261 (262) : 11 Pat 445.

10. Receiver.

1. Appeal.—[1] Finding as to judgment-debtor's inability to pay is one of fact and is conclusive in second appeal. (Vol 29) 1942 Pat. 242 (243).

[2] Order of committal to jail passed without jurisdiction—Objection to its legality not taken—No appeal lies as no question has arisen between the parties for determination within S. 47. (Vol 16) 1929 Rang 161 (161) : 7 Rang 110.

2. Applicability and scope. — [1] Decree-holder can take any or all forms of execution. (Vol 25) 1938 Pat 130 (131) : 17 Pat 248.

[2] "Subject to such conditions and limitations as may be prescribed"—Effect of these words—Madras Civil Rules of Practice, R. 178, which prohibits the sale of a decree in execution of another decree, is not ultra vires

as being inconsistent with the Code. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 692 (694) : 58 Mad 285.

[3] Tenant's rights under C. P. Tenancy Act—Effect of Ss. 46 (2) and 70 (2) of the Act prohibiting sale in execution of such rights — Their attachment for any other purpose, e. g., putting the fields in charge of receiver under S. 51, Civil P. C. is not prohibited. (Vol 4) 1917 Nag 197 (197) : 13 Nag L R 250.

[4] Nature of decree-holder's right and how it arises, explained — Civil Procedure Code does not create that right but simply gives procedure in execution and ways in which execution may be ordered. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 587 (592).

[5] Decree transferred to Collector who proposed leasing—Non-agriculturist decree-holder refusing to take lease but asking that the land should be mortgaged to him which could not be done as the judgment-debtor was an agriculturist—Court thereupon filing the proceedings — Held, this was not correct and that all lawful methods of satisfying decree must be tried before Court files proceedings. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 195 (195).

[6] There is distinction between execution of decree directing delivery of specific property and execution of decree for sale under simple mortgage and money decree — Distinction explained. (Vol 18) 1931 Pat 241 (244) : 10 Pat 670 (FB).

3. Arrest and detention. — [1] Execution by arrest of judgment-debtor—Decree-holder not debarred by S. 51 proviso—Court still has discretion to order arrest or refuse to do so. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 191 (191, 192).

[2] Execution of money decree — Court cannot in absence of special circumstances insist that decree-holder should proceed only against property—But under certain circumstances, Court must not allow decree-holder to have process for arrest and detention of judgment-debtors. (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 127 (129).

[3] Court cannot choose mode of execution and cannot direct decree-holder to proceed against property when he wants to proceed against person. (Vol 23) 1936 Pesh 46 (47).

[4] Ordinarily if the failure of the decree-holder to recover the decretal amount is due to the obstruction and bad faith of judgment-debtor, there would be very strong ground for ordering arrest. But when there is no such bad faith on the part of the judgment-debtor and it cannot be reasonably inferred that he is deliberately keeping the decree-holder out of his money, Court should allow reasonable period to the former to pay the decretal amount and if he fails in this, due to negligence, the question of his arrest should be re-considered. (1911) 1911 Pun L R No. 246, p. 912 (913, 915).

[5] Burden to prove circumstances justifying execution by arrest and detention is on decree-holder. (Vol 27) 1940 All 494 (496).

[6] Arrest of judgment-debtor — Creditor should bring his case within S. 51. (Vol 29) 1942 Pat 242 (242).

[7] Decree-holder asking for arrest of judgment-debtor in execution of decree cannot be compelled to accept payment in instalments. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 220 (221).

[8] Application for execution by arrest of judgment-debtor—Judgment-debtor cannot object on ground that decree-holder should first proceed against property and be permitted to proceed against person only on failure of his remedy against property. (Vol 26) 1939 Pat 380 (381) : 18 Pat 366.

[9] Judgment-debtor aged sixty—Execution delayed by judgment-debtor's appeal—No evidence of bad health —Judgment-debtor is not entitled to any consideration. (Vol 29) 1942 Sind 19 (21) : I L R (1941) Kar 479.

4. Attachment and sale or sale without attachment. — [1] Sale without attachment is not void. (Vol 10) 1923 Pat 45 (47) : 2 Pat 207 & (Vol 26) 1939 Bom 277 (278) : I L R (1939) Bom 420.

[2] Mortgage-decree directing sale of property — No attachment is necessary. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 90 (91) : 10 Lah 543.

[3] Property exempt from sale may yet not be exempt from attachment. (Vol 30) 1943 Lah 166 (167).

5. Decree-holder's application.—[1] It is only the holder of a decree that can apply for execution, and in the case of a compromise decree granting allowances to parties to a suit and also to a stranger the latter, being no party to a suit or decree cannot apply for execution, though he can sue separately for his claim. (Vol 4) 1917 Oudh 182 (184) (17 Mad 343 ; 11 Bom 153 dist.)

[2] An application under S. 51, Civil P. C., may be inferred from an act of the Court. (Vol 7) 1920 Lah 443 (446).

6. Explanation.—[1] Where property which is exempt from attachment yields an income which is not exempt from attachment such income may be taken into consideration in estimating the judgment-debtor's capacity to pay. (Vol 30) 1943 Lah 166 (167).

[2] Explanation applies only to proviso (b) — It is not concerned with proviso (a). (Vol 27) 1940 Pesh 33 (33, 34).

[3] Amount of pension after it is paid over to pensioner ceases to be exempt from attachment under S. 11, Pensions Act — Amount of pension payable month to month to pensioner cannot be left out of account for purposes of S. 51 (b) and Explanation. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 263 (264).

[4] Judgment-debtor being agriculturist — Court while determining question of his capacity to pay decretal amount cannot take into account his agricultural lands and residential houses. (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 299 (299, 300).

7. Limitations prescribed. — [1] The word "prescribed" in S. 51 means prescribed by the rules of Sch. I, Civil P. C. (Vol 29) 1942 Pat 455 (456).

[2] All modes mentioned in this section are not open in every case. (Vol 23) 1936 All 495 (502) : 58 All 949 (F B).

8. Powers of the Court. — [1] Civil Court is not empowered to execute decree by granting lease of judgment-debtor's property either under S. 51 or under S. 72, more so when judgment-debtors are protected from sale of their property by Bundelkhand Land Alienation Act. (Vol 25) 1938 All 290 (291, 292) : I L R (1938) All 528 (Vol 19) 1932 All 571 overruled & (Vol 24) 1937 All 699 (700, 701).

[2] Where a Court decrees a suit for rent it should pass a decree for rent simply, without any limitation on the right of the landlord to execute a decree in any legal method open to him. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 186 (186).

[3] Power of temporary alienation derived from power of sale—Power to sell taken away from Court — Power of temporary alienation also goes away. (Vol 28) 1936 Pesh 90 (91, 92).

[4] Judgment-debtor in possession of movable property sufficient to satisfy decree but resisting execution for about ten years — Executing Court can properly mortgage his land for decretal amount. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 77 (78).

9. Proviso to section. — [1] Contumacious conduct on part of judgment-debtor is necessary for arrest. (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 692 (693).

[6] Decree for payment of arrears of alimony under S. 37, Divorce Act, is decree for payment of money within the meaning of S. 51, Proviso — Fact that on arrest in execution of decree for alimony judgment-debtor cannot apply in insolvency under S. 55 (3), does not affect nature of decree. (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 17 (18).

10. Receiver. — [1] Receiver can be appointed whenever it is just and convenient. (Vol 19) 1932 Mad 193 (195).

[2] When relief for appointment of receiver is asked in execution proceedings, justice and convenience of relief must be shown. (Vol 18) 1931 Oudh 307 (308): 7 Luck 203.

[3] Reasonable grounds must be made out for appointment of receiver — There must be danger of waste or destruction of property. (Vol 20) 1933 Sind 231 (232).

(Vol 26) 1939 Oudh 116 (117): 14 Luck 538.

[10] Where inam fields of judgment-debtor were granted to him for maintenance and as remuneration for services rendered and as such were non-alienable and non-attachable, it was held receiver can be appointed to realise income from them to satisfy decree-holder's claim. But judgment-debtor can apply for allowance to maintain his family. (Vol 23) 1936 Nag 288 (288, 289): I L R (1937) Nag 534.

[23] Section 51 should be read with O. 40, R. 1 — Occupancy holding subject to prohibition of attachment and sale in execution contained in S. 18, Colonization of Government Lands (Punjab) Act — Order appointing receiver of such property for seven years under S. 51 (d) is proper. (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 738 (739).

(Vol 17) 1930 Cal 502 (504, 505): 59 Cal 964.

[30] Section 51 entitles the Court to appoint a receiver of rents of the estate of a deceased person for the purpose of liquidating debts against that estate, and there is nothing in the Code to limit such appointment to a case where the debt to be discharged was a debt against the heirs and not against the deceased holder of the estate. (Vol 6) 1919 Oudh 326 (328): 22 Oudh Cas 194.

Enforcement of decree against legal representative.

(Vol 4) 1917 Mad 418 (419).

[4] The fact that the plea of plene administravi can be taken in execution proceedings when events justifying such a plea may have occurred subsequent to the decree is no reason why it cannot be taken in the suit as a reason for no decree being passed. (Vol 14) 1927 All 459 (462) : 49 All 645.

Objects and Reasons.

"Clause 53. — Has been added by the Committee in order to set at rest a question on which the High Courts are divided in opinion. It is true that where a son or grandson takes any ancestral property by survivorship he is bound to pay out of such property all debts of his ancestor not incurred for immoral or illegal purposes; but whether the creditor can follow the property in the hands of the son or grandson in execution is a debatable point under the Code. The question is merely one of procedure, and the Committee have come to the conclusion that any controversy between the parties with regard to the liability of the son or grandson to pay the debts of his ancestor should be determined in execution, it being open to them to raise any objection or defence in such proceedings which they might have raised in a separate suit instituted by the creditor, the clause in question not imposing upon them a greater liability than that imposed by the Hindu law."—S. O. R.

SECTION 53 — SYNOPSIS.

1. Applicability and scope.
2. Decree.
3. Legal representative.
4. "Property of the deceased."
5. "Property in the hands of a son or other descendant."
6. "Which is liable under Hindu law."

1. Applicability and scope. — [1] Section 53 enacts a rule of procedure only and does not affect the son's liability for father's debts under Hindu law. (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh 510 (515) : 11 Luck 449* (Vol 21) 1934 All 590 (593) (F B).

[4] Section 53 does not negative claim of son to be legal representative under S. 2 (11) — Section 53 treats the property which has passed to the son as surviving coparcener as being property of deceased come to the hands of the son. (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 23 (24) : I L R (1941) Bom 177 (F B).

[4] The expression "property in the hands of a son" in S. 53, does not necessarily signify tangible property exclusively possessed by son without any co-sharer or co-parceners; it means and includes the undivided share of the son in the joint family property held by him along with other co-parceners. (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh 510 (515):11 Luck 449.

[6] If sons and grandsons are also impleaded and the suit is dismissed against them, then, their interest is not liable for the debt. SECTION 54 — SYNOPSIS.

1. Applicability and scope.
2. Decree for partition.
3. "Estate," meaning of.
4. Partition by Collector.

1. Applicability and scope.—[1] In a decree for partition the mode of partitioning revenue paying mahals cannot be ordered. (Vol 11) 1924 Oudh 360 (364).

[2] A suit for partition by a tenure-holder having the right for partition of the whole estate comes within the meaning of S. 54. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 104 (105).

[3] Decree for partition of portion of undivided estate is outside scope of section. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 259 (259); 56 Mad 443.

[4] Section 54 applies only where decree is for partition of land by metes and bounds. (Vol 4) 1917 Low Bur 126 (127) ; 8 Low Bur Rul 338.

[5] Words "separate possession of a share of such an estate" contemplate the case of a man whose right is to the possession of an aliquot part or share of the whole undivided estate considered as one. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 93 (95) ; 58 Cal 122.

[6] Object of the section is to protect the revenue due to Government. Also the Collector is more qualified to deal with the matter than the civil Court. (1889) 16 Cal 203 (205).

[7] Civil Court can decree partition of revenue paying estate. (Vol 4) 1917 Pat 637 (638) ; 2 Pat L Jour 221.

[8] Decree for partition of revenue paying estate passed by civil Court — Subsequent partition obtained from Collector does not supersede former decree. (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 365 (366) ; 13 Pat 637.

2. Decree for partition. — [1] It is not necessary under S. 54 to ask for division of revenue. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 104 (105) ; (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 93 (95) ; 58 Cal 122 ; (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 259 (259) ; 56 Mad 443.

[2] Decree for partition must not be so framed as to divest the Collector of the powers conferred upon him under S. 54 and O. 20, R. 18. (Vol 30) 1943 Sind 7 (8, 9) ; 1 L R (1942) Kar 162.

[3] Unless decree, not containing directions as required by O. 20, R. 18 (1), is corrected the plaintiff cannot ask for transfer of proceedings to Collector under S. 54. (Vol 22) 1935 Sind 192 (192).

[4] A decree of a civil Court on an application to partition the lands of an estate is not a decree under the section and cannot be sent to the Collector for execution under S. 12 (2), Estates Partition Act. (1917) 1 Pat L W 51 (54).

[5] Section 54 has no application to execution of decrees in administration suits and Collector cannot be directed to partition the estate. Partition can be correctly made by appointing a receiver. (Vol 4) 1917 Low Bur 126 (127) ; 8 Low Bur Rul 338.

[6] For the form of a decree in suit for partition of property or separate possession of a share therein, see O. 20, R. 18.

3. "Estate," meaning of.—[1] The word "estate" in this section must not be construed in a restricted sense but must be construed as being used in its ordinary signification. (1884) 10 Cal 435 (440).

[2] Raiyatwari estates are not estates within the meaning of S. 54. (1884) 7 Mad 382 (384) (F B).

[3] Section 54 only applies to case of estate assessed to revenue in lump and not to those assessed at acre rates. (Vol 13) 1926 Rang 80 (80) ; 5 Rang 206.

[4] Where the interest of the tenure-holder is only in a particular mouza which is partly in one estate and partly in another it consists only of isolated parts of the two estates and is not an estate within the meaning of the section. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 104 (105).

4. Partition by Collector. — [1] Under this section the Court has no power to appoint a Commissioner to effect the partition, and the partition must be made by the Collector. (1896) 23 Cal 679 (682).

[2] A civil Court is not competent to make a division of revenue paying land, even with the consent of the parties. (Vol 2) 1915 Oudh 28 (29) ; (Vol 6) 1919 All 140 (142) ; 41 All 207 (All that the civil Court could do would be to declare the share of the plaintiffs and give a decree leaving him to take steps for actual partition in the Revenue Courts.)

[See (Vol 32) 1945 Oudh 1 (3) (Decree for partition of revenue-paying land — Parties desiring actual partition by arbitrator must apply to Collector.)]

Provided, firstly, that, for the purpose of making an arrest under this section, no dwelling-house shall be entered after sunset and before sunrise :

Provided, secondly, that no outer door of a dwelling-house shall be broken open unless such dwelling-house is in the occupancy of the judgment-debtor and he refuses or in any way prevents access thereto, but when the officer authorized to make the arrest has duly gained access to any dwelling-house, he may break open the door of any room in which he has reason to believe the judgment-debtor is to be found :

Provided, thirdly, that if the room is in the actual occupancy of a woman who is not the judgment-debtor and who according to the customs of the country does not appear in public, the officer authorized to make the arrest shall give notice to her that she is at liberty to withdraw, and, after allowing a reasonable time for her to withdraw and giving her reasonable facility for withdrawing, may enter the room for the purpose of making the arrest :

Provided, fourthly, that, where the decree in execution of which a judgment-debtor is arrested, is a decree for the payment of money and the judgment-debtor pays the amount of the decree and the costs of the arrest to the officer arresting him, such officer shall at once release him.

1. Appeal and revision. — [1] Money-decree — Execution—Judgment-debtor arrested — Security bond furnished—Decree-holder applying for proceedings under S. 55 (4)—Notice to surety—Court ordering security to be realized — Such notice held also to be given under S. 145—Surety can appeal—Application for revision by decree-holder on surety's appeal can be treated as appeal. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 77 (78).

[2] An order made under S. 55 (4) rejecting an application for forfeiture of security bond is appealable and therefore no revision lies. (Vol 4) 1917 Upp Bur 16 (17) : 2 Upp Bur Rul 103.

2. At any hour and on any day. — [1] The arrest of judgment-debtor on Sunday was admittedly lawful and the execution of the warrant could only be complied with by bringing the complainant before Court when it next sat. (1907) 30 Mad 179 (180).

3. Court's duty to inform judgment-debtor to apply to be declared insolvent. — [1] It is the duty of the Court to inform the judgment-debtor whenever he is brought before the Court under arrest in execution of a money-decree, to apply for insolvency. This must be done before any inquiry is made. (1909) 1909 Pun Re No. 16, p. 37 (38).

Objects and Reasons.

"Clause 55 (1), second proviso.—The object of this proviso is to prevent vexatious forms of resistance to execution which constantly obstruct decree-holders in the execution of their decrees.

invalidate a warrant of arrest which was otherwise legally issued. (1940) 42 Pun L R 374 (378).

[3] When the application of a judgment-debtor to be declared an insolvent has been dismissed, and he is re-arrested in execution of a decree, he cannot claim the benefit of S. 55 (3) and (4) so long as the bar of the previous dismissal is not removed. (1911) 9 Ind Cas 121 (121) (Sind).

[4] Section 55 (3) does not entitle the debtor to be adjudged an insolvent on an application except in conformity with the provisions of the Insolvency law. (1913) 25 Mad L Jour 545 (547, 548).

[5] Absence of note in record that provisions of S. 55 (3) have been complied with does not necessarily indicate that they have not been complied with—Failure to comply with provisions does not invalidate arrest. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 736 (736).

[6] Under the Act of 1877, Small Cause Court debtors could obtain the benefit of Chapter XX of that Act, enabling them to be declared insolvents. (1878-80) 2 Mad 9 (10).

4. Court may release. — [1] A judgment-debtor who, when brought before the Court under arrest, has not expressed his intention to apply to be declared an insolvent, is not thereby precluded from so applying during his imprisonment and getting himself released, under the Insolvency laws. (1885) 11 Cal 451 (459, 460).

[2] Section 59 is not controlled by S. 55 (3) and (4)—Judgment-debtor suffering from illness should be released. (Vol 21) 1934 Lah 807 (808).

5. In any other place which the Government may appoint. — [1] Where a judgment-debtor committed to particular jail was handed over by the officer arresting him of his own motion, to the officer-in-charge of another jail, it was held that such imprisonment was unlawful and the prisoner was entitled to be discharged. (1885) 11 Cal 527 (530).

6. Insolvency, when protection. — [1] Judgment-debtor arrested in execution of money-decree —

Having been adjudicated insolvent under Presidency Towns Insolvency Act (1909) he produced protection order from Calcutta High Court — He is immune from arrest and detention for the said debt. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 1070 (1072).

[2] An order of adjudication will not protect a judgment-debtor from arrest in respect of debts not mentioned in the insolvency petition. (1899) 16 Cal 85 (88).

7. Judgment-debtor's arrest. — [1] The apprehension of a judgment-debtor by an officer arresting without having in his possession the warrant of arrest if the Court executing the decree, is illegal. (1883) 5 All 318 (321, 322).

[2] A Nazir, who has been directed to execute a warrant of arrest, is not prohibited from authorizing a deputy to do so for him. An endorsement to this effect subsequent to the arrest does not invalidate the arrest. (1884) 6 All 385 (388).

[3] If a warrant is addressed to the bailiff authorising him to arrest a judgment-debtor at a place A and the judgment-debtor happened to be found at place B within the jurisdiction of the Court, bailiff can legally make the arrest at the latter place. (1940) 42 Pun L R 374 (377).

[4] The mere fact that a warrant for attachment of property of the judgment-debtor has been issued may be a sufficient ground for refusing to issue warrant of arrest but when the judgment-debtor has evaded payment it would not be a sufficient ground to refuse warrant of arrest. (1883) 7 Bom 301 (302).

[5] Bailiff is not bound to show civil warrant in first instance. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 79 (79, 80).

[6] Court has no power to arrest defendant in pending suit unless he is in contempt. (Vol 19) 1932 All 524 (526).

[7] Defendant entering plaintiff's baithak with bailiff and naib sheriff believing that judgment-debtor was there — No trespass is committed and plaintiff is not entitled to damages on that score. (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 728 (724).

[8] Provisions of S. 55 are mandatory. (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 62 (63) : 54 Cal 782.

[9] The provisions of this section apply, so far as may be, to all persons arrested under this Code. See section 134. For prohibition of arrest of women in execution of decree for money, see section 56. For exemption of certain persons from arrest under civil process, see sections 135 and 135A. For arrest before judgment, see O. 38, R. 1.

8. Realization of security. — [1] Surety for judgment-debtor in carrying penalty under his bond — Amount paid by surety should be credited against decretal amount—Decree-holder cannot claim amount over and above the amount of decree. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 559 (560).

[2] A transferee decree-holder is entitled to have his decree executed against surety, on the failure of judgment-debtor to present insolvency petition. (1903) 26 Mad 258 (259).

[3] Security bond executed under S. 55 (4)—Judgment-debtor failing to apply within one month—Court discharging sureties—On remand of case on appeal Court holding that surety was liable — Subsequent order held was without jurisdiction as option to proceed against judgment-debtor had already been exercised by Court previously in favour of surety. (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 476 (477).

[4] Judgment-debtor failing to apply within one month — Option as to whether security should be realized or judgment-debtor committed to prison lies not with decree-holder but executing Court. (Vol 16) 1929 All 377 (377, 378).

[But see (Vol 29) 1942 Pat 506 (507, 508) : 21 Pat 644. (Option under S. 55 (4) to proceed against surety or judgment-debtor is with decree-holder and not with Court—But Court must be satisfied that remedy chosen by decree-holder can be availed of.)]

[5] Where cash security is deposited by a surety for benefit of a decree-holder to enable the judgment-debtor to apply in insolvency, the cash security must be paid to the decree-holder if the insolvency application fails and the Court cannot forfeit the amount to the Government. (1912) 39 Cal 1048 (1049, 1050).

[6] Decree-holder making no attempts to execute against surety for about three and half years—Security held should not be forfeited. (Vol 28) 1941 Cal 122 (123).

[7] Surety's liability—Surety executing security bond undertaking to pay decretal amount on default—Judgment-debtor meanwhile applying to Debt Conciliation Board—Execution case struck off as wholly infructuous on date of hearing due to such application and without protest from decree-holder—Surety bond is cancelled in effect—Decree-holder cannot proceed to realize security on his refusal to accept offer of judgment-debtor before the Board. [3] A judgment-debtor once arrested and imprisoned in execution of a decree, cannot be re-arrested under a new order for the execution of the same. (1886) 12 Cal 652 (656, 657, 658).

3. Claim or objection. — [1] Section 63 contemplates only such claims as can be summarily enquired into. (1910) 11 Cal L Jour 69 (77).

4. Court of highest grade.—[1] "Grade" of the Court depends upon the pecuniary or other limitations of the jurisdiction of the particular Court. (Vol 18) 1931 Nag 127 (127).

[2] District Court is of higher grade than Subordinate Court. (1909) 1 Ind Cas 78 (78) (All).

[4] The Court of a Munsif must be regarded as a Court of higher grade than a Court of Small Causes. (1894) 16 All 11 (19) (F B).

[4] Where the Court of the lower grade sold the property and distributed the proceeds without giving any share to the judgment-creditor whose execution was pending in the higher Court; Held, that the Court of the lower grade acted in contravention of S. 63 of the Code and that the judgment-creditor in the higher Court can bring a suit under S. 73 (2) of the Code for refund of his share of the assets. SECTION 64 — SYNOPSIS.

1. Applicability, scope and object.
2. Attachment before judgment.
3. Claim for rateable distribution — Explanation.
4. Contrary to such attachment.
5. Discontinuance or abandonment of attachment.
6. Effect of attachment.
7. Effect of dismissal or striking off of execution proceedings. — See under O. 21, R. 57.
8. Effect of removal of attachment.
9. Effect of vesting order after attachment.
10. Objections as to attachment.

Section 64 (contd.)

11. Private transfer or delivery of property attached or any interest therein.
12. Prior contract or sale of property.
13. Removal of attachment.
14. Transfer is void only against claims enforceable under attachment.
15. Waiver of benefit under section.
16. "Where an attachment has been made".

1. Applicability, scope and object. — [1] Object of the section is to prevent fraud on decree-holder and to secure intact rights of judgment-creditors. (Vol 4) 1917 Cal 561 (561).

[2] The section has no application to transfers made before the attachment is levied. (1898) 8 Mad L Jour 266 (266, 269) * (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 801 (803) (Mortgage.) * (Vol 19) 1932 Sind 164 (165) : 26 Sind L R 158.

[3] Section 64 does not refer to alienation through process of Court but merely affects private alienations. (Vol 32) 1945 Cal 264 (266) * (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 626 (626) * (Vol 31) 1944 Nag 324 (325) : I L R (1944) Nag 739 (Section not applicable to execution sales.)

[4] It is immaterial for the applicability of the section whether the transferee acted in good faith or not. (Vol 6) 1919 Oudh 4 (7) : 23 Oudh Cas 18 * (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 594 (595) : 42 Mad 565 (No question of bona fides of alienee arises under S. 64.)

[5] The combined effect of the section with its explanation is to extend the protection to claimants for rateable distribution against private alienations of property after attachment just as much as to the decree-holder at whose instance the attachment is made. But the attachment will not enure for the benefit of those who apply for rateable distribution of assets in future. (1936) 1936 Oudh W N 861 (864).

[7] Attachment of money-decree is governed by O. 21, R. 53 and not by S. 64. (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 1 (3) : 7 Pat 726.

[8] Application under O. 21, R. 89 does not offend S. 64. (Vol 4) 1917 Cal 281 (282).

[9] Although in view of S. 7 (1) (a) of U. P. Encumbered Estates Act (25 [XXV] of 1934) an attachment made by creditor, before the Act, on the property X became null and void on the date the Collector passed an order under S. 6, the right acquired by creditor to realise his decree from property X remained intact and any sale by the debtor subsequent to attachment is subject to creditor's such right. (Vol 31) 1944 All 176 (177, 178) : I L R (1944) All 280.

[10] Adjustment within the meaning of O. 21, R. 2 — Section 64 does not apply. (Vol 27) 1940 Pesh 18 (19).

2. Attachment before judgment. — [1] Section applies to attachment before judgment. (Vol 9) 1922 Nag 238 (238) * (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 494 (495) : 57 Cal 274.

[2] The effect of an attachment whether it be before or after decree, is the same provided that in the former case, a decree is made for the plaintiff at whose instance the attachment takes place. (1899) 26 Cal 531 (533).

[4] Section 64 does not require fresh attachment of property attached before judgment. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 386 (386).

[5] Attachment before judgment must be made according to O. 21, R. 54 — Mere order of attachment is not enough. (Vol 26) 1939 Bom 508 (511).

[6] Attachment before judgment made, without complying with procedure laid down in O. 38, R. 5 — Order is mere irregularity and not nullity. (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 49 (51, 52) : I L R (1937) Lah 756.

[But see (Vol 9) 1922 Nag 238 (239) (Attachment before judgment not complying with procedure under O. 38, R. 5, is ultra vires.)]

[7] Two independent attachments before judgment of same property — Property passes to purchaser in first sale — It cannot be sold over again in other decree. (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 626 (627).

[8] Attachment before judgment — No decree passed — No execution applied for — Rateable distribution cannot be claimed. (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 545 (547).

[9] Attachment before judgment does not create a charge in favour of the attaching creditor. (Vol 20) 1933 All 953 (953, 954).

[10] Attachment before judgment — Mention of mortgage in execution application does not prevent decree-holder from challenging the mortgage, nor does it prevent the provisions of this section from applying. (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 444 (447).

3. Claim for rateable distribution—Explanation. — [1] The explanation is not necessarily a fresh addition to previous enactment but merely removes doubt which existed in the previous enactment. (Vol 21) 1934 All 1057 (1063).

[2] No special priority to claims under S. 73 as such is given. (Vol 8) 1921 Oudh 176 (183).

[3] Explanation does not control provisions of O. 21, R. 89. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 445 (446).

[4] "Claim enforceable under attachment" — "Attachment" refers to attachment under which execution sale is made. (Vol 21) 1934 All 1057 (1060) * (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 545 (547).

[5] Claim not falling under S. 73 is not enforceable under S. 64. (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 545 (547).

[6] Applicant for rateable distribution is on same footing as attaching decree-holder. (Vol 21) 1934 All 896 (897).

[7] Private transfer during pendency of attachment in one suit — Attachment in execution of decree in another suit made after transfer but while decree in former suit remained unsatisfied and attachment therein subsisting — Auction-purchaser in sale effected in pursuance of second attachment will not obtain good title — Alienation would not be void as against him. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 335 (339) : I L R (1940) Mad 526 (FB) (Per Leach C. J., Pandrang Row and Patanjali Sastri JJ.; Abdur Rahman and Krishnaswami Ayyangar JJ., Dissenting.)

[8] Property attached, sold and price deposited in Court — Prior to execution sale, attached field sold privately and 5 per cent. deposited in Court and receipt of satisfaction of decree deposited — Another decree-holder who had applied for execution prior to auction and obtained order for rateable distribution subsequently attached the same field, brought it to sale and purchased it himself — Private sale cannot prevail against the subsequent auction-purchaser. (Vol 20) 1933 Nag 349 (351).

[But see (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 335 (407) : I L R (1940) Mad 526 (FB) (It is not necessary that property should have been sold or that assets must have come into executing Court (Per Abdur Rahman J.).)]

[10] A obtained a decree against B and attached his property. C also obtained a decree against B and also applied for execution. B then transferred the property to D and discharged A's decree. C having no right to rateable distribution cannot question D's title to the property. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 127 (132) : 41 Mad 265 (FB) * (Vol 8) 1921 All 45 (46) : 43 All 399 * (Vol 8) 1921 Oudh 176 (184).

[See however (1911) 13 Bom LR 1189 (1192, 1193).]

[11] In order that a claim for rateable distribution may be effective under this section it is not necessary that the claim should have been in existence on the date of the private sale, i. e., the claimant should have obtained a decree and applied for execution before that date. (Vol 9) 1922 Bom 241 (242) : 46 Bom 895 * (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 807 (308) : 49 Mad 88 * (1892) 16 Bom 91 (101, 110). (Case under the old Code.) * (Vol 4) 1917 Cal 561 (561).

[But see (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 801 (805).]

[12] N bringing D's property to sale in execution of his decree on 29th August 1934 — Other decree-holders including S applying for rateable distribution — Sale set aside on 31st October 1934 on application by D under O. 21, R. 89, Civil P. C. — On 20th September 1934 D selling property to P — On 29th September 1934 S attaching aforesaid property pursuant to his application of 29th August 1934 — Claim by P on basis of his sale deed from D dismissed — Suit by D in 1935 against S and D for declaration of his title — S held could not make any claim based upon S. 64 explanation or his action on 29th August 1934. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 522 (522, 523).

[13] Explanation to S. 64 indicates that applications for rateable distribution go hand in hand with execution application — Court ordering execution application to be filed but mentioning in order that attachment should subsist — No such order made on application for rateable distribution which was also filed — Decree-holder for rateable distribution can take advantage of order on execution application. (Vol 28) 1941 Pesh 18 (20).

4. Contrary to such attachment. — [1] Section 64 avoids transfers contrary to, not during the continuance of, attachment. (Vol 18) 1931 Mad 570 (571) * (1902) 29 Cal 154 (166) : 29 Ind App 9 (P C). (Case under the Code of 1877).

[2] Where the judgment-debtor alienates the property and pays of the attaching decree-holder, the alienation is not 'contrary to such attachment'. (Vol 24) 1937 All 641 (642) * (Vol 21) 1934 All 1057 (1060) * (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 545 (547) * (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 127 (131, 132) : 41 Mad 265.

[3] Money decree attached — Transfer by holder of decree is not prohibited. (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 1 (2, 3) : 7 Pat 726.

[4] Decree attached — Assignment thereof is subject to attaching creditors' right. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 1025 (1026).

[5] Attaching decree-holder is not bound by compromise between parties to attached decree during proceedings for further leave to appeal, if judgment-debtor had notice of attachment — S. 64 does not apply. (Vol 20) 1933 All 82 (84).

[6] Transfer of property to stranger before attachment is not affected. (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 545 (546).

[8] Letting out land during attachment on nominal rent is act "contrary to attachment." (Vol 21) 1934 All 902 (908).

[9] This section is not intended to avoid dispositions of attached property by the judgment-debtor which are merely in the nature of a renewal of an encumbrance already existing on the property prior to attachment and which do not enhance the burden to which it was previously liable. (1882) 4 Mad 417 (418).

[10] Mortgage during attachment is not binding on auction-purchaser. (Vol 9) 1922 All 443 (444, 445) : 44 All 714.

[11] Mortgage during attachment to pay prior mortgage is binding on purchaser. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 708 (704).

[12] Mortgage of attached property — Part of consideration utilised for discharging prior encumbrances having charge on such property — Mortgage is valid only to this extent. (Vol 22) 1935 All 391 (397).

[13] Subsequent compromise whereby mortgagors agree to transfer portion of mortgaged land in consideration of mortgagee reducing mortgage charge is not illegal. (Vol 25) 1938 Lah 737 (738, 739).

5. Discontinuance or abandonment of attachment. — [1] An attachment may cease by the decree being discharged by payment out of Court. (1900) 23 Mad 478 (482).

[2] On the happening of a judicial sale all previous attachments effected upon the property sold fall to the ground. (1886) 12 Cal 317 (321) * (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 626 (627) * (Vol 23) 1936 Nag 209 (214) : I L R (1936) Nag 127 * (Vol 7) 1920 Pat 75 (77).

[3] Attachment struck off — No steps taken except keeping alive decree for statutory period when execution and attachment were again applied for — Attachment may be presumed to be abandoned. (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 30 (32, 33) : 44 Mad 232.

[See (1894) 17 Mad 180 (182). (On facts held there was no abandonment of attachment.)]

[4] A re-attachment in execution ex majori cautela of certain immovable properties which had been attached before judgment, does not amount to an abandonment of the original attachment. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 386 (386).

[5] Attachment set aside but on same day property re-attached — Private sale before re-attachment — On appeal by decree-holder against order setting aside attachment, first attachment ordered to stand — Held, decree-holder's rights were not affected by temporary discontinuance of attachment. (Vol 6) 1919 Lah 54 (56).

6. Effect of attachment. — [1] An attachment prevents and avoids any private alienation, but does not invalidate an alienation by operation of law, such as is effected by a vesting order in the Official Assignee of the insolvent. (Vol 1) 1914 P C 129 (130) : 41 Ind App 251 : 42 Cal 72 (P C). (Reversing 15 Ind Cas 288 (Cal).)

[2] Attachment only prevents private alienations and does not confer any title, charge or lien on the property. (1898) 25 Cal 179 (185) : 24 Ind App 170 (P C) * (Vol 19) 1932 All 353 (355) * (1910) 32 All 479 (483) * (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 444 (446) * (Vol 10) 1923 Lah 261 (262) : 3 Lah 414 * (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 281 (281) : 1915 Pun Re No. 39 * (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 342 (344) * (Vol 18) 1931 Mad 474 (477) : 54 Mad 727. [4] Attaching creditor is not secured creditor. (Vol 17) 1930 Bom 16 (18) * (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 524 (525) : 57 Cal 122.

[5] More than one creditor attaching same mortgage amount—Court cannot give to one of them charge at the expense of other creditors. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 4 (8).

[6] Transfer of property under attachment is inoperative as against subsequent judgment-creditor although decree is passed subsequent to transfer. (Vol 4) 1917 Cal 561 (561).

[7] Attachment before judgment—Suit dismissed—Subsequent alienation by debtor is not affected by subsequent reversal of judgment in appeal — No charge is created and there is no enforcement of claim under that attachment. (Vol 21) 1934 All 165 (167, 168).

[8] Mortgaged property attached — Attaching creditor's purchase subsequent to decree absolute for foreclosure obtained by mortgagee — Attaching creditor is not entitled to redeem mortgage. (Vol 23) 1936 Nag 209 (211, 213, 214) : I L R (1936) Nag 127. ((Vol 15) 1928 Nag 97 : 23 Nag L R 164, overruled.)

[9] An attachment will not in any way stand in the way of the partition suit. (Vol 16) 1929 All 726 (732) : 51 All 932.

[10] An attachment made by one creditor does not enure for the benefit of the whole body of creditors, so as to make a private transfer void against the whole world. (1937) 1937 Mad W N 366 (367).

[11] There is no authority to show that an attachment is ineffective in relation to that part of the property which does not vest in judgment-debtor at the time of attachment and that a transfer of attached property cannot be impugned on any ground even if immediately after attachment and before sale the judgment-debtor becomes owner of that part of property and sells it in the teeth of attachment. (1940) 42 Pun L R 356 (357, 358).

[12] Decree attached — Decree-holder cannot deal with it in any way pending attachment. (Vol 5) 1918 Pat 454 (456) & (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 840 (843).

7. Effect of dismissal or striking off of execution proceedings. — See under O. 21, R. 57.

8. Effect of removal of attachment. — [1] If attachment is validly withdrawn though under misapprehension subsequent attachment does not relate back to the date of first attachment and cannot have such effect against person taking transfer during interval. (Vol 16) 1929 Rang 229 (237) : 7 Rang 201 & (1895) 22 Cal 909 (920) : 22 Ind App 129 (P C).

[2] A private sale of property pending an attachment by a decree-holder which has subsequently been raised is valid as against a non-attaching decree-holder who had applied for rateable distribution during the continuance of the attachment. (Vol 6) 1919 Lah 129 (130) : 1919 Pun Re No. 5.

[3] Attachment coming to end—Claims thereunder cease to be enforceable. (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 545 (548).

[4] Mortgage of property attached — All money due under execution in which property is attached paid — Mortgage transaction is rehabilitated in law. (Vol 19) 1932 Rang 103 (104) : 10 Rang 199.

[5] Release of attachment between execution and registration of sale deed does not invalidate sale. (Vol 14) 1927 Nag 289 (289).

9. Effect of vesting order after attachment. —

[1] Adjudication of debtor automatically puts an end to attachment and vests the property in Official Assignee free of attachment. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 179 (180) : I L R (1943) Mad 659.

[2] Adjudication of judgment-debtor does not affect the rights of a creditor who has attached before adjudication. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 47 (48).

[3] Where the alienation is effected by operation of law, as in the case of a vesting order, the attachment cannot prevent the operation of the statute and a Court executing a decree is bound to take notice of it. (1885) 8 Mad 554 (556).

[4] Attachment by itself does not create any charge or lien on property or give any priority to attaching creditor as against Official Assignee or Receiver. (Vol 20) 1933 Nag 229 (230) : 29 Nag L R 303.

[5] Defendant depositing amount with plaintiff's pleader under Court's order — Deposit subject to result of pending action — Subsequent insolvency of defendant — Plaintiff is entitled to deposit in preference to general creditors. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 625 (626, 627).

[6] Creditor attaching debtor's property — Debtor alienating property in contravention of attachment — Debtor subsequently declared insolvent and discharged — Creditor can still follow property which he had attached, for, the effect of transfer contrary to S. 64, Civil P. C., was not to make it absolutely void, so that the property could still be treated as the assets of debtor notwithstanding the transfer. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 100 (101).

[7] Order vesting insolvent's property in Official Assignee is not analogous to attachment. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 735 (745) : 51 Mad 417 (F B).

[8] Adjudication order of a foreign Court has no effect of vesting in receiver property in British India, and therefore, a decree-holder is entitled to the benefit of his prior attachment. (Vol 20) 1933 P C 134 (135, 136) : 60 Ind App 167 : 56 Mad 405 (P C). (Overruling (Vol 18) 1931 Mad 474 : 54 Mad 727.)

10. Objection as to attachment. — [1] Only persons having claims enforceable under attachment can object. (Vol 16) 1929 Pat 1 (3) : 7 Pat 726.

[2] Attachment for a larger amount than due is valid to the extent of the amount due. (1910) 20 Mad L Jour 821 (822).

[3] A judgment-debtor who consents to an attachment of an occupancy holding is not estopped from objecting to the sale on the ground of its non-transferability. (Vol 5) 1918 Pat 604 (605).

[2] Order of Court by consent of parties is tantamount to a transfer. (Vol 32) 1945 Mad 412 (414) * (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 481 (481).

[3] Adjudication by a foreign Court operates as a private transfer within the meaning of S. 64 and therefore cannot prevail over a prior order of attachment by British Indian Court. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 47 (48) * (Vol 20) 1933 P C 134 (135, 136) : 60 Ind App 167 : 56 Mad 405 (P C). [(Vol 18) 1931 Mad 474 : 54 Mad 727, reversed.]

[4] Section applies to private alienations pending claim proceedings and subsequent suit. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 1095 (1096) : 40 Mad 955.

[5] A charge created under a compromise decree is no better than any other private transfer and is therefore void against a person attaching those properties prior to compromise decree. [9] Bona fide arbitration award and decree thereon transferring property to third person — Award is not a private transfer. (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 221 (222) : 45 Mad 103*(1882) 4 All 220 (226)* (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 798 (798).

[See (Vol 26) 1939 Bom 212 (214). (Where there is an arbitration but the settlement creating a charge is drawn up in the form of award, it is a private transfer.)]

[10] Award without Court's intervention — Transfer in pursuance of partition decree based on it is not private transfer. (Vol 19) 1932 P C 235 (237) : 59 Ind App 405 : 13 Lah 702 (P C) * (Vol 30) 1943 Bom 283 (285) (Charge created by award decree.)

12. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 927 (927).

[2] Conveyance of property executed after its attachment before judgment by creditor in pursuance of contract entered into before attachment prevails over attachment. (Vol 26) 1939 Bom 492 (493)* (Vol 30) 1943 Bom 145 (145, 146) (Agreement to sell — Subsequent attachment—Decree for specific performance and consequent sale prevails against attachment)* (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 927 (928)* (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 67 (69) (Contract to sell)* (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 610 (610)* (Vol 23) 1936 Nag 163 (165) : I L R (1936) Nag 172.

[See however (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 494 (495) : 57 Cal 274. (Agreement to sell prior to attachment cannot prevail.)]

[3] An agreement to sell creates an obligation to convey property and a later attachment will not override the conveyance made in pursuance of the obligation. Attachment holds good in respect of such a right as the vendor had in property at the time of attachment as when there is an unpaid balance of purchase money the attachment fastens to the judgment-debtor's right to recover the money. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 872 (873) : 59 Mad 1* (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 198 (199, 200) : I L R (1941) Bom 290* (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 193 (195).

[5] Prior decree for specific performance of agreement to mortgage—Subsequent attachment—Mortgage executed by Court as per decree — Attachment held subject to mortgage. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 301 (303, 305).

13. Revival of attachment.—[1] Alienation after valid release of attachment and before second attachment is valid. (Vol 11) 1924 Cal 744 (747) : 51 Cal 548.

[See however (Vol 7) 1920 All 356 (357) : 42 All 39. (Attachment before judgment cancelled and again restored — Private sale in interim held void.)]

[2] Where a claim is allowed, releasing the property from attachment and in the suit the claim order is set aside, it was held that the attachment revives so as to affect the alienations made in the interval. (1896) 23 Cal 829 (833, 834) * (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 176 (178) : 45 Mad 84* (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 1095 (1096) : 40 Mad 955* (Vol 26) 1939 Pat 138 (139) : 17 Pat 588.

[3] Claim suit decreed and attachment raised — Decree reversed in appeal — Attachment is revived and renders transfer during interval invalid. (Vol 9) 1922 Nag 138 (141).

[2] Section does not render an alienation pending attachment void against all persons and for all purposes but only against a claim enforceable under the attachment, i. e., the decree-holder's right to bring the pro-

[6] A claim can only arise under attachment when some sort of transaction has taken place—Person proposing to purchase attached property in execution sale cannot have such claim till he makes such purchase. (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 609 (610).

[7] The attachment referred to in the section is that particular attachment in respect of which the property was sold and it is that attachment alone which can be employed for the purpose of impugning the private alienation. (Vol 3) 1916 P O 238 (240, 241) : 44 Ind App 172; 44 Cal 662 (P. C.)* (1884) 6 All 33 (36) * (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 843 (844) : I L R (1937) Mad 970 * (Vol 20) 1933 Nag 230 (232).

[8] Where property attached in execution is alienated but the attachment ceased subsequently by reason of dismissal of the execution under O. 21, R. 57, and the property was sold in pursuance of second attachment, the transfer is not void as against the auction-purchaser under the second attachment. (1926) 97 Ind Cas 547 (548) (All).

[9] Attaching decree-holder paid in full—Attachment set aside — Claim of creditor who had applied for rateable distribution cannot be said to be enforceable under attachment — Alienation by judgment-debtor after attachment has ceased is not void under S. 64 as against creditor who applied for rateables but was not paid. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 165 (166, 167) : I L R (1943) Mad 175.

[10] Where part of consideration for sale of attached property was paid to the attaching decree-holder, in consequence of which he withdrew from execution, it was held that the attachment would not invalidate the sale. (1867) 7 Suth W R 430 (430).

[11] A mortgage executed while the property is under an attachment in execution of a decree, is inoperative against the auction-purchaser though the decree-holder was not in any way prejudicially affected. (1913) 20 Ind Cas 241 (242, 243) (Cal).

[12] Prior mortgagee attaching property in execution of his money decree subject to his mortgage—Subsequent mortgage expressly providing for payment of certain amount to prior mortgagee — Payment of such amount is not "contrary to attachment" or against claim enforceable under attachment." (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 227 (229, 230).

[13] Attachment—Sale of encumbered property subject to no encumbrance — Liability cannot be avoided by auction-purchaser. (Vol 2) 1915 Oudh 157 (158).

ted him to pay the consideration for the assignment to the attaching creditors and the assignee paid them off but not before the money in his hands were attached by the plaintiff. Held, that the assignee was entitled to protect himself by paying prior creditors and such payment did not offend the provisions of S. 64 and the plaintiff was not entitled to impeach the same. [See, however (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 648 (649). (Sale with decree-holder's consent is not excepted).]

[2] Attachment before judgment — Suit decreed — Mortgage of property to third person — Property sold in execution of decree and purchased by decree-holder — Mention of mortgage in execution application does not prevent decree-holder from challenging the mortgage, nor does it prevent the provisions of S. 64 from applying. (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 444 (447).

[3] Decree-holder recognizing attachment and notifying it in sale proclamation is estopped from subsequently contesting it. (Vol 3) 1916 Oudh 169 (174).

16. "Where an attachment has been made". — [1] No property can be declared to be attached unless, firstly, an order of attachment has been issued, and secondly, in execution of that order the other things prescribed by the rules in the Code have been made. SALE.

SECTION 65 — SYNOPSIS.

1. "Shall be deemed to have vested".
2. Right to possession when accrues.
3. Right to mesne profits.
4. Right to and liability for rent.
5. Sale in execution of mortgage decree.

1. "Shall be deemed to have vested". —

[1] Until sale is confirmed, title does not vest in the purchaser. (Vol 20) 1933 Sind 198 (200); 27 Sind L R 256 & (Vol 6) 1919 All 253 (254); 41 All 526. (If decree awards interest till realization and property is sold in execution thereof interest is recoverable till date of confirmation of sale.) & (Vol 12) 1925 Bom 483 (484). (Property sold in execution of two decrees—Purchaser at the unconfirmed sale gets no title to property.) & (1937) 1937 Oudh W N 1153 (1156) & (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 565 (566).

[2] Title of purchaser at an execution sale becomes complete on the date of confirmation but relates back to the date of sale. (1909) 2 Ind Cas 81 (82) (All) & (Vol 17) 1930 Bom 81 (83, 84) & (1913) 40 Cal 89 (102, 103); 39 Ind App 228 (P C) & (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 317 (318) & (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 482 (484) & (Vol 13) 1926 Nag 17 (18, 19); 24 Nag L R 48 & (Vol 20) 1933 Oudh 38 (38) & (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 565 (566). (The words of the section make it clear that the property does not actually vest in the purchaser at the time of the sale; but once the sale is confirmed, it is deemed to have vested in him as and from that date. Without confirmation purchaser acquires no title.) & (Vol 19) 1932 Pat 80 (83); 10 Pat 670 & (Vol 25) 1938 Pesh 49 (50).

[3] Fact that sale certificate is issued on later date than that of confirmation does not affect vesting of title on confirmation of sale. (Vol 18) 1931 Pat 241 (243); 10 Pat 670 (FB) & (1926) 95 Ind Cas 965 (966) (All) & (Vol 1) 1914 Oudh 306 (306) & (Vol 19) 1932 Pat 80 (83); 10 Pat 670.

[4] Under the present section, it is no longer necessary for the decree to be subsisting on the date of the confirmation of the sale for the property to vest in purchaser; and hence a sale in favour of a bona fide purchaser not a party to the suit will not be set aside merely because the decree has been reversed before confirmation. (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 598 (603, 604, 605); 56 Mad 808.

[5] Order prohibiting sale would prohibit confirmations of sales which had already taken place but had not been confirmed and the purchaser does not get any title. (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 565 (566).

[6] Legislation before confirmation of sale exempting property from attachment or sale will not affect rights of auction-purchaser unless there is clear provision to contrary. (Vol 29) 1942 Lah 102 (104); I L R (1942) Lah 349 (FB).

[7] Auction-purchaser is entitled to claim accretions to property from date of sale — Conversely he is responsible for any deterioration or loss which property suffers in between sale and confirmation of sale. (Vol 13) 1926 Nag 17 (19); 24 Nag L R 48 & (1913) 40 Cal 89 (102, 103); 39 Ind App 228 (P C). (Property sold before confirmation for arrears of revenue — Purchaser loses property.)

[8] An auction-purchaser's title cannot be defeated by any transfer made by the judgment-debtor between the date of the sale and the date of its confirmation. (1911) 15 Cal W N 312 (316).

[9] Gift by auction-purchaser before confirmation of sale — Donee authorized to take possession — Gift is valid. (Vol 14) 1927 Oudh 261 (262); 2 Luck 496.

2. Right to possession when accrues. — Right of auction-purchaser to possession accrues from date of sale not from the date of the sale certificate. (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 230 (233); I L R 1941 Lah 91.

[But see (Vol 30) 1943 Pat 320 (322, 324); 22 Pat 280. (Per Manohar Lal J.)]

3. Right to mesne profits. — [1] The auction-purchaser is entitled to mesne profits from the date of the sale. (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 230 (233); I L R (1941) Lah 91 & (Vol 5) 1918 Oudh 9 (10) & (Vol 15) 1928 Rang 67 (68); 5 Rang 803.

[2] Auction-purchaser can sue for profits from date of sale though his name is not recorded in revenue papers till later date. (Vol 24) 1937 All 661 (663).

4. Right to and liability for rent. — [1] Auction-purchaser is entitled to rent from the date of sale when his sale is confirmed. (1937) 1937 Mad W N 1009 (1009).

[2] Auction-purchaser and not judgment-debtor is liable for rent for period from date of sale to its confirmation. (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 785 (785).

[3] Mukarrari tenure sold in execution of decree — Rent accruing due between dates of sale and its confirmation — Held in the absence of any contract the auction-purchaser was not liable personally for it but only the tenure that was liable. (Vol 30) 1943 Pat 320 (324); 22 Pat 280 & (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 673 (675); 19 Pat 824. (Section 65 determines priority as between purchasers at successive sales. It is not meant to confer upon a defaulting tenant the privilege of rent-free occupation for so long as he or the decree-holder can delay confirmation of sale.)

1. Applicability, object and scope. — [1] S. 66 bars a suit against any person claiming title under a purchase certified by the Court on the ground that the purchase was made on behalf of the plaintiff or on behalf of some one through whom the plaintiff claimed. This section is clearly aimed at benami purchases in execution sales. (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 762 (763, 764): 43 Cal 20 (Vol 7) 1920 P C 30 (32): 47 Ind App 108: 43 Mad 643 (PC). (Object is to check benami purchases at court auction.) (Vol 2) 1915 P C 81 (82): 42 Ind App 177: 37 All 545 (PC) (1912) 10 All L Jour 97 (99) (1909) 31 All 282 (284) (Vol 32) 1945 Cal 355 (360). (Section 66 (2) was enacted for the protection of creditors of beneficial owner to prevent fraudulent secretion of property.) (1893) 16 Mad 290 (292, 293) (Vol 26) 1939 Nag 274 (276).

[2] As the substantive part of the enactment contained in S. 66 (1) bars the equitable jurisdiction of Courts it must be strictly construed and should not be extended beyond its express words. On the self-same principle, the exception to the substantive rule in S. 66 (1) which is contained in S. 66 (2) should not be narrowly construed but as much scope should be given as its language can bear. (Vol 32) 1945 Cal 355 (360) (1874-75) 2 Ind App 154 (156) (PC) (Vol 7) 1920 Lah 491 (493).

[3] To attract the operation of S. 66 (1), the suit (which may be of any character) must be against the benamidar certified purchaser or his privies, and it must be by the beneficial owner or a person who claims the property through him. (Vol 32) 1945 Cal 355 (359) (Vol 7) 1920 Lah 491 (493).

[4] The section does not make benami purchase illegal. (1907) 31 Bom 61 (68) (Vol 17) 1930 Bom 81 (83).

[5] Section 66 contemplates a real sale and not fictitious sale in execution of bogus decree to avoid some creditor. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 492 (494).

[6] Section 66 (1) does not deal with cases in which a purchaser at court auction in his own name though on behalf of somebody else. (Vol 26) 1939 Nag 274 (276).

[7] Section 66 applies whether ostensible purchaser is real purchaser to extent of entire or only fraction of property sold. (Vol 7) 1920 Nag 147 (148).

[14] Section 317 (now S. 66) and S. 182, Bombay Land Revenue Code are to be construed strictly and do not bar a suit where the plaintiff, although a benamidar, came honestly into possession. (1903) 5 Bom L R 329 (331).

[15] Section 66 does not draw distinction between purchase by a person in name of stranger and one by father in name of son. (Vol 26) 1939 Nag 274 (275).

[16] Section applies to all forms of action and all kinds of reliefs — Test is, if plaintiff cannot get any relief without proving that certified purchase was on behalf of plaintiff, S. 66 applies—Fact that he was already in possession and seeks confirmation of possession or that he was out of possession and seeks recovery of possession is immaterial. (Vol 25) 1938 Cal 602 (604) (1910) 7 All L Jour 623 (626). (Suit for return of purchase money supplied to benamidar is not maintainable) (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 512 (513): 53 Cal 297. [21] The failure of the alleged benamidar to assert his rights against the real purchaser during the latter's possession after the auction-purchase cannot be regarded as a waiver or transfer of the right. (Vol 7) 1920 Cal 852 (852).

2. Retrospective operation. — [1] Section 66 is not retrospective and does not apply to a case where sale was complete before new Code. [2] Sections 68 to 72 do not apply to decrees passed by revenue Court. (Vol 29) 1942 All 257 (258) : I L R (1942) All 237.

[12] Notification under S. 68 by Punjab Government, No. 365-R (Revenue Department) dated 17th January 1939 applies even to pending execution proceedings in which order for sale has been passed. (Vol 27) 1940 Lah 345 (346).

[2] Collector has no authority to represent that temporary alienation is objectionable—It is for the Court to decide whether such objection should be maintained even if taken by Collector. (Vol 22) 1935 Pesh 113 (114).

[3] Collector is not authorized to suggest satisfaction by transfer of judgment-debtor's debt or mortgagee rights — Collector also cannot compel decree-holder to take lease of judgment-debtor's land at valuation fixed by Collector. (Vol 23) 1936 Pesh 14 (15).

[4] Decree sent for execution to Collector — Collector reporting his inability to act — Executing Court should not file execution application but should proceed with the execution. (Vol 13) 1926 Lah 682 (682) : 27 Cri L Jour 1023.

3. Discretion of Court.—[1] It is within the discretion of the Court to accept or decline to accept a representation made by the Collector under the section. (Vol 7) 1920 Lah 456 (457) : 1 Lah 199 (F B) & (1883) 9 Cal 290 (293, 294, 295). (Court is bound to hear objections of decree-holder to scheme proposed by Collector and any evidence that may be offered in support of those objections.) & (Vol 5) 1918 Lah 361 (362).

[2] Where a District Judge, executing a decree for sale of land, orders its sale, he is not bound to accept the recommendation of a Sub-divisional Officer to the Collector to arrange to have the decree satisfied by a temporary alienation. (Vol 2) 1915 Lah 197 (198).

[3] More than one execution application pending — Collector representing that public sale of property under attachment was objectionable — Procedure indicated. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 964 (965).

1. Appeal. — [1] An order passed under S. 73 is not an appealable order. (Court proceeding to determine matter under S. 73 — Order not in accordance with S. 73 — Still order is not appealable.) * (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 437 (437) * (Vol 8) 1921 Pat 401 (402) * (Vol 23) 1936 Pesh 52 (53).

[2] Rateable distribution order if it decides question covered by S. 47 is appealable. (Vol 11) 1924 Cal 801 (805) : 51 Cal 761 * (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 20 (21, 22) : 39 Mad 570 * (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 350 (351).

[3] Order ostensibly one under S. 73 but as a fact deciding matter under S. 47 (1) — Appeal lies. (Vol 14) 1927 Lah 100 (101) * (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 302 (303).

[4] Decree-holder attaching certain fund as payable to judgment-debtor — Court deciding that fund was not attachable by these decree-holders — Order is one under S. 47 and appeal lies. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 1322 (1324).

[5] When decision under S. 73 is in respect of invalidity of execution or non-liability of fund for distribution such decision is virtually under S. 47 between particular decree-holder and judgment-debtor and as such appeal lies. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 1322 (1323).

[6] Order under S. 73 determining question of rateable distribution between rival decree-holders in which judgment-debtor has no interest does not fall under S. 47 and is not appealable. [7] Order refusing to execute order granting rateable distribution is appealable. (Vol 18) 1931 Pat 359 (360) : 10 Pat 830.

2. Applicability, scope and object. — [1] The object of the section is to prevent multiplicity of execution proceedings while at the same time ensuring equitable distribution of assets between various decree-holders who had the right to have their decrees satisfied out of those assets. (Vol 28) 1941 All 110 (111) : I L R (1941) All 77 (FB) * (1901) 23 All 106 (110) * (Vol 32) 1945 Bom 76 (77) * (Vol 11) 1924 Cal 801 (805) * (1883) 9 Cal 920 (922) (F B) * (1910) 13 Oudh Cas 291 (292).

[2] Section 73 is not designed to enlarge in any way the rights of decree-holders or place at their disposal the proceeds of property which they could not have themselves attached. (1901) 23 All 106 (110) * (Vol 23) 1941 All 110 (115) : I L R (1941) All 77 (F B) * (Vol 32) 1945 Bom 76 (77) * (1880) 4 Bom 429 (432).

[3] Rateable distribution is not matter of equity but should be dealt with under S. 73. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 426 (427) : 58 Mad 59 * (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 957 (958).

[4] Section 73 does not apply to an attorney's lien. (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 542 (551) : 51 Bom 855.

[5] An order under S. 73 for rateable distribution of assets affects only interests existing at the time. (1900) 27 Cal 351 (353).

[6] Section 73 applies even when execution is transferred to Collector. (Vol 20) 1933 All 666 (668).

[7] Order under S. 186, Companies Act—Application for its execution ranks as application for execution of decree and S. 73 applies. (Vol 32) 1945 P C 60 (61) : 72 Ind App 85 : 20 Luck 162 : I L R (1945) Kar P C 148 (P C). ((Vol 27) 1940 Oudh 237 : 15 Luck 332 reversed.)

[8] Section 44, Evidence Act, has no application to proceedings under S. 73. (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 290 (295) : 62 Cal 715 (FB).

[9] Section 60 as amended in 1937 does not affect S. 73 — Section 60 proviso protects certain judgment-debtors and does not give one decree-holder priority over other — A obtaining decree against B in 1936 and attaching Rs. 60 out of his salary of Rs. 180 — C obtaining decree against B in 1938 and applying under S. 73 — C held entitled to rateable distribution out of Rs. 60. (Vol 28) 1941 Nag 239 (240, 241) * (Vol 25) 1938 Sind 144 (145).

[10] The right of the decree-holder against the judgment-debtor under S. 73 are controlled by S. 60 (i) — Attachment of salary of public officer by one decree-holder — Subsequent decree-holder who could not attach the salary in view of amended S. 60 (i) held not entitled to rateable distribution. (Vol 32) 1945 Bom 76 (77, 78).

[11] Section 63 is exception to S. 73 — Property under attachment of more Courts than one — Right of rateable distribution arises on satisfaction of conditions under S. 73. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 797 (798) : 59 Mad 1028 * (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 559 (560).

[12] Property in possession of receiver—Application under S. 73—No leave of Court is necessary as the same will not amount to a disturbance of possession of Court through its officer. (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 622 (624).

3. Appropriation of amount on rateable distribution. — [1] Decree-holder receiving money as result of rateable distribution cannot appropriate it in any way he likes—What he receives goes towards payment of every rupee of his debt if one, or equally towards debts, if more than one. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 268 (269) : I L R (1939) Mad 301.

4. Essentials under section. — [1] The essential conditions for the applicability of the section are :—(i) there must be assets held by Court; (ii) Decrees must be against the same judgment-debtor for the payment of money; (iii) The decree-holder must not have obtained satisfaction and he must have made application for execution of his decree to the Court before the receipt of assets. (Vol 19) 1932 All 411 (413) : 54 All 516 * (1905) 27 All 132 (135) * (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 264 (265) * (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 512 (512).

[2] Notice of an application for rateable distribution should go to the rival decree-holders whose interests may be affected thereby. (1910) 13 Oudh Cas 282 (284).

5. "And have not obtained satisfaction thereof." — [1] Application for rateable distribution — Sale of properties of other judgment-debtor confirmed and proceeds available to decree-holder before order allowing rateable distribution—Decree must be treated as satisfied to extent of proceeds realized. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 426 (427, 428) : 58 Mad 59.

6. Applicant attaching before judgment. — [1] A plaintiff attaching before judgment has not by reason merely of such attachment or process incidental thereto any right to be treated preferentially to others. (1906) 33 Cal 639 (643) * (Vol 2) 1915 All 275 (276, 277) : 37 All 575. (Confers no right of priority.) * (Vol 21) 1934 Cal 559 (560). (Attachment before preliminary decree in administration suit—Attaching creditor is not entitled to priority.)

[2] Assets held by Court — Right to rateable distribution does not arise notwithstanding attachment before judgment where decree is not obtained prior to realization of assets. (Vol 11) 1924 Lah 70 (70) * (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 545 (547) * (Vol 18) 1931 Mad 570 (571). (Potential decree-holders have no right to rateable distribution.)

[3] Section 73 can be availed of only by decree-holder making application for execution of decree — Attachment before judgment does not become attachment in execution and does not confer right to rateable distribution without application for execution—Sections 63 and 64 do not indicate that Court should suo motu ascertain claimants to particular sum and divide it among persons entitled to share. (Vol 28) 1941 Mad 125 (126) * (1888) 12 Bom 400 (406, 407) * (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 692 (692) * (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 20 (21) : 1938 Rang L R 565.

[4] An attachment before judgment cannot by itself give a simple creditor priority over a mortgagee nor can the former get any benefit under S. 73 when not only is there no application by him for the execution of the decree but the money is realised before attachment. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 692 (692).

[5] As between two attaching decree-holders one executing his own decree and the other executing the attached decree, the one who has applied for execution of the attached decree is entitled to rateable distribution since in effect he is executing his own decree. (1918) 1918 Mad W N 1021 (1021, 1022).

[6] Section 73 does not include an application for rateable distribution by an attaching creditor of the judgment-creditor in a suit. (1909) 5 Mad L Tim 126 (126).

7. Application before receipt of assets. —

[1] To claim rateable distribution under S. 73 the decree-holder must have applied for execution before receipt of assets by the Court. Any application made after that would be barred by S. 73. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 196 (196) * (Vol 23) 1936 All 626 (628). (Application by A for rateable distribution a few minutes after receipt of assets by Court — A cannot claim rateable distribution.) * (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 252 (254) * (Vol 4) 1917 Cal 740 (743, 744) : 44 Cal 789. (Claims must be put before receipt of assets whether by treasury or agent.) * (1921) 62 Ind Cas 857 (859) (Cal) * (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 645 (647) * (Vol 5) 1918 Lah 75 (76) : 1918 Pun Re No. 33 * (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 91 (92) : 59 Mad 303. (A defective application for rateable distribution made before the receipt of assets—Application returned and re-presented after the receipt of assets—Rateable distribution allowed as the first application was before the receipt of assets.)

[2] Attachment of property after judgment is not sufficient to share in the rateable distribution, but a formal application for execution is necessary before the assets come into Court's possession. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 249 (250).

[3] Section 73 does not apply where no execution applications were made before the receipt of assets but only attachments before judgments had been effected. (1909) 13 Cal W N 1177 (1179) * (Vol 3) 1916 Cal 371 (371, 372).

[4] Application for rateable distribution made on very day on which sale proceeds deposited in Court—No presumption as to priority of application arises—Court must find as a fact whether application is made

[6] Where the parties are not entitled to claim rateable distribution under S. 73 by reason of the fact that none has applied for execution before the date of receipt of assets, to the Court having the custody of the assets, but all the same have made attachments, the attachment does not create any lien in favour of any of them but the Court holding the assets can divide the same amongst all of them pro rata on general principles. (Vol 23) 1936 Cal 390 (391).

[7] An application to the superior Court to transfer an execution case to itself from an inferior Court is not an application for execution to the superior Court within S. 73. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 87 (89).

[8] Subordinate Judge holding assets—Decree-holder applying for execution to Munsiff—Subordinate Judge calling for execution records on application—There is no transfer of execution case. (Vol 14) 1927 Pat 252 (253).

[9] Where property is sold in execution of a decree, the assets must be deemed to be received not on the date when 25 per cent. of purchase-money is deposited but on the date when the balance of the purchase-money is paid. (1891) 18 Cal 242 (245) * (1911) 14 Cal L Jour 50 (52). (Till the whole purchase-money is deposited in Court a decree-holder can apply for execution and rateable distribution under S. 73.) * (1903) 26 Mad 179 (180, 181). (Realisation of part of the assets is not realisation of whole of the assets and therefore application filed after realisation of part of the assets but before realisation of whole of the assets can be entertained under S. 73.) * (1912) 35 Mad 588 (589) * (Vol 13) 1926 Nag 380 (383). (Receipt must be of the whole assets.)

[10] Assets realized by sale of immovable property—Application must be made before date of sale. (Vol 4) 1917 Cal 13 (17) : 44 Cal 1072 * (Vol 24) 1937 Cal 55 (56.) * (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 893 (895) : 59 Mad 342 * (Vol 8) 1921 Pat 401 (402) : 5 Pat L Jour 415. (Application for rateable distribution made when sale is going on is maintainable.)

[11] Decree-holder purchasing property in execution of his decree and setting off sale proceeds against his decree, obtaining exemption from payment of 25 per cent.—Assets are received by Court on date when sale is confirmed—Applications for rateable distribution presented before that date are within time. (Vol 23) 1936 Pesh 164 (166).

[12] Unauthorised sale by receiver subsequently ratified by Court—Assets held were received when price was paid into Court after ratification and not the date on which it was received by the Court. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 826 (827, 828).

[14] Decree sent to Collector for execution—Execution sale by Collector—Assets will be deemed to be received by Court when the whole of the purchase-money is paid to the Collector. (Vol 7) 1920 Bom 35 (37) * (Vol 25) 1938 Nag 14 (16) : I L R (1939) Nag 285.

[15] Order by superior Court to transfer sale proceeds realized by inferior Court to itself—Assets are deemed to be received within S. 73 when they are actually received by the superior Court. (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 247 (250).

[17] Fund belonging to defendant attached before judgment and deposited in Court to credit of suit—Fund does not become assets until plaintiff, after getting decree, applies for execution and the same is ordered by Court—Date of receipt is date of order—Other creditors taking out execution before such receipt are entitled to rateable distribution. (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 505 (507) : 46 Mad 506 (F B).

[18] Where a fund belonging to the defendant is attached before judgment and is lying in Court to the credit of a suit other than the one in which it is attached it does not become assets until it is transferred to the credit of the suit in which it is attached. The date of receipt of assets is the date of the transfer. (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 505 (507) : 46 Mad 506 (F B) * (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 405 (407, 408, 409) * (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 4 (11) * (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 218 (222, 223) : 44 Mad 100 (F B). (Dissenting from (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 66 : 42 Mad 692.) * (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 481 (483). (Mere attachment of fund does not effect a transfer of the money to the credit of the suit in which it is attached.) * (Vol 15) 1928 Sind 165 (166) : 22 Sind L R 345. (Money realized in another suit attached under O. 21, R. 52 but not transferred to the creditor's account—The money is not assets realized in execution.)

[19] Distribution of money amongst attaching creditors—Money standing to credit of one suit—Application for transfer of sum to be made in suit to whose credit money stands for transfer. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 788 (789).

[20] Where the executing Court and the custody Court are the same, realisation of assets takes place when the Court as the custody Court passes an order transferring the amount standing to the credit of one suit to the credit of the decree under execution. Even if there is no formal order of transfer money is impliedly transferred by the custody Court to the credit of the decree in which payment out is ordered when the Court as executing Court makes an order calling for the money. (Vol 32) 1945 Mad 412 (415, 416, 419, 420).

[21] Custody Court holding money under O. 21, R. 52 ceasing to be custody Court and becoming execution Court by reason of execution applications—It can award rateable distribution under S. 73. (Vol 27) 1940 Oudh 237 (240) : 15 Luck 332.

[22] Custody Court under O. 21, R. 52 has no power to make rateable distribution, unless it happens to be the attaching Court as well. (Vol 20) 1933 Cal 814 (814, 815).

[23] Judgment-debtor having money in Court to his credit, such money not being proceeds of execution—Attachment of such amount—Subsequent attachment by another decree-holder and application for rateable distribution—When order for attachment is made, there is receipt of assets and is effective even though there is no book entry transferring such money. (Vol 22) 1935 Pat 201 (204).

[24] Decree-holder allowed to purchase property under O. 21, R. 72 (2) must share proceeds rateably with other decree-holders. Set off of purchase-money against decretal amount cannot be allowed to him. (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 252 (254).

[25] Money-decree against one judgment-debtor obtained by A, B and C—Judgment-debtor's funds attached by A by means of prohibitory order—Afterwards same funds attached by B in execution—Funds paid in Court—Same day C attached them as amount due in Court's custody. Held that A and B were entitled to rateable distribution but not C. (1896) 19 Mad 72 (74).

[26] Order 21, R. 72 is awkwardly expressed, but it must be read with S. 73 ; and to give effect to both, it must be held that the receipt can only be accepted for so much of the judgment-debt as the assets applicable to its discharge may suffice to satisfy. (1892) 5 Mad 123 (124).

8. Application to Court holding assets.—[1] Application for execution is essential before a claim for rateable distribution can be made. (Vol 12) 1925 Nag 382 (383) * (1905) 27 All 132 (135). (It is not necessary that decree-holder at whose instance assets have been realised must have knowledge of application by other decree-holders for rateable distribution.) * (Vol 19) 1932 Bom 622 (624). (Bombay High Court Rules (Original Side), Rr. 318 and 325—Entry in negative register—Applicant is entitled to rateable distribution.) * (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 788 (789). (Application for rateable distribution on original side of High Court—Practice—Certificates of Accountant-General and Registrar necessary.) * (1899) 26 Cal 772 (777, 778). (Appointment by Court of a Receiver is a process of execution enforced by Court at the instance of judgment-creditor.) * (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 703 (704) : 52 Mad 760. (Substantial compliance with O. 21, R. 11 is sufficient for purposes of S. 73.) * (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 179 (180). (Execution application need not be such as to end successfully.) * (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 587 (587). (Rateable distribution applied for after realization of assets but execution of decree applied for before—Application cannot be rejected.) * (Vol 16) 1929 Nag 148 (150) : 25 Nag L R 94. (Rateable distribution is not a form of execution.) * (Vol 20) 1933 Oudh 75 (76). (Application under S. 73 is not application for execution—It must be amended under O. 21, R. 17 to proceed in execution.) * (Vol 27) 1940 Rang 201 (202) : 1940 Rang L R 421. (Court has no inherent power to order rateable distribution in absence of application for execution.) * (Vol 17) 1930 Rang 342 (344) : 8 Rang 294. (Letter by Collector to Judge for money due under decree is not sufficient.) * (Vol 18) 1926 Sind 177 (177) : 20 Sind L R 111. (Transfer of decrees to the Court having custody of attached property and application under O. 21, R. 11 before realization of assets are necessary before distribution can be claimed.)

[2] An application which does not comply with requirements of O. 21, R. 11 in form and substance is not an application for execution within S. 73. (1911) 34 Mad 25 (27).

[3] A creditor claiming rateable distribution must himself ask for execution of his decree by one of the modes specified in O. 21, R. 11. Application which does not specify the way in which assistance of the Court is sought is not one for execution according to law. (Vol 16) 1929 Nag 148 (150) : 25 Nag L R 94.

[4] Formal application for rateable distribution is not necessary—Only execution application must have been made. (Vol 21) 1934 All 1057 (1063) * (Vol 20) 1933 All 337 (338) * (1937) 1937 Mad W N 480 (486).

[5] A decree-holder applying for execution need not apply for the attachment of the assets also. Decree-holders who attach the surplus sale proceeds subsequent to the realisation of the assets are not entitled to any share in the assets. (1909) 9 Cal L Jour 210 (214) * (Vol 18) 1931 All 92 (94) : 53 All 125. (Especially where property is attached and brought to sale under another decree.) * (1881) 7 Cal 34 (38).

Where the Court is satisfied that the holder of a decree for the possession of immoveable property or that the purchaser of immoveable property sold in execution of a decree has been resisted or obstructed in obtaining possession of the property by the judgment-debtor or some person on his behalf and that such resistance or obstruction was without any just cause, the Court may, at the instance of the decree-holder or purchaser, order the judgment-debtor or such other person to be detained in the civil prison for a term which may extend to thirty days and may further direct that the decree-holder or purchaser be put into possession of the property.

Objects and Reasons.

"Clause 81.—The Committee thinks that the same measure of protection should be afforded to the defendant where Government undertakes the defence as where the Government makes no application for the

SECTION 83—SYNOPSIS.

1. Alien enemy.

2. Scope.

1. Alien enemy.—[1] No nationality but place of residence or place of business is test — Permanent residence is not necessary — Residence for substantial period in hostile country is sufficient unless it is with consent of Crown. (Vol 7) 1920 Lah 4 (6) : 1 Lah 276.

[2] The mere fact that a person has been interned by the Government of India does not make that person alien enemy. (Vol 31) 1944 All 97 (100) : 1 L R (1944) All 118.

[3] Plaintiff going to Federated Malay States in 1941 — Malay States occupied by Japan — Plaintiff held not alien enemy — Neither S. 83 nor Defence of India Act held applicable. (Vol 30) 1943 Mad 743 (748).

2. Scope.—[1] An alien enemy who has been licensed to trade in British India has a right to bring suits in Indian Courts. (Vol 2) 1915 Low Bur 33 (34).

[2] Enemy subjects permitted to remain in British India are not alien enemies and can sue. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 1294 (1295).

[3] If one of the partners in a firm is an alien enemy, neither he nor his partner who does not bear an enemy character can recover money owing to the firm in the English Courts. (Vol 7) 1920 Lah 4 (6) : 1 Lah 276.

[4] Firm in Singapore consisting of partners, who were British Indian Subjects residing at Madras — Outbreak of war with Japan — Contract in Madras — Parties residents of Madras — Money payable at Madras — Suit by firm at Madras for return of money paid under contract — Partners held could not be said to be alien enemies — Order of return would not also offend Defence of India Rules. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 239 (242) : 1 L R (1944) Mad 124.

[5] Suit by alien enemy — Application for service of summons in foreign enemy country is maintainable. (Vol 4) 1917 All 374 (375) : 39 All 377.

[6] Whether the cause of action arose before or after war, an alien enemy can be sued in British Indian Courts and would have every right to prosecute his case before the Courts in accordance with the laws of procedure, and it makes no difference that he was interned at the time. (Vol 4) 1917 Cal 838 (841) : 43 Cal 1140 & (Vol 31) 1944 All 97 (101) : 1 L R (1944) All 118 & (Vol 1) 1914 Sind 107 (108) : 8 Sind L R 329. (Decree against alien enemy is effective against his property subject to any rights of Crown.)

[7] Foreign country must be at war with Great Britain — Residence or carrying on business in any other foreign territory does not disqualify person from suing in British Indian Courts. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 239 (241) : 1 L R (1944) Mad 124.

When foreign States may sue. 84. (1) A foreign State may sue in any Court of British India:

Provided that such State has been recognized by His Majesty or by the ^a[Central Government]:

Provided, also, that the object of the suit is to enforce a private right vested in the head of such State or in any officer of such State in his public capacity.

(2) Every Court shall take judicial notice of the fact that a foreign State has or has not been recognized by His Majesty or by the ^a[Central Government].

[1882—S. 431, cl. (b); 1877—S. 431.]

[a] Substituted by A. O. for "Governor-General in Council".

85. (1) Persons specially appointed by order of the Government at the request of any Sovereign Prince or Ruling Chief, whether in subordinate alliance with the British Government or otherwise, and whether residing within or without British India, or at the request of any person competent, in the opinion of the Government, to act on behalf of such Prince or Chief, to prosecute or defend any suit on his behalf, shall be deemed to be the recognized agents by whom appearances, acts and applications under this Code may be made or done on behalf of such Prince or Chief.

^a[Explanation. — For the purposes of this sub-section the expression "the Government" means —

(a) in the case of any Indian State, the Crown Representative; and

(b) in any other case, the Central Government.]

(2) An appointment under this section may be made for the purpose of specified suit or of several specified suits, or for the purpose of all such suits as it may from time to time be necessary to prosecute or defend on behalf of the Prince or Chief.

(3) A person appointed under this section may authorize or appoint persons to make appearances and applications and do acts in any such suit or suits as if he were himself a party thereto.

[1882—S. 432; 1877—Ss. 37, 38, 417 and 432; 1859—S. 17. See O. 3.]

[8] Government prevailing temporarily in enemy occupied territory not recognised by Great Britain is not Government at war within S. 83. (Vol 31) 1944 Mad 239 (241) : I L R (1944) Mad 124.

[9] It is not all contracts whatever, but only all dealings of a commercial nature between hostile aliens that are tainted with illegality. A contract whose tendency is to increase the enemy's resources is prohibited, but not an agreement for payment of money from funds accruing there. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 1294 (1295).

[10] Lease granted by enemy on behalf of non-enemy subject as agent can be enforced. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 1294 (1295).

[1] Gadwal Samasthanam is in no sense a Sovereign State or foreign State for the purpose of S. 84. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 1004 (1006) : 53 Mad 968. (Characteristic of 'foreign State' stated.)

[2] The 'private rights' spoken of in S. 84 do not mean individual rights as opposed to those of the body politic or State but those private rights of the State which must be enforced in a Court of justice as distinguished from its political or territorial rights which must, from their very nature, be made the subject of arrangement between one State and another. (1885) 11 Cal 17 (24).

Section 85 — Note 1

[1] Provisions of S. 85 merely enable Prince or Chief to institute suits through agent specially authorized. (Vol 27) 1940 Bom 172 (177) : I L R (1940) Bom 225.

[2] Section 85 does not prevent the institution of a suit by an independent Prince in his own name or through a recognised agent other than one appointed under that section. (1897) 19 All 510 (513) * (1884) 10 Cal 136 (137).

[3] Provisions of S. 85 must be strictly observed — Suit on behalf of Indian State filed by dastardar not authorized agent under O. 3, R. 2 and without authority required by S. 85 — Suit being defective must be dismissed — Subsequent authority under S. 85 obtained after presentation of appeal upon dismissal of suit cannot cure defect. (Vol 27) 1940 Bom 172 (177) : I L R (1940) Bom 225.

[5] The Rajah of Tipperah is a Sovereign Prince. (1888) 9 Cal 535 (552).

[7] Though S. 85 (3) does not require that a person appointed under this section should authorise or appoint persons to make appearances by any writing, still it implies necessarily an active appointment. (Vol 27) 1940 Bom 172 (179, 180) : I L R (1940) Bom 225.

[8] Order of 1935 appointing agent to prosecute or defend suits on behalf of Native States unless revoked is valid even after the Government of India (Adaptation of Indian Laws) Order, 1937. (Vol 26) 1939 Lah 279 (279, 280).

[9] Person appointed to prosecute or institute suit in British Indian Court on behalf of State has locus standi to continue or file suit. (Vol 20) 1933 Lah 456 (458).

[10] The recognised agent can sign and verify the plaint. He can do so even before his appointment under this section provided that the appointment is made before the period of limitation for the suit has expired. (1903) 25 All 635 (638).

86. (1) Any such Prince or chief, and any ambassador or envoy of a foreign State, may, Suits against Princes, Chiefs, ambassadors and envoys. [in the case of the Ruling Chief of an Indian State with the consent of the Crown Representative, certified by the signature of the Political Secretary, and in any other case with the consent of the Central Government, certified by the signature of a Secretary to that Government], but not without such consent, be sued in any competent Court.

(2) Such consent may be given with respect to a specified suit or to several specified suits, or with respect to all suits of any specified class or classes, and may specify, in the case of any suit or class of suits, the Court in which the Prince, Chief, ambassador or envoy may be sued; but it shall not be given unless it appears to ^b[the consenting authority] that the Prince, Chief, ambassador or envoy —

(a) has instituted a suit in the Court against the person desiring to sue him, or

(b) by himself or another trades within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court, or

(c) is in possession of immoveable property situate within those limits and is to be sued with reference to such property or for money charged thereon.

SECTION 86 — SYNOPSIS.

1. Applicability and scope.
2. Consent.
3. Sub-section (2) cl. (c).
4. Sub-section (5).
5. Suit against Sovereign Prince or Ruling Chief.

1. Applicability and scope. — [1] Section 86 is exhaustive and lays down the cases where a Prince or Ruling Chief can be brought on record whether he is suing or sued as such or in any other capacity. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 308 (309) : 38 Mad 635.

[2] Section 86 applies to "suits" and not to insolvency proceedings; within meaning of S. 141. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 244 (245, 249) : I L R (1940) 1 Cal 344.

[4] Section 86 does not apply to proceedings under S. 184, but applies to Ss. 186 and 187, Companies Act. (Vol 23) 1936 All 826 (827) : 58 All 742 (FB).

[5] The provisions of S. 86, Civil P. C. do not apply to a defence put forward by way of set-off. Such a defence can be put forward in answer to a claim by a Ruling Chief without the consent of the Governor-General. (1921) 62 Ind Cas 778 (778, 779) (Lah).

[6] The provisions contained in Ss. 86 and 87 are imperative and the privilege of provisions cannot be waived. (Vol 25) 1938 P C 165 (169) : 65 Ind App 182; I L R (1938) All 601 : 32 Sind L R 531 (C) (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 244 (248) : I L R (1940) 1 Cal 344. (Immunity arising under S. 86 cannot be waived.)

[7] Limitation Act, Section 13, must be read consistently with provisions in Part IV, Civil P. C.—Chiefs of foreign States can be held to reside in British India in so far as they actually carry on their business through representatives in British India. (Vol 16) 1929 Bom 14 (20) : 53 Bom 12.

2. Consent.—[1] Section 86 requires the fulfilment of one or other of the three conditions specified therein to the satisfaction of the Crown Representative. That is not a matter to be established by Court. A certificate granted by the Crown Representative would be binding on the Court unless on the face of the certificate it appeared that the Crown Representative did not appear to be satisfied about the existence of one of the conditions. (Vol 32) 1945 Bom 187 (193, 194) (Vol 22) 1935 Oudh 164 (164, 165) (Court cannot question propriety of order of refusal of consent).

tion of a suit. A consent obtained after the institution of a suit will violate the section and will not validate the suit. (1897) 21 Bom 351 (365) (1909) 1909 Pun Re No. 21 page 45 (46).

[3] Suit against Ruling Prince—Consent under S. 86 (2) is to be given to "specified suit" and not to particular plaintiff. (Vol 32) 1945 Bom 187 (189).

[4] Ruling Chief whether as principal or pro forma defendant—Consent is necessary. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 445 (446).

[5] Defendant becoming Ruling Prince subsequent to filing of suit — Section 86 applies and suit cannot be continued without sanction. But if defendant acquiesces in continuance of suit, he will be debarred from questioning jurisdiction afterwards. (Vol 8) 1921 Pat 23 (24) : 6 Pat L Jour 185.

[6] Declaratory suit against Ruling Chief with consent of Governor-General—Plaint amended by adding prayer for possession—Consent for suit for recovery of possession subsequently obtained. Held that it would be safer for the plaintiff to withdraw the whole suit and file a fresh suit for possession. (1913) 17 Cal W N 1242 (1244, 1245).

3. Sub-section (2), Cl. (c).—[1] A suit for maintenance or for maintenance coupled with a creation of a charge therefor on certain properties is not a suit for 'money charged' on those properties within the meaning of Cl. (c) of the section. (1883) 9 Cal 535 (555).

[2] Word "property" includes public property only and therefore section will not apply unless the suit relates to the public property of the foreign State. (Vol 27) 1940 Cal 244 (247) : I L R (1940) 1 Cal 344.

4. Sub-section (5).—[1] Sub-section (5) is entirely distinct from sub-s. (3) — Sub-s. (5) refers to suit and does not dispense with consent required under sub-s. (3) for execution against Ruling Chief. (Vol 22) 1935 Cal 664 (665)

[2] Plaintiff holding lands of defendant, Ruling Chief, for which he paid no rent—Defendant applying for resumption and Court assessing rent—Suit for declaration that plaintiff held heritable right to remain in possession without payment of rent is not by plaintiff as tenant of immovable property within the meaning of sub-s. (5) and should be dismissed if no consent of Governor-General in Council is obtained. (Vol 7) 1920 Oudh 203 (204).

5. Suit against Sovereign Prince or Ruling Chief. — [1] No suit can be maintained against a Ruling Chief without the consent of Governor-General in Council. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 835 (835) : 39 Mad 661 (Vol 1) 1914 All 493 (494). (Raja of Tipperah s a Ruling Chief.) (Vol 6) 1919 Bom 122 (126). (The Kurund-

(3) No such Prince, Chief, ambassador or envoy shall be arrested under this Code, and, except with [such consent as is mentioned in sub-section (1)], certified as aforesaid, no decree shall be executed against the property of any such Prince, Chief, ambassador or envoy.

^d[(4) The Central Government or the Crown Representative, as the case may be, may by notification in the Gazette of India authorise a Provincial Government and any Secretary to that Government to exercise with respect to any Prince, Chief, ambassador or envoy named in the notification the functions assigned by the foregoing sub-sections to the consenting authority and a certifying officer respectively.]

(5) A person may, as a tenant of immoveable property, sue, without such consent as is mentioned in this section, a Prince, Chief, ambassador or envoy from whom he holds or claims to hold the property.

87. A Sovereign Prince or Ruling Chief may sue, and shall be sued, in the name of his State :

Provided that in giving the consent referred to in the foregoing section ^a[the Central Government, the Crown Representative or the Provincial Government], as the case may be, may direct that any such Prince or Chief shall be sued in the name of an agent or in any other name.

INTERPLEADER

88. Where two or more persons claim adversely to one another the same debt, sum of money or other property, moveable or immoveable, from another person, who claims no interest therein other than for charges or costs and who is ready to pay or deliver it to the rightful claimant, such other person may institute a suit of interpleader against all the claimants for the purpose of obtaining a decision as to the person to whom the payment or delivery shall be made and of obtaining indemnity for himself :

Provided that where any suit is pending in which the rights of all parties can properly be decided, no such suit of interpleader shall be instituted.

(1) In the case of a public nuisance the Advocate-General, or two or more persons having Public nuisances. obtained the consent in writing of the Advocate-General, may institute a suit, though no special damage has been caused, for a declaration and injunction or for such other relief as may be appropriate to the circumstances of the case.

(2) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to limit or otherwise affect any right of suit which may exist independently of its provisions.

[6] Defendants though arrayed on same side are deemed to have adverse interests and therefore a decision given on their claims will operate as res judicata as between them. (Vol 15) 1928 Oudh 155 (179, 181).

SECTION 91—SYNOPSIS.

1. Scope and applicability.
2. Public nuisance.
3. Special damage.
4. Declaration.
5. Consent of Advocate-General.
6. Sub-section (2).

1. Scope and applicability.—[1] Section 91 is a provision for procedure. It does not purport to create a right which did not exist nor does it purport to deprive anybody of a right derived from the general law of the land. It is not a prohibitive section. (Vol 11) 1924 All 599 (603) : 46 All 470 & (Vol 21) 1934 All 941 (943).

[2] Section 91 is not controlled by Calcutta Municipal Act (1899), S. 366. (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 497 (497, 498).

[3] All members of the public suffering inconvenience or damage—Action by an individual will not lie except as indicated by S. 91—Real test is whether it is a public nuisance or not. (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 481 (482) : 16 Pat 190.

[5] Application of section depends on form of pleadings and relief claimed. (Vol 33) 1946 Nag 223 (230) : I L R (1946) Nag 246.

[7] The provisions of this section do not apply to Courts constituted under the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887, or under the Berar Small Cause Courts Law, 1905, see section 7 (b). For the exercise of powers of Advocate-General outside Presidency Towns, see section 93.

2. Public nuisance. — [1] For the definition of this term, see S. 3 (44), General Clauses Act, 1897.

[2] Definition of public nuisance as given in S. 268, Penal Code, applies to Civil P. C. (Vol 23) 1936 Oudh 154 (155).

[3] The essence of a public nuisance is that it causes damage, injury or annoyance to the public or the people in general. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 360 (361) : ILR (1942) 1 Cal 533.

[5] Obstruction which aims at preventing only a particular class from using the highway in a particular manner does not amount to public nuisance. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 360 (361) : I L R (1942) 1 Cal 533 & (Vol 26) 1939 All 586 (588) : I L R (1939) All 754.

[7] Suit for vindication of community's right to take out procession along certain route is not claim for removal of public nuisance under S. 91 (Vol 21) 1934 All 941 (943).

[8] An obstruction of a public thoroughfare is always a public nuisance, and where it is not legalised by law or contract it is indictable and gives a cause of action

92. (1) In the case of any alleged breach of any express or constructive trust created for public purposes of a charitable or religious nature, or where the direction of the Court is deemed necessary for the administration of any such trust, the Advocate-General, or two or more persons having an interest in the trust and having obtained the consent in writing of the Advocate-General, may institute a suit, whether contentious or not, in the principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction or in any other Court empowered in that behalf by the ^b[Provin.

[But see (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 449 (462, 465): 19 Pat 208. ("Public nuisance" in S. 91 includes obstruction to village pathways).]

[11] Lane open to public and serving as access to many houses—Encroachment in it amounts to public nuisance. (Vol 22) 1935 Pesh 190 (190).

[12] Right of immediate access to highway from adjoining property if infringed causes special damage to justify action. (Vol 11) 1924 All 715 (716):46 All 573.

[See also (Vol 22) 1935 All 789 (790). (Case of encroachment of private easement—Sanction of Advocate-General is not necessary.)]

[3] Doctrine of special damage based on principle of English common law that there can be no private action for public wrong applies to India—It is limited to cases regarding public rights in full sense and invasion of special rights—It does not apply to quasi-public rights such as village roads. (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 449 (463, 464): 19 Pat 208.

[4] Obstruction of a way without any special damage can afford no cause of action to a member of the public. (1912) 23 Mad L Jour 539 (541, 542) (8 All L Jour 19 not approved.)* (Vol 12) 1925 Bom 367 (368).

[7] Very great inconvenience constitutes special damage or a more particular form of nuisance suffered by plaintiff than by the general public. (Vol 11) 1924 All 599 (602): 46 All 470.

[But see (Vol 5) 1918 Nag 159 (159). (Special degree of inconvenience suffered by plaintiff cannot be said to cause him special damage.)]

[8] Road in front of plaintiff's house narrowed by encroachment—Special damage to plaintiff cannot be presumed. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 360 (367): I L R (1942) 1 Cal 533.

[9] Mere placing of obstruction in front of plaintiff's house which does not impede his coming in or going out from his house cannot be said to cause special damage to plaintiff. (Vol 28) 1941 Oudh 52 (54, 55): 16 Luck 173.

4. Declaration.—[1] No relief in respect of public nuisance but right of easement sought—No declaration as to public character of the place can be given. (Vol 10) 1923 Lah 546 (548).

5. Consent of Advocate-General.—[1] Permission of Advocate-General not taken—Objections not raised at early stage—Suit held maintainable. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 338 (339).

[2] Plea of want of sanction under S. 91 cannot be raised for the first time in appeal. (Vol 15) 1928 Nag 39 (40).

6. Sub-section (2).—Section 91 does not overrule O. 1, R. 8 and take away right of suit under O. 1, R. 8 even in case of public nuisance. (Vol 27) 1940 Pat 449 (462, 465): 19 Pat 208* (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 405 (406)* (Vol 12) 1925 Cal 1233 (1233).

18. Suit if can be instituted in forma pauperis.
19. Suit must be for reliefs specified.
 20. Clause (a)—Removing trustee.
 21. Clause (b)—Appointment of new trustee.
 22. Clause (c)—Vesting property.
 23. Clause (d)—Directing accounts.
 24. Clause (f)—Authorising alienation.
 25. Clause (g)—Settling scheme.
 26. Clause (h)—"Such further or other relief".
 27. Costs.
 28. Declarations.
29. Suit must be in representative capacity.
 30. "Two or more persons having an interest".
31. Trust must be for public purposes.
32. Valuation of suit.

1. Abatement of suit. — [1] A suit under S. 92 does not fail on the death of the parties who originally filed the suit. (Vol 8) 1921 P C 123 (124): 48 Cal 493: 48 I A 12: 17 Nag L R 37 (P O).

[2] The death of one of the plaintiffs who have obtained sanction in a scheme suit does not cause abatement of the suit. (Vol 5) 1918 Lah 146 (147): 1918 Pun Re No 97*(Vol 21) 1934 All 1 (1): 55 All 687*(Vol 12) 1925 Mad 244 (244).

[3] Death of some plaintiffs after institution of suit—Surviving plaintiff appellant competent to carry on appeal. (Vol 2) 1915 Oudh 181 (182).

[4] Leave obtained by some to file suit — Suit or appeal is not competent by some of them, if others are alive and have not concurred in presentation of suit or appeal. But suit or appeal filed by all does not abate on death of some. (Vol 22) 1935 Lah 251 (255): 16 Lah 782.

[5] Suit for removal of trustee for breach of trust and framing of scheme — Defendant dying pending suit —

Suit as regards scheme does not abate. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 162 (162, 163): 48 Mad 688.

[6] In suit under S. 92 if trustee defendant dies his successor-in-office can be brought on record especially when it is alleged that he had acted as agent of the last trustee and had contributed to mismanagement. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 318 (320).

2. Alleged breach of trust or direction of Court. — [1] To bring S. 92 into operation, there must be suit alleging breach of express or constructive trust for public purposes of a charitable or religious nature, or direction of Court must be necessary for administration of the trust. (Vol 18) 1931 Bom 33 (35, 36) * (Vol 29) 1942 Bom 125 (128): I L R (1942) Bom 293. (Suit by trustee against co-trustee alleging breach of trust.) * (Vol 6) 1919 Cal 179 (180). (A suit under O. 1, R. 8, by the worshipper to set aside an alienation of mosque property by the mutwalli is maintainable without sanction. The mere fact that the trustee was a defendant in the suit did not attract the application of S. 92, if no relief was claimed against him, or the Court was not asked to give any direction for the administration of the trust.) * (Vol 20) 1933 Mad 70 (71).

[2] When a Judge decides that there is no misfeasance, he cannot record a decision that the trust is public nor about costs as his power ends with the first decision. (Vol 3) 1916 Pat 306 (307).

[3] Neglect by trustee to take steps to save property from consequences of breach of trust by predecessor is breach of trust. (Vol 12) 1925 All 683 (685): 47 All 770.

[4] Breach of trust by archakas in respect of income of inam lands granted to temple—S. 92 applies. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 248 (249).

[5] Where a compromise decree in a suit for removal of trustees, accounts, etc., was attacked as fraudulent by a regular suit, held that the consent of the Advocate-General was necessary for such suit, as it involved an allegation of breach of trust, taking accounts, etc. (Vol 1) 1914 Low Bur 169 (171) : 7 Low Bur Rul 333.

[7] Settlor creating primary trust for benefit of members of family and secondary trust for charitable and religious purposes — Secondary trust to take effect only when there were no primary objects or when those objects did not exhaust whole income—Suit against trustee for breach of trust brought by beneficiaries under the primary trust held did not come under S. 92 (1). (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 254 (257, 258) : 1939 Rang L R 140.

[8] Trustee—Assertion of private ownership — Onus is heavily upon the trustee to show by the clearest and most unimpeachable evidence the legitimacy of his personal acquisition. (Vol 9) 1922 P C 325 (329) : 45 Mad 565 : 49 I A 237 (P C).

[9] Breach of express or constructive trust is not necessary for asking direction of Court. (Vol 21) 1934 Bom 26 (27). (Suit for declaration of ownership of share of income of public temples and to act as pujari and for loss having been deprived of such right falls within S. 92.)

[10] Expression "where the direction of the Court is deemed necessary for the administration of any such trust" must be interpreted as meaning "where the Court has to give direction in the nature of framing a scheme or otherwise for the administration of trust". (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 368 (369, 370) : 55 Cal 1284.

[11] A charity does not change its nature merely by a change of name; and further the change of name is not such a serious breach of trust as to justify the removal of the trustees. (Vol 31) 1944 P C 39 (41) : 71 I A 47 : I L R (1944) Kar P C 193 (P C).

[12] Sanction of the Advocate-General or District Judge is not necessary where individual persons claim as citizens, rights of worship or performing certain festivals in a temple. The case is one for direction that the officer in charge of the trust should perform the duties according to usual practice. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 868 (870).

*3. Analogous law.— [1] There is much which is common between S. 14, Religious Endowments Act, and this section. The latter is wider and provides inter alia for settling a scheme which is a jurisdiction of a very wide and beneficial nature. If a party elects to proceed under one Act, he is not prevented from so doing under the other. (Vol 5) 1918 Bom 134 (136, 137) : 42 Bom 742 * (Vol 1) 1914 Mad 593 (593, 594) : 37 Mad 184.

[2] Section 92 (2), Civil P. C., saves the special jurisdiction of the District Court under Religious Endowments Act, so that a person desiring to sue for removal of a trustee or for such other specific relief as can be given under that Act, can do so without complying with S. 92. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 1179 (1181).

[3] But a suit for removal of a trustee and for settling a scheme is governed by S. 92, Civil P. C., and not by the Religious Endowments Act. (1913) 24 Mad L Jour 658 (658, 659).

[4] Scheme can be made only under this section and not under S. 14, Religious Endowments Act. (Vol 12) 1925 Pat 544 (546) : 4 Pat 741.

[5] Sanction granted under the Religious Endowments Act can be utilised by another, but under S. 92, Civil P. C., the person obtaining sanction must be identical with the one instituting the suit. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 560 (561, 562) : 41 Mad 237.

[6] Religious Endowments Act (1863), S. 14 — Suit under S. 14 is representative suit — Death of any party does not cause abatement of suit. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 560 (562) : 41 Mad 237.

[7] Religious Endowments Act (1863), S. 18 and Civil P. C., S. 92 — Two remedies provided by sections are alternative. (Vol 21) 1934 Pat 443 (446).

[8] Prior suit under S. 5, Religious Endowments Act — Public not made parties — Second suit by public under S. 92, Civil P. C., is not barred. (Vol 8) 1921 Cal 425 (426).

[9] A suit in respect of religious endowments, which do not charge the trustee with misfeasance, breach of trust or neglect of duty is outside the scope of the Religious Endowments Act. It will fall within the scope of S. 92, Civil P. C. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 159 (160) : 42 Mad 668.

[10] Madras Hindu Religious Endowments Act (1927), S. 73 (2)—Cl. 2, S. 73 repeals S. 92, Civil P. C.— Clause is fatal to suits relating to trusts of religious endowments except as provided for by Act. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 855 (856).

[12] Suit for removal of trustee of kattalai does not lie either under S. 73, Madras Hindu Religious Endowments Act, or this section. (Vol 21) 1934 Mad 126 (127) : 57 Mad 362.

[13] Madras Hindu Religious Endowments Act (1911), S. 77—Endowments partly religious and partly secular —After allocation by Board such endowment is controlled by Act—Trusts before such allocation is governed by this section. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 216 (218).

[14] The Madras Hindu Religious Endowments Act, particularly S. 73, does not embrace any relief which could not formerly have been obtained under the procedure set out in this section. (Vol 19) 1932 Mad 234 (235) : 55 Mad 549.

[15] Madras Hindu Religious Endowments Act (2 [II] of 1927), S. 75 — Section 75 has no retrospective effect with regard to scheme settled under this section. (Vol 16) 1929 Mad 322 (322).

[17] Suit instituted on basis of S. 6, Charitable and Religious Trusts Act—District Judge can grant any reliefs under sub-s. (1) of this section. (Vol 17) 1930 All 582 (583) : 52 All 863.

[18] The requirements of the section cannot be evaded by asking for a bare declaration under the Specific Relief Act. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 1029 (1030) * (Vol 15) 1928 Rang 143 (143, 144) : 6 Rang 188.

4. Appeal. — [1] Orders merely for carrying out scheme are appealable. (Vol 25) 1933 Rang 363 (364).

[2] Provision in scheme for any application to amend the same — Order on such application is not appealable order as it is not in execution. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 559 (560) : 49 Mad 580.

[3] Application under scheme by worshippers to remove trustee on ground of misconduct—Order refusing to remove is not appealable — Fresh disposal can be directed under S. 115. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 427 (429).

[4] A clause in a scheme provided for an appeal from an order removing or appointing a trustee will not apply to an order declining to remove a trustee. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 927 (928).

Section 92 (contd.)

[6] Scheme of election of trustees framed by Court—Court reserving right to confirm them — Application for confirmation made and opposed — Order thereon is a decree and hence appealable. (Vol 15) 1928 Rang 168 (171) : 6 Rang 97 * (Vol 1) 1914 Low Bur 226 (228).

[7] Suit under S. 92 — New mahant appointed, scheme of management framed and committee appointed — In case of difficulty, doubt or disagreement with regard to any work connected with shrine or its property and for making alterations in scheme, mahant and committee given right to apply to District Judge in suit itself — Suit kept pending for aforesaid purpose — Application by mahant — District Judge interpreting scheme and deciding general questions concerning rights of parties before him and leaving some of points raised to be decided by parties themselves—Order does not fall under S. 47—Order held decree within S. 2, and hence appealable — Even assuming order to be not appealable, order held came within S. 115 (c) and hence was open to revision. (Vol 28) 1941 Cal 618 (621).

[8] Where a suit is brought by the Advocate-General, he is the proper party to appeal and not the relators as they were not a party to the suit. (1908) 32 Bom 155 (156).

[9] District Judge formulating scheme in pursuance of High Court's order — Person appointed as manager — Another person not party to original action has no locus standi to appeal from order of District Judge. (Vol 22) 1935 Pat 261 (263) : 14 Pat 236.

5. Applicability and scope.—[1] The provisions of this section do not apply to Courts constituted under the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887, or under the Berar Small Cause Courts Law, 1905; see Section 7 (b). For the exercise of powers of Advocate-General outside Presidency-towns, see Section 93.

[16] The Bombay High Court has held that where the plaint alleges that the alienee took the property from the trustee with full knowledge of its character as a public trust for religious purposes and that he has for some years paid part of the income to the trust the alienee is a necessary party as the question whether the alienee is a constructive trustee in virtue of the alienation and by reason of his conduct may arise. [20] A suit is not taken out of the scope of S. 92 because the defendant denies the trust and claims to be the owner of the property. (1911) 13 Bom L R 49 (53).

[21] Trust of charitable or religious nature — Suit lies for settling scheme — Heir-at-law is a proper party to the suit. (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 376 (377) : 46 Mad 300.

[23] In a suit under S. 92, the Court has power under O. 1, R. 10 to add parties for the effectual adjudication of those questions. A suit may be brought by the Advocate-General himself or by two worshippers to whom he has given his consent in writing to sue or by the Advocate-General in conjunction with those persons. The right of each to sue in his own name is not exclusive of the right of the other. (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 133 (133, 134) : 43 Mad 707.

[24] Appellate Court reversing trial Court's judgment holding that plaintiff had no interest within S. 92 — Advocate-General held should not be allowed to be impleaded as co-plaintiff at stage of appeal. (Vol 29) 1942 All 315 (319).

13. Res judicata. — [1] Decree under S. 92 binds all persons interested in the trust. (Vol 12) 1925 Mad 1070 (1071) (F B).

[2] The transferee of a wakf property who is made a party to a suit under this section is bound by decision in the suit and he is barred from going behind it, in a subsequent suit. (1911) 33 All 752 (756).

[3] Scheme suit under S. 92 — Previous suit fraudulently withdrawn does not operate as res judicata. (Vol 15) 1923 Mad 268 (271).

[4] Suit under S. 92 decided on 24th November 1930 — Collector's permission obtained — No sanction however obtained from Local Government — Subsequent Privy Council decision saying sanction from Local Government compulsory — Decision is not without jurisdiction and is res judicata. (Vol 22) 1935 Nag 28 (29).

[5] Even where a scheme has been settled under S. 92, a stranger may institute a suit for purpose of asserting a title which is paramount to the trust altogether. (Vol 33) 1946 All 148 (149) : 1 I L R (1946) All 107.

[6] Suit filed with sanction by seven plaintiffs, but amended without sanction — Stranger defendants and reliefs not covered by S. 92 added — Suit compromised by six plaintiffs — Held that the nature of the suit was changed, that it ceased to be one of representative character and the decree based on compromise however binding as against the consenting parties, did not bind the rest of the public. Section 11, Expl. VI, had no application to such a suit. (Vol 15) 1923 P C 16 (20) : 55 Ind App 96 : 55 Cal 519 (P O).

14. Retrospective effect. — [1] Amendments of 1889 and 1908 of S. 92 as it originally stood were intended to be retrospective. (Vol 29) 1942 Cal 343 (348) : 1 I L R (1942) 1 Cal 211.

[2] Section 92 (2) was enacted to settle the point if the provisions of the old S. 539 were directory or mandatory and so it operates retrospectively, especially when there is no saving of pending suits under the section. (1911) 5 Sind L R 184 (188, 190).

15. Revision. — [1] Order by District Judge, even with consent of parties to have decision from Sub-Judge on a point whether certain trust is or is not public trust — Order is revisable. (Vol 18) 1931 All 332 (332).

[2] Decision on one of issues in appealable case — High Court ought not to interfere unless particular point can be shortly and conveniently disposed of —

Decision on issue as to maintainability of suit under S. 92 — Held High Court could entertain revision. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 282 (283) : 58 Mad 771.

[3] The Chief Court cannot revise an order of a Collector granting permission under S. 92 to sue for removal of a mahant as such order is executive and in granting sanction, the Collector does not act as a Court. (1911) 1911 Pun L R No. 40 page 204 : 1910 Pun Re No. 104.

16. Scheme decree — Execution of. — There is a conflict of decisions on the question whether a scheme decree can be executed and the following views have been expressed.

[1] Orders in relation to a scheme already framed in a scheme suit are not orders in execution. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 1110 (1110).

[2] Scheme of management framed — No appeal lies in the matter of execution of the scheme but if order is without jurisdiction revision lies. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 659 (661).

[3] Scheme decree can be executable — Application to Court to enforce the executable part is one in execution and order thereon is appealable. (Vol 15) 1928 Mad 61 (64).

[4] Appointment of trustee under tentative scheme — He can only be removed by regular suit — Any order of removal is not one in execution and is not appealable. (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 799 (799).

[5] Scheme decree setting out conditions of management — No provision to remove manager on failure to perform conditions — Mismanagement by manager — Application for execution is not competent to remove manager. (Vol 24) 1937 Lah 490 (491).

[6] Decree for removal of old trustees — It is not only directory but executable — It can be executed independently of scheme framed. (Vol 31) 1944 Oudh 289 (290, 291) : 20 Luck 32.

[7] Scheme — Remedy not asked in suit but given in the scheme cannot be or need not be asked in execution and order thereon is not appealable under S. 47, Civil P. C. (Vol 11) 1924 Mad 369 (370, 371) : 47 Mad 139.

[8] When a decree directs a trustee of a Hindu temple to perform a festival, a Court has no jurisdiction to give certain directions for the same. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 549 (549).

[9] A decree which directs the delivery of trust property to new trustees is perfectly correct. Such decree is an executable one and not merely declaratory. (Vol 19) 1932 Mad 41 (44) : 54 Mad 345.

[10] Particular field in possession of defendants declared to be under trust and scheme framed — Plaintiffs can recover possession from defendants in execution. (Vol 13) 1926 Nag 326 (327).

[11] Scheme decree regarding constitution of temple, allowing arrears of pay and padithram expenses of archakas from date of suit to date of judgment — Such payments cannot form part of scheme and can be recovered by way of execution of decree — Amounts becoming due subsequent to decree cannot be recovered by execution. (Vol 24) 1937 Mad 326 (327).

[12] Scheme decree clause directing trustees to make payment to treasurer — Failure by trustees to make collections and payment — Proper remedy is not by appointment of receiver in execution but by a suit under S. 92. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 581 (583) : 59 Mad 751.

[13] Direction in scheme decree in regard to realisation of trust properties including certain amount as belonging to trust held not money decree and not executable. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 748 (750, 751).

[14] Where a decree provides for a scheme, the proper way of dealing with such decree is to separate scheme part from the rest of the decree and when that is done, no provision in the scheme part is executable,

[15] Temple scheme entrusting Subordinate Judge with appointment of trustees—Judge fixing certain date for hearing and on that day appointing certain persons as trustees—Other candidates applying for cancellation of order on ground that they were informed (by whom they could not tell) that petition was adjourned—Judge acts as a Court and not as a persona designata—Order held could not be cancelled under inherent jurisdiction. (Vol 26) 1939 Mad 969 (971).

[17] A scheme cannot be modified in execution proceedings. A separate suit will lie to modify the scheme or to clear doubtful points. (Vol 1) 1914 Low Bur 226 (228).

17. Section is mandatory—Sub-s. (2) —[1] The provisions of S. 92 are mandatory. It is not merely the right of the plaintiff that has to be looked to but also the nature of the relief which the plaintiff seeks and if the relief asked for is one which is specified in sub-s. (1) the direction laid down in the section must be obeyed. (Vol 6) 1919 All 203 (205). [2] When the District Judge exercises any of the powers vested in him under S. 92 without a suit, he acts without jurisdiction and the High Court in its revisional jurisdiction can set aside the order of the District Judge suspending a Mohunt on a mere report when there was no suit before him under S. 92. (Vol 5) 1918 All 218 (219).

18. Suit if can be instituted in forma pauperis.—[1] A suit under S. 92 cannot be instituted in forma pauperis. (1912) 15 Oudh Cas 202 (205, 206).

19. Suit must be for reliefs specified. —[1] It is only where the suit is for one or more of the reliefs in S. 92 (1) that it must be brought under that section. (The High Court has a large discretion in the matter of sanctioning a scheme for the management of a temple and of its funds.)

[2] A Court in framing a scheme must have regard to the existing rights of individuals to the trusteeship. But Courts are generally averse to the creation of a hereditary right to the office of a public trustee. (1912) 23 Mad L Jour 134 (141, 152).

[3] Court's jurisdiction to frame a scheme under S. 92, Civil P. (Vol 3) 1916 Mad 318 (320).

[20] The Court can provide that any person interested besides the trustee shall be at liberty to apply to the Court for directions to carry out the scheme. [3] Words “such further or other relief” do not imply some relief in addition to reliefs in Cls. (a) to (g)—Cls. (a) to (f) contemplate existence of trust whereas Cl. [2] Two persons referred to in S. 92 are two individuals and the fact that the two persons were father and son and members of a joint Hindu family would not convert them into one person. (Vol 31) 1944 All 1 (3) : 1 L R (1944) All 20.

[3] The "person" in S. 92 need not necessarily be sui juris. An infant may, through a properly represented next friend, bring a suit, if he is interested in the public charitable or religious trust. (1910) 6 Ind Cas 119 (119) (Cal).

[4] Where the object of suit is to secure certain advantages to a trust, any two persons can sue in that behalf with the sanction of the Advocate-General or the Collector of the district concerned. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 868 (870).

It is enough if they have interest in the trust. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 462 (464) : 50 Mad 726.

[8] The interest must be a clear or a present and substantial interest and not a remote, fictitious or purely illusory interest; it must be an existing interest and not a mere contingency. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 384 (396) : 42 Mad 360 (S B) * (Vol 29) 1942 All 315 (318). [9] Whether plaintiff has interest within S. 92—Each case must be considered on its own facts—It is dangerous to apply conclusions of decided cases—But it is useful to observe what principles have been applied: (Vol 29) 1942 All 315 (317) * (Vol 8) 1921 Mad 563 (564) * (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 384 (396) : 42 Mad 360 (S B) (Whether plaintiffs have necessary interest is question of fact.) * (1909) 32 Mad 131 (132, 133) (Subscribers of society suing office-bearers for their removal—Advocate-General's consent not obtained—Suit is not maintainable.)

[10] Definition of "interest" in S. 15, Religious Endowments Act, should not be imported in S. 92. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 384 (396) : 42 Mad 360 (S B).

[11] Persons who are in the habit of worshipping at a temple have sufficient interest within S. 92 to enable them to institute a suit under that section. (Vol 19) 1932 All 708 (709) * (1897) 24 Cal 418 (427) * (Vol 5) 1918 Lah 76 (77, 78) * (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 495 (496). [12] Mere right to worship in a temple is not such an interest as is sufficient to enable the plaintiffs to sue under S. 92. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 384 (396) : 42 Mad 360 (S B) * (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 1 (6) : 11 Lah 142 * (Vol 13) 1926 Lah 425 (425) * (Vol 12) 1925 Rang 294 (294) : 3 Rang 213.

[13] Persons entitled to worship can sue. (Vol 32) 1945 Sind 177 (187) : 1 L R (1945) Kar 224. [14] The residents of the locality where the choultry is situate and who are also members of the community for whose benefit the charity was founded are persons having an interest in the charity within the meaning of S. 92. (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 943 (944) * (Vol 10) 1923 Lah 513 (519) (Trust providing for maintenance of widows and orphans of certain caste and dedicating building as dharamsala—Some members of caste living in mohalla in which institution is situate can maintain suit.) * (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 238 (240) * (Vol 21) 1934 Pesh 57 (61). [16] Founder laying down persons in whom right of control is vested—It is not only such persons that can sue. (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 428 (428).

[4] Mere denial by trustee of existence of trust to property in his possession does not oust jurisdiction of Court. (Vol 23) 1936 Mad 449 (451) * (Vol 21) 1934 Nag 277 (277) (Defendant denying trust — Suit for mere declaration without further relief of possession can be brought.) * (Vol 19) 1932 Pat 33 (52) : 11 Pat 288 (Section 92 applies although trust is not admitted.)

[5] The words “any express or constructive trust” in S. 92 should be construed liberally and in a sense as favourable as possible to the assumption of jurisdiction by a Court under that section wherever there is a fair ground for affirming the existence of a trust. (1911) 8 All L Jour 1120 (1124, 1126).

[6] “Express or constructive trust” is not limited to “trust” as in English law—Constructive trustee includes the head of a mutt. (Vol 14) 1927 Mad 614 (617) : 50 Mad 567.

[7] Suit to enforce trust contained in will and other trust not completed are not contemplated by this section. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 1008 (1008).

[9] Powers of Subordinate Courts to issue injunction and punish disobedience thereof are confined within O. 39—Section 151 cannot be invoked to add to powers conferred by O. 39 — Mere act of taking possession in execution of decree after 'interim stay' order does not amount to breach of injunction punishable under O. 39. (Vol 25) 1938 Mad 190 (192).

1. Scope of the section.—[1] Section 95 is not inapplicable to cases in which plaintiff happens to be minor. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 886 (887) ; 59 Mad 415.

[3] Section 95 is not applicable to suits under ordinary original civil jurisdiction by virtue of Bombay High Court Rules (Original Side), R. 329. (Vol 13) 1926 Bom 523 (524).

[4] See also S. 250, Criminal P. C., which is analogous to this section.

2. Arrest or attachment before judgment.—[1] Suit for damages for attachment before judgment on insufficient grounds—Attachment not effected—No cause of action exists. (Vol 12) 1925 Bom 357 (357, 359) ; 49 Bom 629 & (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 260 (261). (Mere order for attachment not enough.)

[2] A defendant who has been arrested can be granted compensation though he did not receive the summons. (1891) 15 Bom 160 (162, 163).

[3] Section 95 does not exclude attachments under O. 38, R. 5 (3). (Vol 6) 1919 Mad 20 (20) & (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 92 (93).

3. Attachment or arrest must have been on insufficient grounds.—[1] To get compensation the party should affirmatively prove that the attachment was applied for on insufficient grounds. It is not sufficient for this purpose to show that he has properties which are greater in value than the amount at stake in the suit. (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 77 (80).

[2] Attachment granted only on ground of difficulty to plaintiff to realize his decree is on insufficient grounds. (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 429 (430).

[3] Question under 95 (a) is whether there are sufficient grounds and not whether sufficient grounds are stated in application for attachment. (Vol 24) 1937 Nag 126 (126, 127) ; I L R (1938) Nag 361.

[4] Application for removal of attachment dismissed and attachment withdrawn on deposit of amount—No allegation in application that attachment was obtained on insufficient grounds—Subsequent application for compensation under S. 95 held was not maintainable. (Vol 29) 1942 All 261 (263) ; I L R (1942) All 360.

5. Procedure for obtaining compensation under this section.—[1] Section does not prescribe any particular procedure by which a defendant wrongfully arrested should claim compensation; it is enough if the Court becomes seised of the matter on an application made. [But see (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 77 (78) ((Vol 21) 1934 Mad 638, dissented from.)]

6. Compensation, amount and basis of.—[1] Order refusing application under S. 95 without reasons is not according to law. (Vol 21) 1934 Oudh 429 (431).

[2] The words "expense or injury caused to the defendant" are not confined only to some tangible injury that can be measured directly in money but include also general damages for injury to reputation or the humiliation caused of necessity by the arrest. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 885 (886) & (Vol 27) 1940 Mad 77 (79).

[See also (Vol 13) 1926 Mad 962 (962). (Arrest on insufficient grounds—No evidence as to damages—General damages should be awarded.)]

[But see (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 695 (696) : 59 Cal 1082 & (1936) 164 Ind Cas 73 (73, 74) (Cal) (Humiliation and loss of prestige will not be included in the term 'injury').]

7. Court, which can grant compensation.—[1] A defendant has to apply for compensation only to the Court ordering arrest, etc. (1865) 3 Suth W R (Misc) 28 (28).

8. Provincial Small Cause Court.—[1] As to the applicability of the provisions of this section to Courts constituted under the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887, or under the Berar Small Cause Courts Law, 1905, see S. 7 (b).

[2] A Small Cause Court can order attachment of moveables and also award compensation for a wrongful attachment thereof under this section, though it cannot do it with respect to immovable property. (Vol 2) 1915 Mad 1072 (1075) & (1903) 26 Mad 504 (504, 505).

9. Regular suit, when barred.—[1] Malicious proceedings—Attachment before judgment obtained maliciously—Order of attachment not vacated and rights of parties determined on basis that it was right—Suit does not lie. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 821 (822) : 59 Cal 1073.

[2] A claim for compensation for wrongful attachment of property before judgment made in a counter affidavit disputing the propriety of the interim order is no bar to a suit for damages. (Vol 7) 1920 Mad 397 (398).

[3] Application under S. 95 does not bar a subsequent suit for damage caused by reaping and removal of the crop from the land which the plaintiff was prevented from entering by the Court's injunction. (1932) 1932 Mad W N 536 (536).

[4] It is not sufficient to show that the injunction was obtained on insufficient grounds; it must be proved also that the defendant knew them to be insufficient and acted from an improper motive. (Vol 31) 1944 Cal

289 (292, 293) : I L R (1944) 2 Cal 358. (Position if the order of the Court was void for want of jurisdiction or the act could be regarded as the act of the defendant himself or of the ministerial officer of the Court, fully discussed—English law on the point also discussed.) & (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 1 (6, 7).

[But see (1910) 13 Oudh Cas 357 (364, 365).]

[5] Malice is not necessarily hatred or enmity but any improper motive—If the motive for attachment is to enforce speedy payment, then also it is improper motive. (1912) 35 Mad 598 (602).

[6] Malice can be inferred from want of sufficient cause for application for injunction. (Vol 9) 1922 Lah 303 (304).

[7] A suit lies for maliciously and wrongfully obtaining a temporary injunction. (Vol 13) 1926 Cal 757 (760) (Plaintiffs' goods detained under S. 19A, Sea Customs Act, at the instance of defendant without reasonable cause—Plaintiff can recover damages.) & (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 247 (249) : 53 Cal 1008 & (Vol 9) 1922 Lah 303 (304).

[See (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 173 (176) : 42 Cal 550 (Per Richardson J.—Doubtful whether such a suit is maintainable in the absence of undertaking to pay compensation.)]

[8] A suit for damages cannot be maintained for obtaining maliciously and without reasonable cause a decree for perpetual injunction, which is set aside in appeal. (Vol 2) 1915 Cal 173 (175) : 42 Cal 550.

[9] Damages resulting from wrong attachment of stranger's property can be recovered from the decree-holder though he acts in good faith. (Vol 12) 1925 Nag 390 (391) & (1890) 17 Cal 436 (442) : 17 Ind App 17 (PC) & (Vol 16) 1929 Lah 200 (201).

Objects and Reasons.

"Clause 97. — The Committee have inserted an express provision to compel litigants to appeal from preliminary decrees, and have estopped them, on their failure to do so, from raising objections to such decrees in appeals from final decrees. On this point they accept the unanimous opinion of the Calcutta High Court. They think it unreasonable that parties should allow proceedings to be carried on to their final stage and large costs to be incurred if they intend to rely upon objections which could be taken at an earlier stage." — S. O. R.

[4] It is doubtful whether S. 99 applies to question about the constitution of or the right to maintain a suit. (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 445 (447).

[5] Lower Court not paying heed to S. 99 acts with material irregularity and its decision can be set aside in revision under S. 115. (Vol 13) 1926 Lah 402 (403).

[6] The provisions of this section do not apply to Courts constituted under the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887, or under the Berar Small Cause Courts Law, 1905 : see section 7 (b) — As to misjoinder of parties or causes of action, see O. 2, R. 3.

1a. Error, defect or irregularity, not affecting merits. — [1] Every irregularity does not vitiate whole proceeding — It depends upon nature, scope and object of provisions contravened. [2] This section applies only to errors or defects or irregularities in the suit or proceedings out of which the appeal then being heard arises and not to previous suits or proceedings which have come to an end. (1901) 23 All 499 (500, 501).

2. Error, defect or irregularity—Illustrations. — Appointment of guardian ad litem. — [1] The want of a formal order appointing a mother as guardian ad litem and the fact that the service of summons was not made on her, are not errors vitiating the proceedings ; but the irregularities, if they are shown to have prejudicially affected the minors, will invalidate the suit or the proceedings following it. [2] Though the irregularities in appointing a guardian before the date fixed for deciding that matter and the absence of the minor's consent may be condoned by S. 99 of Civil P. Irregularities as to evidence. — [7] Judge's failure to examine witnesses himself and allowing them to be examined by some one else is an irregularity but is no good ground for reversing the decision in the case. (Vol 15) 1928 Pat 438 (439).

[9] Failure to record the evidence in full in language of the Court is merely an irregularity which may be cured by the application of S. 99 of the Code of Civil Procedure. (1907) 34 Cal 396 (398, 399).

[14] The omission of the Commissioner to record his reasons for the admission of additional evidence as required by O. 41, R. 27 (2) does not invalidate the proceedings. (1933) 17 Rev Dec 507 (508).

[15] Document alleged to be lost — Loss should be proved before tendering secondary evidence — Omission to do so is only irregularity. (Vol 6) 1919 Nag 3 (5).

[16] The exclusion of evidence alone is not a sufficient ground for reversing the lower Court's decree unless the appellate Court comes to the conclusion that such evidence if it had been received ought to have varied the decision. (1884) 8 Bom 408 (410).

[17] Admitted documents cannot be objected to on the ground that they are used for some other purpose. (Vol 4) 1917 Cal 28 (28).

Framing of issues—Irregularity. — [18] Mere omission to frame an issue is not fatal to the trial of a suit. (Vol 13) 1926 Bom 384 (385) * (Vol 29) 1942 Pat 366 (368).

Court refused to set it aside as in substance the order was right. (Vol 4) 1917 All 153 (154).

[25] Order impliedly amounting to one of redemption may be treated as such under S. 99. (Vol 1) 1914 Nag 8 (10) : 10 Nag L R 150.

[26] Disposing of a case on Sunday is mere irregularity which is covered by the provisions of S. 99. (1907) 29 All 562 (563).

[27] Court instead of passing separate order with respect to filing of award combining it and judgment into one — Held that the procedure was not irregular. At any rate even if it was an irregularity, it did not mislead either of the parties and hence would be curable under S. 99. (Vol 23) 1936 Nag 246 (248).

[28] Judgment delivered according to award but without giving ten days for objection — Judgment cannot be reversed. (Vol 18) 1931 All 453 (454) : 53 All 669.

[29] Preliminary decree passed — Order for making decree for sale absolute made but formal decree not passed — Irregularity can be condoned under S. 99 if Court's jurisdiction or merits of case are not affected. (Vol 14) 1927 Bom 131 (133) : 51 Bom 125.

[30] Judgment written, signed by Judge at home, and communicated to parties by clerk in absence of Judge on account of illness — Case remanded for fresh hearing — Section did not apply to the case. (Vol 18) 1931 Cal 164 (165).

Pleadings, defects in. — [31] Omission to sign and to verify the plaint are mere irregularities within S. 99. (Vol 17) 1930 Lah 735 (735)* (Vol 20) 1933 All 295 (297) : 55 All 216 (Application to sue as pauper not properly verified)* (1913) 17 Cal W N 989 (990, 991)* (Vol 15) 1928 Pat 51 (53, 54)* (Vol 7) 1920 Pat 636 (638)* (Vol 10) 1923 Rang 206 (206) : 1 Rang 42.

[32] Omission to comply with provisions regarding presentation of plaint is irregularity which can be cured if plaintiff has acted in good faith. (Vol 18) 1931 All 507 (511) : 54 All 57 (SB)* (Vol 33) 1946 Bom 174 (179).

[33] The defendant could not object to the frame of the plaint in appeal, where it stated all the facts fully and did not in fact mislead the defendant. (Vol 3) 1916 Nag 84 (86) : 12 Nag L R 90* (1910) 34 Bom 72 (75, 82)* (Vol 22) 1935 Rang 240 (242, 243).

[34] Partner served — Omission to obtain directions of Court under O. 30, R. 3, is not an error, defect or irregularity affecting jurisdiction of Court in relation to defendant firm. (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 541 (542) : 59 Cal 496.

[35] Where on the construction of the plaint and pleadings it is found that the minor is really a party to the suit the mere objection that the minor is not properly described, is not fatal to the suit. (1887) 14 Cal 159 (163).

[36] In previous suit by Secretary of Samaj, defendant objecting to maintainability of suit under O. 1, R. 8 — Court overruling objection and holding suit maintainable without aid of R. 8 — In subsequent suit defendant contending that R. 8 was bar to suit as Court's permission was not obtained — Executive committee of Samaj authorizing Secretary to maintain suit — Questions raised in two suits were different and res judicata could not apply — Objection being technical case will be covered by S. 99. (Vol 16) 1929 Cal 445 (446, 447).

[37] In lower Court case treated under Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act — In appeal case not treated under that Act — Amendment of plaint not affecting merits of case — Formality of amendment was dispensed with. (Vol 15) 1928 Bom 425 (427).

Production and admission of documents. —

[41] The Appellate Court cannot reverse the decision of the first Court only on the ground that leave to produce a document at the late stage of suit, is granted under O. 7, R. 18 unless it is satisfied that the grant of leave has affected the merits of the case. (1909) 10 Cal L Jour 33 (37, 38).

[42] The document could not be received in evidence on payment of any penalty. It should not then have been received in evidence, but it having been admitted by the Court of first instance the lower appellate Court was not justified, in reversing the decree of the Court of first instance and dismissing the suit for the irregularity did not affect the merits. (1877) 1 All 725 (726).

Valuation—Error in. — [43] Errors in the valuation of claims are not errors, defects or irregularities which affect the merits of the case and that when such errors, real or supposed, do not affect the jurisdiction of the Court which originally tried the cause the appellate Court is restrained by S. 99 from ordering the reversal of the decree on account of such errors. (Vol 22) 1935 Nag 56 (56) : 31 Nag L R 266.

Substitution of legal representative. — [45] Irregularity — Rent suit by landlord — Heirs of deceased tenant already on record as parties but not formally substituted as his heirs — Mere want of formal substitution of heirs of deceased tenant is not a material irregularity — It does not reduce the rent decree to a money decree. (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 147 (148).

3. Execution proceedings. — [1] Appeal — Sale confirmed during pendency of — No loss or prejudice to party caused — Sale should not be set aside. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 1262 (1264).

[2] Attachment is only a step in execution the omission of which does not vitiate a sale of property unless material loss results therefrom. After the confirmation of sale, there can be no objection as to attachment, the want of which, being a mere irregularity, does not interfere with the executing Court's power to sell the property. (Vol 5) 1918 Mad 1262 (1263).

[3] Execution proceedings — Application for substituting legal representative's name can be made to the Court passing the decree — If it is not made to that Court it is mere irregularity curable by S. 99. (Vol 13) 1926 Lah 34 (35)* (Vol 12) 1925 Oudh 448 (450) : 28 Oudh Cas 330.

APPEALS FROM APPELLATE DECREES.

100. (1) Save where otherwise expressly provided in the body of this Code or by any other law² for the time being in force, an appeal shall lie to the High Court from every decree passed in appeal³ by any Court subordinate to a High Court, on any of the following grounds, namely:—

- (a) the decision being contrary to law⁴ or to some usage having the force of law;¹⁰
- (b) the decision having failed to determine some material issue of law or usage having the force of law;
- (c) a substantial error or defect in the procedure¹¹ provided by this Code or by any other law for the time being in force, which may possibly have produced error or defect in the decision of the case upon the merits.

(2) An appeal may lie under this section from an appellate decree passed ex parte.⁴³

[1882—S. 584; 1877—S. 584; 1859, S. 372.]

Second appeal on no other grounds. 101. No second appeal shall lie except on the grounds mentioned in section 100.

possession on declaring rent decree and sale thereunder fraudulent and therefore void—Fraud not being proved, rent decree cannot be varied or modified in plaintiff's suit, even though there might have been illegal exercise of jurisdiction by Court in rent decree. (Vol 24) 1937 Pat 147 (148).

4. Jurisdiction of Court.—[1] In S. 99 by 'jurisdiction of the Court' is meant the jurisdiction of the trial Court. (Vol 13) 1926 Lah 402 (402).

[2] The term 'jurisdiction' could only have been intended to be used in S. 99 in the sense of pecuniary or local jurisdiction or jurisdiction relating to the subject-matter. (1901) 28 Cal 324 (330) * (1911) 7 Nag L R 33 (34, 35) * (Vol 22) 1935 Pesh 151 (152).

[3] Jurisdiction, want of — Appellate Court will interfere although no miscarriage of justice is caused. (Vol 13) 1926 All 650 (652) * (1909) 2 Ind Cas 677 (680, 681) (All) * (Vol 5) 1918 Cal 435 (436) : 45 Cal 926 * (Vol 4) 1917 Nag 99 (101) : 14 Nag L R 71 * (Vol 29) 1942 Pat 1 (25) : 21 Pat 1 (FB).

5. Misjoinder of parties or causes of action. — [1] "Misjoinder" in S. 99 includes non-joinder. (1910) 38 Mad 436 (438) * (Vol 6) 1919 Bom 135 (135) : 43 Bom 575.

[2] Misjoinder—Merits not affected — Merits of case satisfactorily disposed of by trial Court in spite of complication of proceedings—No objection as to misjoinder can be given effect to in appeal—Joinder of parties and causes of action once made, striking out is discretionary with Court. (Vol 24) 1937 P C 42 (45) : 16 Pat 149 (PC) * (1909) 36 Cal 780 (798) : 36 Ind App 103 : 1909 Pun Re No. 93 (PC).

[3] The Appellate Court may in order to meet the ends of justice allow a party to amend the plaint or to withdraw the suit against the misjoined defendants with liberty to bring fresh suit. (1893) 15 All 380 (381).

[4] An objection as to misjoinder cannot be taken for the first time in appeal especially when the suit is decided on the amendments in the first Court. (1912) 17 Ind Cas 97 (99) (Mad * (1913) 18 Cal L Jour 260 (261)).

[5] Section 99 does not prevent Appellate Court from interfering on ground of misjoinder or non-joinder which affects jurisdiction of trial Court. (Vol 17) 1930 Mad 714 (718) * (Vol 7) 1920 Lah 19 (20) : 1 Lah 295.

[6] Misjoinder affecting the merits of the case cannot be passed over as a mere irregularity and condoned as suits under S. 99. (1904) 27 Mad 80 (84).

[7] The joinder of an unnecessary party to a mortgage suit does not involve its dismissal but is a mere irregularity. (Vol 6) 1919 Pat 325 (327).

[8] One suit by four plaintiffs owning separate plots of land against the same defendant for trespassing on all plots at the same time is bad for misjoinder, which is not a mere irregularity capable of being cured by S. 99. (1911) 34 Mad 55 (57).

[9] Non-joinder of Receiver is not fatal where order is in his favour. (Vol 9) 1922 Mad 439 (440).

[10] Misjoinder of both, of parties and of causes of action—Section 99 applies. (Vol 13) 1926 Lah 145 (146).

[11] Failure to obtain leave under O. 2, R. 4 is no ground to reverse or vary decree. (Vol 28) 1941 Bom 247 (250) : 1 L R (1941) Bom 361.

[12] If a defendant is sued by one only of two persons with whom he has contracted or by one only of two persons who have a joint cause of action against him, he has a right to have the action dismissed unless the other is joined. This is not merely technical (Vol 10) 1923 Mad 337 (337).

6. Remand, irregular order of. — [1] Remand order though case decided on merits by trial Court is irregular—But order, not affecting merits, would not be set aside by High Court. (Vol 1) 1914 Cal 163 (164) : 41 Cal 108 * (1907) 5 Cal L Jour 328 (333).

[2] An appellant is not entitled to ask the Court to reverse the decree of the Court below on the ground that it has been passed after an erroneous order of remand unless he satisfies that such erroneous order has affected the merits of the case. (1907) 5 Cal L Jour 71 (77, 78) * (1889) 13 Bom 449 (457).

[3] Assuming that an illegal order of remand can be validated by consent or waiver, the failure of parties to appeal against the order cannot be presumed to be consent or waiver. (1909) 32 Mad 83 (85).

1. Scope, object and applicability of the sections.— [1] Plain reading of S. 100 cannot be modified by inferences from judicial rulings. (Vol 22) 1935 Mad 70 (71).

[2] Section 100 is an enabling section and confers a right of second appeal. Section 101 restricts the grounds of such appeal only to grounds mentioned in S. 100. The restriction is imposed on the party appealing, hence a respondent in appeal under S. 100 is not debarred from challenging findings of fact against him. (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 59 (58).

[3] A right of appeal is a statutory right and cannot be inferred by implication. (Vol 29) 1942 Mad 73 (75) : I L R (1942) Mad 236.

[4] On a second appeal the decision of the lower Appellate Court is the only one to be referred in the grounds of appeal and not the decision of the original Court. (1913) 7 Low Bur Rul 39 (40).

[5] Appeal to District Judge from order of Collector under S. 74, Madras Estates Land Act—Order affirmed by District Judge — No appeal lies under S. 100 as order of District Judge is not a decree. (Vol 29) 1942

[6] Registration of a claim by Forest Settlement Officer — Appeal under S. 10, Madras Forest Act, to District Court — Decision is one of ordinary Courts and provisions of Civil P. C. apply — Second appeal is competent. (Vol 3) 1916 P C 21 (23) : 43 Ind App 192: 39 Mad 617 (P C).

[7] The right of appeal to the High Court under S. 109A of the Bengal Tenancy Act is subject to S. 584 of the Civil P. C. of 1882 and can only be exercised upon the grounds therein mentioned. (Vol 5) 1918 P C 92 (94) : 45 Ind App 183 : 46 Cal 189 (P C).

[8] Burma Courts Act (1922), S. 11 — All appeals which can be brought under S. 11, Burma Courts Act, are in addition to appeals which will lie under S. 100, Civil P. C. (Vol 18) 1931 Rang 56 (57) : 8 Rang 485.

[9] Suit for rent of agricultural land of value below Rs. 500 not coming under S. 13 (1), Burma Laws Act—Second appeal lies under S. 100 and not under S. 11, Burma Courts Act. (Vol 26) 1939 Rang 350 (350) : 1939 Rang L R 472.

[10] Appeal to High Court under Calcutta Municipal Act S. 142 is not a second appeal within S. 100 and therefore a finding of fact can be challenged. (Vol 14) 1927 Cal 802 (804) : 55 Cal 228 (Vol 15) 1928 Cal 450 (451, 452) (FB).

[11] Provincial Insolvency Act (1920), S. 75—Appeal under S. 75 lies on grounds similar to those under Civil P. C. (1908), S. 100 (1). (Vol 19) 1932 Cal 642 (643) : 59 Cal 1135.

[12] The provisions of these sections do not apply to Courts constituted under the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887, or under the Berar Small Cause Courts Law, 1905, see section 7 (b).

[2] No second appeal lies in the following cases by reason of S. 104, Civil P. C.: (Vol 23) 1936 All 763 (764) (Order rejecting application under O. 21, R. 90) (Vol 9) 1922 All 113 (114). 10. Contrary to usage having the force of law.—[1] Usage having the force of law means a local (or family) usage as distinguished from the general law. (1893) 20 Cal 93 (99) : 19 Ind App 228 (P C). (7 All 649 overruled.)

[2] Under the section the usage must be in derogation of the law, and the question at issue should be not only whether such a usage exists but also whether it is a usage having the force of law. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 255 (256).

[3] Decision as to what system of law applies is not decision on usage and cannot be interfered with in appeal. (Vol 4) 1917 Mad 255 (256).

[4] Under S. 100, Civil P. (Vol 4) 1917 Nag 147 (148).

[5] Questions as to the existence of an ancient custom are questions of mixed law and fact. The Judge must find what were the things actually done in alleged pursuance of the custom and then determine whether these facts so found satisfy the requirements of the law. 15. Question of law, question of fact and mixed questions of law and fact—General.—[1] Questions of law and of fact are sometimes difficult to disentangle. The proper legal effect of a proved fact is essentially a question of law, so also is the question of admissibility of evidence and the question whether any evidence has been offered on one side or the other. But the question whether the fact has been proved, when evidence for and against has been properly admitted, is necessarily a pure question of fact. (Vol 5) 1918 P C 92 (93) : 45 I A 183 : 46 Cal 189 (P C) * (Vol 4) 1917 P C 77 (77) (P C) * (Vol 19) 1932 Oudh 283 (284) : 7 Luck 116 * (Vol 9) 1922 Oudh 98 (98).
